We Lost Prestige
Women and Secrets
How Much Is Too Much?
Good News—2 Kinds

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

News comes from Paris very sad news—"America has lost prestige in European eyes."

Yes, indeed, and when the sailor from the ship begins to sober up, puts the remainder of his "bank-roll" in his pocket and starts to walk out of the door, he "loses prestige" in the eyes of the resort owner. If this nation would start, under proper leadership, another magnificent squandering debauch, open wide its pocketbook and say to Europe: "Won't you please accept a few more billions?" all our prestige would come back.

A Supreme Court justice, finding six women in his Grand Jury, warns them solemnly that they must keep all transactions secret. "This may be a hardship upon the women," the judge remarked.

Not more than upon men. Every reporter can tell the learned judge how simple it is to get everything that happened from Legislators meeting in secret session. And information from masculine Grand Jurors is not unheard of.

The theory that women cannot keep a secret is as old and foolish as the theory that a basilisk could kill with a look of his eye, or that rubbing it with garlic would increase the strength of a magnet. Women had to learn to keep secrets to protect their children and themselves from the brutality of primitive husbands. It would surprise some gentlemen to know that secrets are locked up permanently in the lady babbling beside them.

What is money? How much is too much? What would be REAL "inflation"? You could print in this land is on a paper, not a gold basis, because she has not enough gold to take care of the notes she is printing. You are told that Germany is ruined because she has been printing billions of paper marks.

Here are facts about the amount of money in the United States actually in circulation. The increase during the last year was $500 for each person. The total amounts to exactly $50.12 per capita.

In other words, if all the money in the United States was evenly divided, every man, woman and child would have $50.12. You can see that THAT is not inflation.

In slave days a sound black man was worth at least $1,000. You could get that for him in cash. The cash available in the United States for every man, woman and child is about 6 per cent. of the cash value of an average black slave.

If we had a circulation of a thousand dollars for every full-grown man and woman, that really wouldn't be inflation, it would be like a mortgage of a hundred dollars on a house worth 20,000. Inflating money means trouble, for it unbalances conditions and puts up prices. But it doesn't necessarily mean hopeless bankruptcy.

"Sound bankers" would call you a financial anarchist if you advised printing more money in this country and using it to pay government debts instead of putting out government loans at 6 per cent. At the same time, if the government did issue 20 or 30 more billions of currency those banks would take it quickly enough, KNOWING THAT IT IS GOLD.

Two pieces of good news: One about the American army in Germany, now doing nothing, spending daily millions taken from people half starved; the other about blackberries.

The American army in Germany is to be reduced from 15,000 to 8,000 men. Mr. Harding will probably reduce it from 8,000 to nothing when he comes in.

The blackberry news tells of a variety four times as large as the biggest cultivated American blackberry discovered in Colombia by American scientists. If this superblackberry bush thrives in the United States, the discovery will be as valuable to this country as were to Rome the fruit trees, hitherto unknown, that Lucullus brought from his wars in Asia.

It is curious that in some European countries, including France, blackberries are looked upon as uneatable and allowed to go to waste. It was so, not many years ago, with tomatoes in this country. They were called "love apples," nobody ate them, they were said to be poisonous. Now the juice of stewed tomatoes is given to infants to supply them with "vitamines," so necessary to life.

Every day the same news, more men out of work, more wage cuts. Four thousand men are locked out of the silk mills in New Jersey, 16,000 may follow. Wages are reduced and working hours increased.

People that earn small wages are not the only sufferers. Mr Lasky of the Famous Players says moving picture stars must have their pay cut, one-third at least, which would mean a loss of a hundred or two hundred thousand dollars a year to some of the young ladies and gentlemen.

WADE TO BE HANGED MAY 20

Nott's Slayer Accepts Death Sentence Without Betraying Slightest Emotion

Bridgeport, Ct., Jan. 13.—Elwood B. Wade, 23-year-old milkman, father of two children, was today sentenced to be hanged on May 20 next within the walls of the State Prison at Wethersfield for murdering George F. Nott at the latter's home here August 20 last.

Sentence was imposed by Judge George F. Hinman in Fairfield County Superior Court. The courtroom was comfortably filled. The condemned man declined to make any final statement. He looked boyish and dapper in a gray suit.

All of his relatives remained away from court. They preferred not to witness the scene. The last man hanged in Connecticut State Prison was Joseph Buonomo, about eight years ago.

The proceedings today lasted ten minutes. Judge Hinman entered court at 10:15. State's Attorney Cummings moved for sentence. Judge Hinman asked Wade's counsel, Attorney William H. Comley, if he had any final statement to make. Comley said he had nothing to say.

The court then put the same question to the prisoner, who stood at the attorneys' table, within five feet of Judge Hinman, both hands resting lightly on the table.

"No," replied Wade in a clear voice.

TO CUT AMERICAN ARMY IN GERMANY TO 8,000

Washington, Jan. 13.—The American forces in Germany have been ordered reduced from 15,000 to 8,000, Secretary of War Baker informed Representative Brynes, Democrat, of South Carolina. The cost of maintaining a force of 15,000 in Germany is approximately $75,000 a day, according to the secretary. Further reduction of the forces will be gradual, the secretary said.

COLUMBUS CITY HALL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Columbus, O., Jan. 13.—Fire, which started in the gymnasium on the third floor, destroyed the Columbus City Hall, one of the oldest public buildings in the city. Many valuable records were lost, it is thought.

Nearby business blocks which were threatened by the flames were saved with slight damage.

CARDINAL GIBBONS OUT OF BED AGAIN

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 13.—Cardinal Gibbons was able to leave his bed again yesterday and ventured from his room in a wheel chair. His physicians said that he was slightly stronger.

ETHEL BARRYMORE

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 12.—The condition of Ethel Barrymore became worse today and she was removed to Christ Hospital. She is suffering from articular rheumatism and was forced to cancel her engagement at the Grand Opera House last week.

DIPLOMACY SOCIETY FORMED IN JAPAN

Tokio, Jan. 13. — Demonstrations against America and Americans in Japan have failed to materialize since the passage of the California measure by that State in November. The nearest approach to a "demonstration" has been the organization of the People's Diplomacy Society, sponsored by numerous newspapermen and political leaders. Two demands voiced at the first meeting of the organization were the necessity for an alliance with China whereby Japan might protect her interests the better in the Far East and the overthrow of the Hara Ministry.

BELIEVE FUR ROBBERS ARE HEADED FOR BOSTON

Worcester, Jan. 13.—Motor thieves who cleaned out the Markon Fur Shop at No. 40 Pleasant street are believed to have made for Boston to dispose of their loot which amounted to $20,000 in high grade fur coats for women.

FIRST WOMAN DOCTOR PENNILESS AT 82

Paris, Jan. 13.—Madelina Bres, who is now eighty-two years old, and who was the first woman in the world to obtain a doctor's degree, is blind and penniless. She has been offered by the state charities a bed in the public ward in a home for the aged.

BOSTON YOUTH ESCAPES PLYMOUTH INSTITUTION

Plymouth, Jan. 13.—Search is being made for Elmore Blair, aged nineteen, of Boston, a truant, who escaped from the local county farm. He was sentenced to serve two months for a statutory offence by the Brockton court. But two weeks of his sentence remained.

FIRE DRIVES OCCUPANTS FROM WEST END HOUSE

Fire starting in the basement of the four-story brick dwelling at No. 64 West Cedar street, West End, early today, threatened the entire building with destruction and drove the occupants into the street. Acting Deputy Chief Edward Shallow and his men, however, soon extinguished the flames after damages estimated at $400 had been done. The house is occupied by William Paul and is owned by Mrs. Dorothy Newell.

STUDENT IN DOCTOR'S CARE

Joseph F. Lautner, Harvard Senior, Who Disappeared, Is Found

With shattered nerves, sorely in need of medical care and rest, Joseph F. Lautner, missing Harvard senior and president of the Glee Club, was found today at Denver, Col.

News of the discovery of the young man, who disappeared from his Cambridge room Monday night, was contained in telegrams received by Dean Henry A. Yeomans at University Hall.

The telegrams, which were quite brief, were sent by Mrs. Emille Lautner of Evansville, Ind., the youth's mother, and a Dr. Hickey of Denver. Mrs. Lautner stated that her son had gone to Denver to visit her sister and was now being cared for by a physician.

Dr Hickey's wire stated that, although in need of medical care and rest, young Lautner was not in a serious condition.

Alarmed by his strange absence, Harvard University officials personally directed the hunt, and appealed to the police of Boston and all large cities.

Lautner had a room in the students' lodging house conducted by Miss Caroline Damon of No. 163 Trowbridge street.

Lautner is chorister of the senior class and was chosen to lead his classmates in the singing of the Harvard ode on class day. He is also president of the Harvard Glee Club which recently was invited by the French government to make a tour of France this summer.

CHAMBER TO PROBE HOUSING

Public Hearings on Building Tie-up to Begin January 31

The Boston Chamber of Commerce, through a special committee, today began a probe of conditions that have tied up building construction in Boston and have resulted in a shortage of 3,248 homes, besides interfering with the commercial and manufacturing activities of the community.

The committee announced its intention of conducting a thorough inquiry to throw the spotlight upon the situation impartially, believing public opinion will correct the evils.

The committee consists of James E. McConnell, attorney, chairman; Edmund Billings, collector of the port; Stanley King, shoe manufacturer; Charles T. Main, engineer and architect; Frederic S. Snyder, wholesale merchant. A. E. Pinansky is attorney for the committee and M. D. Liming of the Chamber of Commerce executive force, secretary.

The committee will open hearings at 10 a. m., Monday, January 31, and they will be held daily from 10 to 1 until all who desire have been heard. The hearings will be at the Chamber Building, India and Milk streets, and will be open to the public.

Invitations have been issued to the United Building Trades Council and

Shooting of Langdon 'Regretted' by Tokio

Washington, Jan. 13.—Secretary Daniels today announced he had turned over to the State Department all reports on the shooting of Lieutenant W. H. Langdon and asked the State Department to pursue the matter diligently. "This is a most serious affair," the secretary said.

Grocery Sales Fall Off 25 Per Cent.

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Americans must be going in for "light diet." So thinks the Federal Reserve Board.

Big slumps in the volume of grocery business in the United States, noted by bank observers, show the people are eating less than during the war period. Drops of from 25 to 30 per cent. in sales are reported in many reserve bank districts.

Tokio, Jan. 13.—Regret was expressed in a statement issued by the War Office today admitting that Lieutenant W. H. Langdon, chief engineer of the American cruiser Albany, had been shot and killed by a Japanese sentry at Vladivostok.

The War Office statement declared that an investigation of the Langdon killing was under way. The announcement from the War Office was the first official admission here of the shooting.

Boston Officer Shot in Back by Jap Sentry

Washington, Jan. 13.—Lieutenant W. H. Langdon, engineer officer of the American cruiser Albany, killed by a Japanese sentry at Vladivostok, was shot in the back, it is shown in an official report from Rear Admiral Cleaves, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, made public by Secretary of the Navy Daniels today.

Records of the Navy Department show that Langdon was born at Brandon, Vt., in 1888, and entered the service as an enlisted man. His next of kin in his mother, Mrs. Idella I. Langdon, residing at No. 17 Thomas street, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Langdon was in full uniform when shot, Admiral Cleaves stated.

The lieutenant's version of the affair, according to the official report, was that he had been halted by the Japanese sentry and permitted to pass. When he was about six feet beyond the sentry the latter fired.

Educator's Attack on Irish Stirs Maine

Bangor, Me., Jan. 13.—As a result of an alleged attack on the Irish by Professor L. J. Pollard of the University of Maine, in which he was said to have characterized them as a fighting people, unfit and incapable of self-government, much feeling has been aroused here.

Public school teachers of Irish extraction have sent to President Aley of the university a letter protesting vigorously against the alleged utterances of Professor Pollard, and it is expected official action will be taken.

In their protest the teachers asked that Professor Pollard be prohibited from making further addresses to Bangor teachers. The statements in question were said to have been made in a lecture before the psychology class of the Teachers' Club at the high school assembly hall. Thus far no action has been taken by President Aley.

According to reports, Professor Pollard was scheduled to talk on psychology only. He was said to have digressed to a considerable extent, however, and at length took up the Irish question. Professor Pollard was quoted as first criticising the newspapers for publishing long and vivid accounts of events in Ireland, such as the burning of part of Cork.

He declared, it was said, that the papers were wasting space, as these things were of little or no interest in this country, the troubles of Ireland being no concern of ours.

As illustrating the alleged baneful effect of these stories, Professor Pollard is reported as saying that on arriving at his home one evening he found his wife in a state of great nervous excitement, induced by the

SINN FEINER TO DIE MONDAY

Murphy, Accused in Shooting at Cork; De Valera Is "Immune From Arrest"

Dublin, Jan. 13.—Joseph Murphy, a Sinn Fein leader, who was condemned to death by a court-martial at Cork for shooting a British soldier, will be executed on Monday, it was announced today.

London, Jan. 13.—Definite instructions have been issued to the military in Ireland not to arrest De Valera, according to an Irish office statement, which said:

"Dublin Castle now knows where De Valera lurks and where he is sleeping, with whom we is conferring, in fact everything about his movements. He has been sleeping in a different house every night for fear of arrest, but when as a matter of fact official instructions to the police and military are for them to look the other way if they should meet him.

"They could have arrested him half a dozen times if they desired."

Subsequent official attitude as to De Valera remaining at liberty is dependent upon the character of the proclamation to the Irish people which is expected this week. He will be arrested at once, say officials, if his speeches are seditious.

WAGES OF THOUSANDS OF MILL HANDS SLASHED

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 13.—The Mount Vernon-Woodberry Mills, Inc., largest manufacturers of cotton duck in the United States, have reduced the wages of their several thousand employes 17½ per cent. on a uniform basis from the pay scale prevailing during the war period and up to January 1 of the present year. There are three groups of the corporations' mills in Baltimore. Other mills are operated by the company at Columbus, S. C., and Tallahassee, Ala.

1,000 LAID OFF AT LYNN

Out at General Electric Plant Follows Order to Reduce Force 10 Per Cent.

More than 1,000 employes of the General Electric Company's plant at Lynn have been laid off, some of them indefinitely, as the first part of a program which union leaders say calls for a general reduction in the working force, consisting of 15,000.

A notice from Schenectady headquarters posted today in the plant stated that 10 per cent. of the working force would be laid off indefinitely, and it was admitted in semi-official sources that this preceded a general wage reduction.

Following the footsteps of the textile operatives in Fall River and New Bedford, Salem Local No. 32 of the American Federation of Textile Operatives voted to accept, under protest, the 22½ per cent. wage cut announced by the Naumkeag Steam Cotton Company, in its Salem mill and its hosiery in Lynn. The three other Salem unions have yet to vote on the same question.

Local 32 of the weavers' union and the Whittall Carpet Company in Worcester are marking time, each awaiting the other's move in the wage dispute. The company announces it will cut wages 25 per cent. beginning next Monday and the union has refused to accept the reduction proposed. The union has asked its national officers for an opinion on the matter.

The Standard Silk Mill in Phillipsburg, N. J., one of the largest in the East, which has been closed for five weeks, announces it will resume operations Monday with a reduction in wages of from 19 to 25 per cent.

115 ENLISTED MEN IN NEW NAVAL CLASS

Ontaneda's Captain and Crew Rescued 1,000 Miles East of Boston

By International News Service.

New York, Jan. 13.—The captain and crew of twenty-four men of the Norwegian freighter Ontaneda, en route from New York to Norway, were rescued just as their ship was sinking 1,000 miles east of Boston, by the freighter Fanad Head, according to a wireless message received here today.

The message was relayed by the Cunard liner Imperator.

Captain Eriassen and the crew of the distressed vessel, when the Fanad Head reached her, had taken to two lifeboats, although a storm was raging, the radiogram said.

The rescuing ship was 100 miles distant when it received the Ontaneda's call for help. The rescued captain and crew will be taken to Dublin, the next port of call of the Fanad Head.

OVER HALF THE PEOPLE IN U. S. LIVE IN CITIES

Washington, Jan. 13.—For the first time in history, more than half of the population of the United States is living in "urban territory," the Census Bureau announced today. The bureau declares the 1920 census figures show that of the total population of the United States 54,816,676 are living in urban territory and 51,394,295 in rural districts.

NOTT'S SLAYER ACCEPTS DEATH PENALTY WITHOUT EMOTION

SENTENCE PRONOUNCED.

Judge Hinman ordered that nobody be allowed to stand and directed that not the slightest sound mar the words of sentence, which he solemnly read from a leather-covered book. The court said:

"You, Elwood B. Wade, are herewith remanded to Fairfield County Jail, and from there to be conveyed within twenty days to the Connecticut State Prison at Wethersfield, and there, within the walls of that prison, on May 20, 1921, before the hour of sunrise, you are to be taken by the warden and hanged by the neck until you are dead."

Wade stood without a tremor of feature or limb, nor did he change color when he heard the words.

Glancing at the ceiling, Judge Hinman hesitated, and then, with increased solemnity, pronounced the final sentence of the death penalty, "And may God have mercy on your soul."

When the judge stopped talking Wade glanced around the court room, centring his gaze on the press table and counsel. Before court convened he had been in a jovial mood. He joked and laughed with the reporters and his guard. There was nothing strained or worried in his behavior before Judge Hinman mounted the bench.

JOKES WITH GUARD.

He asked one of his guards why there seemed to be less people in court than on trial days and was told that nobody was allowed to stand, by order of the court, today. He jocosely remarked that spectators ought to be charged admission.

He ate a substantial breakfast at the jail and told the reporters that he hadn't slept very well because the prisoner in the next cell had snored so loudly.

When he was brought to his cell after the verdict his only exclamation was, "Gee." He made no other comment.

The jury was out six hours. The trial of Wade, the first of the three defendants indicted on the charge of complicity in the murder of Nott, lasted eight court days. It excited keen local interest. George E. Nott was brutally attacked. He was beaten with an iron bar, shot three times and stabbed eighteen times.

His widow, Mrs. Ethel Nott, alleged paramour of Wade, is in jail under a murder indictment and will be tried later, as will John B. Johnston, who is alleged to have aided Wade.

Miss Julia Moran, court matron, carried word of the verdict to Mrs. Mary Wade, wife of the condemned man, who is a patient at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Mrs. Wade, a mere girl, is suffering from a nervous collapse due to the trial. The two children, Gertrude, five, and little Elbert, two, are being cared for by Wade's parents.

WIFE BREAKS DOWN.

"You don't have to tell me. I can read it in your looks," exclaimed Mrs. Wade, when Miss Moran entered the hospital ward. "I know. They have convicted Elwood. What will our poor children do? Only this morning Gertie was here and asked why it was she couldn't go to see her daddy."

"Mrs. Wade then broke down and buried her face in the pillow," said Miss Moran.

Wade's devoted father, Elbert Wade, who is reported to have spent most of his savings in defence of his son, remained in court until the verdict, but was not on hand for the final act in the drama. Mrs. Nott was in her cell.

The fact that she and Johnston turned State's evidence against Wade will not help them at their respective trials, say counsel for the prosecution.

It is not expedient to try Mrs. Nott and Johnston at this term of court, State's Attorney Homer S. Cummings told Judge Hinman today after the death sentence had been pronounced.

"I have notified the counsel to be ready to try the case in the February term of court," he said.

This term begins the third Wednesday of next month.

Attorney William H. Comley, counsel for Wade, when asked today if he contemplated any move for a new trial or executive clemency for the man, replied: "I don't know and I haven't anything to say at this time."

ROXBURY LEGION THANKS HEARST

Lauds American Spirit and Praises Stand for Bonus to Veterans

We, the undersigned officers of the Roxbury Post, No. 44, American Legion, by the unanimous vote of our post, which is one of the largest in Massachusetts, extend our heartiest thanks to the champion of the service men, William Randolph Hearst.

His papers are not only American in name, but in spirit. They hold no divided allegiance; their brief is for America and for America alone. We sympathise with the poverty and destitution abroad, but we realise that charity, like patriotism, should begin at home. A man who neglects his own home to feed his neighbor's is neither a decent father nor a good citizen. We saw by your Christmas Basket charity that there is plenty of cold and hunger, even in Roxbury.

Your splendid stand for the soldiers' bonus we heartily endorse. The American government, which has spent $30,000,000,000 of American money, can readily afford to spend one billion more, at home. Collect the interest on the British loan, Mr. Houston, amounting to $500,000,000 in the last two years. That will provide about one-half the needed sum. That defaulted interest is now being spent to outrage the people of India, Egypt and Ireland; on England's navy and her Black and Tans.

It is being spent to corrupt the sources of public information; to seize the cables and the oil wells of the world. It is being used against America, Mr. Houston, and the purposes for which we, members of the Legion, fought in the World War. This bonus money, to be spent not in Armenia, Hedjaz or Siberia, but here in America, will boom business, reopen our factories, stimulate industries, and give employment to many a service man still out of a job.

Again we thank your great publisher, Mr. Editor. Long may his publications endure—a monument of public enterprise—to continue for our common country their great American work. Yours for America,

M. J. O'BRIEN, Adjutant.
THOMAS A. DONNELLY, Commander.

TO TAKE UP $10,000,000 VETERANS' RELIEF BILL

Washington, Jan. 13.—Action to relieve the condition of thousands of disabled war veterans who are suffering from lack of proper medical treatment because of the government's limited hospital facilities was taken in Congress, when the House rules committee decided to bring up the Langley bill for immediate consideration under a special rule.

This will provide an appropriation of $10,000,000 for the construction of five government hospitals in various parts of the country, three of them for the treatment of nervous and mental diseases and two for tubercular cases.

BRITISH FIGHT AMERICAN COAL MEN IN EUROPE

Berlin, Jan. 13.—A "coal war" has broken out between England and America in Denmark, Holland and Switzerland.

Beginning with December English gas coal was selling in Copenhagen, Rotterdam and elsewhere on the continent at $13 a ton, when American coal began to enter into competition. Today it was reported that the British had suffered the loss of a large amount of business with American coal selling at $10.30.

Dog teams have been entered by the Brown Lumber Company of Berlin and by Arthur T. Walden. The Berlin ski jumping team, champions of New Hampshire, will defend the State title against several college teams.

"Dance of Aces" Is Latest From Paris

By International News Service.

Paris, Jan. 13.—"Do you loop?" is likely to be the up-to-date question in the ballrooms, for the latest dance, which is being studied by the Association of Dancing Masters in Paris—"the Dance of the Aces"—is based on the movements of the airplane.

The dancer of the future will be expected to be able to "bank," to loop the loop and to execute the mysterious step called in the airman's language, "the falling leaf."

It is feared that there will be many forced landings.

JAPAN 'REGRETS' LANGDON DEATH

Official Statement by Tokio War Office Says Shooting Is Being Probed

lows: Sentry claims his suspicions were aroused by seeing a foreigner flashing a hand lamp, that he ran across the street and called to him to halt, and that as he came near the foreigner fired one revolver shot at him; that he fired his rifle and when the foreigner fired two more shots and sentry fired one more shot, sentry claims that he ran back for the guard, but that the foreigner had gone when sentry and guard returned.

LANGDON'S STATEMENT.

"Langdon's statement is as follows: That he was returning to ship, using a hand lamp, and when he was on the sidewalk on the side opposite to the Japanese division headquarters, the sentry ran across the street taking the position 'charge bayonets' to the left and about six feet in front of him; that he halted until the sentry said 'Americanski,' to which he replied that he was and walked on past the sentry, that when he was about six feet beyond the sentry, sentry fired at him, the ball striking him in the back, at which he turned and fired two revolver shots. Then sentry permitted him to proceed to the ship.

"Langdon was in full uniform and both the clothes and the wounds show that he was shot in the back, the ball passing out at left side of chest.

"All Japanese are much concerned and call frequently, offering every assistance in their power. The result of the investigation will be reported to you."

Langdon's Mother Had Premonition of Danger

Mrs. Idella Langdon, mother of the slain navy lieutenant, had a premonition of disaster awaiting her son in the Far East when he was leaving their home at No. 17 Thomas street, Jamaica Plain, on his last furlough in January, 1919.

"I hope that you will see service anywhere but in Siberia," was her comment. He left to join his ship and start on the cruise that brought him to Vladivostok with the Asiatic fleet and death by a shot in the back from the rifle of a Jap soldier.

Crime was prevalent and life hazardous in Vladivostok, according to the last letter Mrs. Langdon received from her son. Lieutenant Langdon, however, expressed no fear and referred to his "trusty 45" as being sufficient to protect him. This letter was delivered to Mrs. Langdon about a month ago.

The slain lieutenant came to Boston from Brandon, Vermont, with his family when a schoolboy. He began a service of six years as a navy machinist when twenty-two years old. Five years ago he attained the rank of lieutenant, senior grade.

He is survived by his parents, a brother, Carl, who is an ensign on the U. S. S. Salem, and a brother, Clarence L., army aviation lieutenant, stationed at Dallas, Texas.

Cambridge Light Co. Grants Rebate

The armed neutrality between the consumers and the Cambridge Electric Light Company, which bade fair to break out in open warfare when the bills for December lighting were received and found to bear the increased charges authorized by the Public Service Commission to begin January 1, was resumed today after Welles E. Holmes, general manager and treasurer of the company, admitted it was all a mistake.

The increase allowed the Public Service Commission permits the company to charge an additional one cent per kilowat hour and one and one-quarter mills for each dollar above $6 it has to pay for coal.

This additional charge was granted by the commission despite the fact that it was shown at the hearing that the company had paid 20 per cent. dividend to its stockholders last year.

When the new bills were sent out bearing the increase a month before it became due, a flood of protest began flowing into the office of Mayor Quinn, whose own bill at the new rate told him the same story.

He promptly communicated with City Solicitor Peter J. Nelligan, who took the matter up with Mr. Holmes.

Nelligan today issued a statement in which he announced that the company had admitted haste in imposing the new charges and blamed a bookkeeper, saying that that employe had "misinterpreted" the commission's ruling.

Mr. Holmes, through Nelligan, announced that the company would immediately issue credit slips to every one of its customers, victimized by the overcharge, which credit could apply on the next month's bill or be taken in cash at the company's office as preferred.

IRISH ATTACK TROOP TRAIN

Tear Up Track and Fire on Derailed Coaches in Donegal for Half Hour

Dublin, Jan. 13.—Sinn Feiners opened a desperate battle at Dungloe, in County Donegal, when a military train carrying a company of British soldiers was attacked after being derailed.

The troops set out for Burtonport and news of their proposed departure reached the Republicans, who lay in wait with a considerable force, where they had torn up the track. The engine and coaches of the troop train were derailed near Dungloe and the Sinn Feiners opened fire from behind hedges with machine guns and rifles.

The soldiers dropped to the floor of the coaches and returned the fire. Every compartment of the train was riddled with bullets and after the fusilade had lasted for half an hour, the Sinn Feiners withdrew.

According to an official report the Crown forces did not suffer any casualties. They righted the train and reached Burtonport.

A skirmish between Sinn Feiners and members of the Black and Tans took place along the quays. The Black and Tans were in an automobile going to Macready's general headquarters with guns and pistols drawn in case of attack.

It was learned that one of the auxiliaries was wounded by a splinter from a bomb. Many shop windows in the vicinity were smashed by the explosions. A passing soldier picked up one of the unexploded bombs intending to throw it into the Liffey River. Before the bomb reached the water it exploded with a terrific report.

HOUSING PROBE BY CHAMBER

all its constituent trade unions, the Master Builders' Association, the Building Trades Employers' Association, the Boston Real Estate Exchange, the Boston Society of Architects, the Society of Engineers, Building Commissioner Herbert Wilson, the Boston City Rent and Housing Commission, the City Planning Board, manufacturers and dealers in building materials, and others.

Attorney Pinansky will occupy the time between now and the opening of the hearing in making a complete survey of the building situation in the community. He will have the co-operation of Malcolm E. Nichols of the City Housing Commission, and Ralph Adams Cram of the City Planning Board. Pinansky said today there were apparently 31,000 persons without homes in Boston today and the congestion was daily growing more serious.

BIG PROJECTS HELD UP.

The following is a list of the large building projects in Boston that are either in abeyance or have been affected by conditions to be probed.

John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company; Federal Reserve Bank; National Shawmut Bank Extension; new Lee, Higginson & Co building; Five & Ten Cent Savings Bank; Boston Chamber of Commerce; New England Telegraph & Telephone Company, Bowdoin square and at Dorchester; State Street Trust Company; Hood Rubber Company plant Watertown; Forbes Lithograph Manufacturing Company, Chelsea; construction for the Holland Company; Ginter Company; United Cigar Stores; International Steel Toy Company; Salada Tea Company; American Mutual Liability Insurance Company.

Fifty-eight houses in Mattapan for Wellington Hill Associates; twenty-five bungalows in the Aberdeen Section (Bonelli-Adams Company); Boston University College; Printing Crafts Building Corp.; Laboratory for Women's Educational and Industrial Union; Public Latin School on Avenue Louis Pasteur; Fire Station Commercial street; Municipal Building and Court House, Jamaica Plain; Municipal Building for Brighton.

Danville Wife on 46th Day of Hunger Strike

Danville, Ill., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Sadie Harrington today started the forty-sixth day of her hunger strike to force Ernest Harrington, her husband, to embrace her religion, in the belief that he is beginning to lean toward her view of things, her nurse, Ada Percy, said today.

Harrington told newspaper reporters to ask their readers to pray for him.

"I have been praying, too," he said, "but I can't get connection. If God gave my wife a message I don't see why He didn't say anything to me about it. So I have prayed for the truth in this affair.

"So far I haven't had any messages from God, and until I do I am going to stick by the old religion and keep on minding my own business and give everybody else a square deal."

reading of accounts of the murder of policemen and other servants of the Crown in Ireland.

He protested against the use of the columns of American newspapers for the spreading of such disturbing information.

Professor Pollard is then said to have plunged into his attack on the Irish, declaring they never had been a peaceable people. They had always been fighting, he is quoted as saying, if not against outsiders, then among themselves. According to Professor Pollard, a fight, public or private, possessed an irresistible fascination for an Irishman.

One report quotes him as saying: "The Irish are not fit for nor capable of self-government. Herd them all in a corner by themselves and give to each of them a brickbat, and if there were no Englishmen or Swedes in sight to heave the bricks at, they would attack one another."

The professor is then said to have offered the explanation that the men were not altogether to blame, as most Irish mothers were heavy drinkers and their children inherited bellicose instincts.

Dublin, Jan. 13. — A quantity of bombs and revolvers of German and American patterns was discovered in a children's park shelter in Dublin.

Dublin Castle officials say that the Sinn Feiners used the park shelter as a depot for their arms, making raids in Dublin and depositing their weapons in the shelter until again required.

PLAN RELIEF FOR IDLE SHOE HELP

Brockton Emergency Fund for Undernourished School Children Is Proposed

Brockton, Jan. 13.—The continued period of unemployment among the shoe workers of Brockton and the dire straits to which the workers have been reduced is a perplexing problem to municipal officials and charitable organizations.

Ways and means of helping the poverty stricken is the chief topic of discussion just now. The latest plan that has been developed by the Chamber of Commerce, which is acting as headquarters of relief, is a "donation day." It is proposed to appeal to every citizens who is in a position to do so, to bring bundles to church, school or other assigned places, containing anything that might assist in relieving the suffering among the more unfortunate families.

It has also been urged that the city council provide an emergency fund for feeding school children who come to school undernourished.

Emergency measures are being resorted to by civic and charitable organizations whose means have been taxed to the limit during the past few weeks by the urgent appeals for assistance.

The Brockton Rotary Club has organized a relief association which is to be incorporated for the purpose of lending assistance financially to worthy applicants.

It is estimated that fully 60 per cent. of the shoe workers are out of employment at this time. The remainder are working on part time.

PLOT TO MAKE RUSSIA PAY EUROPE'S WAR DEBT

Berlin, Jan. 13.—It is reported here that an international military intervention plan to enter Russia, overthrow the Soviets and stamp out Bolshevism where it originated, and to make Russia pay a large part of the European war debts, is being worked out in London, Paris and Berlin.

CLIMAX IN LORD MAYOR'S FIGHT

O'Callaghan's Appearance Before Irish Probers Forces Issue Between U. S. Officials

Washington, Jan. 13.—Lord Mayor Donald O'Callaghan, of Cork, by appearance here today as a witness before the American commission on conditions in Ireland, forced a climax in the conflict between the State and Labor Departments on the question of deporting the Lord Mayor for his coming here as a stowaway without a passport.

Acting Secretary of State Norman Davis, standing firm in his position that under the law his department has no choice but to order the Secretary of Labor to deport the Irish leader, today indicated that disregard of his orders in the matter might result in some yet-to-be-revealed measures.

State Department officials admitted that there were two courses open to them. One would be to request the Department of Justice to take the Lord Mayor in custody today when he appeared to testify. The other would be an appeal to President Wilson.

Secretary of Labor Wilson has taken the position that it is for him to arrange the details of deportation, and in making that decision he has, through arrangements made with the Lord Mayor's counsel, John H. Lawless, mapped out a program which insures sufficient delay in deportation plans to permit today's testimony.

O'Callaghan Describes Burning of Cork at Hearing

Washington, Jan. 13. — Donald O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, told the story of the burning of Cork and the events leading up to it before the American commission on conditions in Ireland today when the commission resumed its hearings at the Hotel Lafayette.

Frank Dempsey, chairman of the Urban Council of Mallow, will tell of the burning of that town by Black and Tans in September.

Other witnesses will be Peter J. MacSwiney, brother of Terence MacSwiney, the late Lord Mayor of Cork, who died on a hunger strike; Thomas Nolan, an Irishman, who witnessed the Croke Park shooting near Dublin, and Emil Peyolt, an American sailor on the steamship West Cannon, who observed conditions in Cork.

E. Hollingsworth Wood, New York attorney, has been selected permanent chairman of the commission. Wood is a prominent member of the Society of Friends.

TOKIO WILL HAVE FLOATING CREMATORIUM

Tokio, Jan. 13.—As the result of the action of some Japanese business men, Tokio will very soon have a "floating crematorium," the project having been sanctioned by the Metropolitan Police Bureau.

Mr. Fukinga, chief of the sanitation section of the bureau, explains that this will be the first of the kind in Japan. "In Holland the practice is long been in existence," he says, "but no attempt has ever been made here. Two specially constructed vessels of 150 tons each, with facilities for cremating thirty bodies at a time, will be used. The vessels will be anchored at a special wharf at Shibura, and after funeral services have been held on board the vessels will leave for a point about seven miles off the bay for cremation."

Organize Volunteer Police

Detroit, Jan. 13.—Because of the efficient work of the Citizen Volunteers who aided the police department in its two months' campaign against crime, a permanent organization to be known as the Detroit Police Reserve will be created immediately. Dr. James W. Inches, police commissioner, announces.

DANIELS ORDERS BALLOON PROBE

Washington, Jan. 13.—"I have ordered a court of inquiry to investigate everything in connection with the flight of the balloon from Rockaway to Hudson Bay," Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced today.

The personnel of the court, Daniels said, will be determined here, but it is expected that the court will be named after communication by the department with the commander of the third (New York) naval district.

The precept to the court, which will specify what is to be inquired into, obviously will be a long, carefully drawn document, in view of the sweeping statement made by the Secretary of the Navy.

Out of this court of inquiry there may be several recommendations for courts-martial. The court will investigate on the following lines:

1—The purpose of the flight and what was behind it.

2—What was the distance in mind when the expedition started.

3—What equipment did the men carry, how much supplies and how adequate for emergencies.

6—The sale of the letters of Lieutenants Kloor and Hinton, if such were the fact.

7—Whether any officer at the Rockaway station was a party to the sale of letters, though it is understood the writers of the letters are in the last analysis responsible for their being given publication.

"The court," said Daniels, "will determine once for all what took place and what were the motives of all concerned."

TRAGIC PLIGHT OF AUSTRIA

Welfare Worker Smith Tells of Starvation Among Children in Central Europe

New York, Jan. 13.—The following statement was made today by Barry C. Smith, Director of the National Information Bureau, after a two months trip through France, Austria and Serbia to study the work of American relief agencies:

"I have just come from Vienna. On December 5, there was in hand or in sight enough food to keep its two million people alive until January 1. The American Relief Administration was feeding 300,000 children every day.

"I talked with a pale-faced little girl of apparently six or seven years at one of its feeding stations. The 'kitchen mother' told me she was really eleven. Hundreds were in the hospitals suffering from frightful cases of rickets and other hunger diseases.

"The average daily milk supply reaching the city has been for a year about one-fifteenth of normal. During the Summer months, as much as 60 per cent. of this meagre quantity was sour.

"The average educated man in Vienna is struggling manfully to support his family on an income of from three to six thousand crowns a month, six to twelve dollars in American money. Potatoes cost 225 times their pre-war price.

"In Serbia there is food in plenty and no need of emergency relief, but the situation of the children is a sorry one. Health and child welfare work is needed.

"Poland is immeasurably worse off than Serbia. There again it is the children who show most terribly the effect of the war.

"Everywhere the Russian refugees complicate the situation. There are 120,000 in Constantinople, 20,000 in Serbia, hundreds of thousands in Poland. They are wretched, wherever they are, and no plan for caring for them has yet been worked out.

"This work must go on. Austria is probably in the most desperate straits, though Poland is not far behind. But American help is bitterly needed in all of them."

COOLIDGE URGES FARMERS TO RAISE MORE FOOD

Greenfield, Jan. 13.—Vice-President-Elect Calvin Coolidge, in an address at the annual dinner of the Franklin County Agricultural Society, urged farmers to make an effort to raise in the Bay State a larger proportion of the food needed by the people and of the feed necessary to sustain its farm animals.

"We need," he said, "to make our own State the producer of more raw materials, and to bring Massachusetts farming back to its former productiveness."

Airmen "Pals" Again; in New York Tomorrow

By International News Service.

North Bay, Ont., Jan. 13.—The train carrying the three American balloonists who have made so much recent history—Lieutenants Farrell, Kloor and Hinton—passed through here early today en route to Toronto. The balloonists will stop over in Toronto a few hours only and will then leave for New York, which they expect to reach tomorrow morning.

Lieutenants Hinton and Farrell were "pals" again today. They had "made up." Lieutenant Farrell said he had become convinced that Lieutenant Hinton did not mean that the letter he sent his wife should be made public and that he was willing to be friends again, as he believed that Hinton did not mean all of the things he wrote.

Both Hinton and Farrell blamed the nervous strain they were under, due to loss of sleep and fatigue, for the outbreak at Mattice in which Farrell knocked Hinton across a room. Both today declared they want to forget the incident.

The three officers were given a rousing, though brief reception at Cochrane, Ont., when their train passed through.

Lieutenant Farrell made a short speech, thanking the citizens for their cordial reception and for the many courtesies shown them since their balloon landed near Moose Factory. The train stopped at Cochrane only twenty minutes.

WEDDING IN INDIA TAKES PLACE WHILE IN AIRPLANES

London, Jan. 13.—A wedding in the air has taken place in India, a mile high over Calcutta. The happy pair were Charles Hanson Mann, stockbroker, and Miss Vera Garner.

On board the airplane, besides the bride and bridegroom, was a wedding party of eight guests and the clergyman.

At a height of one mile the engines were shut, and during a slow glide to earth the marriage service was conducted, every word being audible to those on board.

Greater Boston awakened today to the second coldest day of the Winter. The mercury reached 14 above at the Weather Bureau at 7:30 this morning, but immediately reacted a degree and remained at that point for the next few hours. The coldest day recorded at the offices of the Weather Bureau was December 26, when the low point reached was five above.

Unofficial temperatures reported from places in the immediate vicinity of Boston gave a considerably colder aspect to the situation. Lynnfield reported that the thermometer had dropped to six above, while Swampscott, Nahant, Waltham and Watertown each reported eight above as their low mark. Revere came along with a report of nine above.

The weather man says it may snow tomorrow.

VIOLINIST TO PLAY AT HOOVER DINNER

Miss Isolde Menges, the world's greatest woman violinist, has volunteered her services and will play at the Hoover "Invisible Guest" dinner in Symphony Hall tonight.

Miss Menges will appear through the courtesy of the management of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. She was to have made her Boston debut at the Symphony Orchestra concerts on Friday and Saturday, but because of the worthiness of the cause the management has allowed her to appear at the dinner.

She herself is deeply interested in the work of the Hoover European Children's Relief Committee.

Mr. Hoover is to be present in person and will tell the story of this relief work in Europe.

Monocle Is 'Verboten' to German Police

Berlin, Jan. 13.—The Socialist Prussian Minister of the Interior, Herr Severing, is rapidly falling into the ways and footsteps of his autocratic predecessors of the old regime by resurrecting the much used word "verboten." The Socialist minister has now issued an order forbidding the men and officers of the security police from wearing the monocles which some have affected.

Where the officers and men claim that they wear the monocles because of a difference in the sight of their eyes, they must submit to an examination by an officially appointed oculist.

Spare Pep, Say Medicos to Fat Men of 40

Should a man who is fat and forty give up exercise?

This question, suggested in an editorial of a newspaper down in Connecticut, was put to various Boston doctors and laymen who know what they're talking about as to fat men of forty.

DR. FITZGERALD ADVOCATES 'RASSLIN' WITH THE ASH BARREL

"Is forty the jumping off point," was asked further. "Should the forty-year-old, provided he is fat, lay down his courage and die?"

"He should not," said Dr. Bernard J. Carey of the State Department of Health. "A man of forty has lots of pep left in him yet. I know because I'm nearly that though not fat. He should go to work under direction, to get rid of this fat."

EXERCISE, SAYS "FITZY."

"The fat man of forty?" queried John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor.

"If he's fat and forty and single, let him get married. That will settle the fat business, if he does the ordinary jobs the married man should do. A bout with the furnace, a little golf game with the ash barrels, a round or two with a snow shovel daily will give the married man a decent figure."

"The fat man of forty?" Dr. William C. Woodward repeated. "Let the fat man take care! If he is in condition, it's all right for him to exercise, but if he has developed a few of those diseases which fat men are prone to, the exercise will finish him. It all depends on physical condition."

To which Dr. Christopher D. Thore, osteopathic physician, agreed. "You must find out the general condition before you send a fat man of forty to his ruin, by exercise," said he. "Exercise is necessary for the good condition of the forty-year-old, but it should involve less physical strain than for younger men.

URGE CAREFUL EXERCISE.

"If the poor fat man has high blood pressure, exercise will send the blood champing through his veins to such a tune that disaster will follow. But cheer up, forty-year-olds! You have no business to feel that you cannot exercise at all. You should choose your exercise, that's all. You should have it prescribed for you, scientifically."

And Dr. Charles Grapek, M. D. and D. O., finishes the advice to fat men, with a proviso. "If," says he, "oh fat men, your heart is perfect, your blood pressure normal, and all your organs are healthy, though you are fat, why then, as to exercise, go to it and bless your heart! If you aren't all right physically you should curb your ambition, remembering that no insurance company will take big risks on a fat man of forty who is otherwise bunged up inside.

"At forty, particularly at a fat forty, you cannot exercise as when you were younger. But certain exercise is obligatory, and you should graduate it, to lose your flesh, without hurting the rest of you."

Hints Rainbow Lobster Man Is Color Blind

The Great Lobster debate will not down. Now comes Ferdinand A. Wenz of No. 680 Tremont street with a letter on the subject. Mr. Wenz goes beyond the original question of whether or not blue lobsters exist while one is in the sober state. He takes up the lobster question with special reference to the cooking of them. Let him speak for himself:

Editor Boston American:

Having been interested in lobsters in many parts of the world for the past fifty years, I was quite astonished to read that Mr. Card saw one white, one red and one blue lobster in the same tub of water in Maine. I hope the gentleman was not color blind at that time. Curiosities usually come one at a time and far apart.

After studying the lobster question I have arrived at the conclusion that the best are caught between Portland, Me., and Massachusetts Bay.

Those caught farther north have hard shells and hard meat, and the waste is greater.

The best way to fix one of these fellows is to cook him in salt water for ten minutes for each pound. Cool in cold fresh water. Split and take out the lady. Cut in square pieces and fry in a little butter in a stew pan. Make a cup full of cream sauce, quite thick. Mix a sauce with lobster meat, season to taste, fill empty shells with it, cover with fresh bread crumbs and a bit of butter on top and brown the whole in the oven.

Serve to good company with a little ice in a glass. The rest you can put in yourself, and with the aid of it probably live another day in these hard times. If by chance you should run across a green lobster, hang onto him.

Very truly yours,
FERDINAND A. WENZ,
No. 680 Tremont Street.

HIT BY TRAIN, TENOR DIES

Gervase Elwes Struck in Back Bay Station by Express He Arrived On

Struck and seriously injured at the Back Bay station by the train upon which he had arrived from New York, Gervase Elwes, fifty years old, and a noted English tenor, died later at the City Hospital.

Elwes came to Boston to fill a professional engagement. With him was his wife, formerly Winifride Fielding, daughter of the eighth Earl of Denbigh.

Upon leaving the New York express, Elwes found that he had gathered up an extra coat by mistake and threw it to the conductor on the platform of the moving train.

He leaned too far forward and the car hit him on the shoulder, throwing him violently to the station platform. He sustained a broken collarbone, fractured ribs, punctured lung, laceration of the scalp and, it is thought a fracture of the skull.

WOMAN SOUGHT IN BANK PROBE

Officials Want Miss Wright to Explain Barre, Vt., Trust Company's Affairs

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 13.—Vermont authorities admitted today they are seeking Miss Mary Wright, former confidential employe of the Barre Savings Bank and Trust Company, recently closed by the State Bank Commissioner.

Information received here shows that the missing woman visited a sister in Lebanon, following the closing of the bank and the arrest of President Frank G. Howland, but she left there without leaving a trace of her destination.

Officers of the Bank Commissioner's office today said they wish to question Miss Wright, who for twenty years was secretary to the board of directors, cashier and general supervisor of the bank, regarding the bank's business.

FORMER CLERK ARRESTED.

A climax to this development in the affairs of the bank is the arrest of George A. Brown, a former clerk, who was taken in custody at Barre on a charge of embezzlement. He was arraigned before Judge E. L. Scott in the Barre City Court and released in $1,000 bonds.

Brown was arrested on complaint of State's Attorney E. R. Davis. He is now assistant superintendent for the Wells Richardson Company of Burlington. He is specifically charged with the embezzlement of $2,172.07 from the bank on May 7, 1920, just a week before he finished his duties at the institution.

The closing of the bank shocked the people of Barre, and the sensation grew when Chief of Police Sullivan arrested Howland, the widely-known and highly-respected president.

HOWLAND'S "RIGHT HAND."

Howland, who is fifty-seven years old, and has for years been prominent in financial and business circles of his section, was arraigned on a charge of embezzlement. After a sensational trial, in which he declared he had not personally profited by the looting of the bank, and pleaded in vain for a fine, Howland was sentenced to from four to seven years imprisonment in State's Prison.

He is married and had lived in Barre since early boyhood, although a native of Boston. The amount of his embezzlement was in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Miss Wright, who is about fifty-five years old, was born in Lebanon, where her sister, Mrs. Charles A. McNeill, lives at No. 24 Green street. It was this sister that Miss Wright visited after the bank's crash.

Miss Wright was regarded by the people of Barre, who knew her and her work, as the right hand of Howland, and his chief assistant in directing the affairs of the bank and trust company. When the bank closed she was officially "secretary of the directors" and cashier and general supervisor of the bank.

DROVE HOWLAND IN HER AUTO.

Her home here was at No. 15 Keith avenue, where she had a small flat. This flat is owned by the bank and Miss Wright is supposed to have paid $20 monthly rent.

For a number of years the bank had paid her a salary of $1,400. Before that it was $900.

On the floors are heavy imported carpets and the mantles and shelves have numerous objects of statuary.

Miss Wright, while admired for her business acumen, was not popular with the bank's customers because of her aloofness. This attitude extended to her social relations in Barre, where she kept very much to herself, although she belonged to one of the women's clubs of the place.

One of the few interests Miss Wright had outside the bank was a runabout, which cost $2,000, and which she drove about in constantly, sometimes alone and sometimes with Mr. Howland.

Bank Commissioner Carpenter, who has been going over the bank's books, declared that they are in "fearful shape," and intimates that the money named in the five counts of embezzlement against Howland, will prove but a part of the total speculations.

ALBERT H. WIGGIN HEAD OF CHASE SECURITIES

Albert H. Wiggin, former treasurer of the old Merchants' National Bank of Boston, and now chairman of the board of directors of the Chase National Bank in New York, has been chosen chairman of the board of directors of the Chase Securities Corporation, according to information received here today. Edward R. Tinker has been elected president of the corporation to succeed Mr. Wiggin. The latter became vice-president of the Chase National Bank eight years ago, relinquishing a partnership in an investment house of New York to accept that post.

50 MILLION LEFT TO MRS. DODGE

The increasing tendency of multi-millionaires to leave their estate to their widows, opening the way for women to become masters of finance, has again been demonstrated under the will of Horace E. Dodge, Detroit motor magnate.

Under the terms of this will, filed for probate in Detroit, the bulk of an estate estimated at $50,000,000 goes to Mrs. Anna Thomson Dodge, who takes her place as one of the wealthiest heiresses in the world.

By this bequest Mrs. Dodge joins the ranks of "Golden Widows," which included Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. Russell Sage, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. George D. Widener, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. William B. Leeds, Mrs. Potter Palmer and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

ONE OF 200 RICHEST PERSONS.

The Dodge fortune, while not one of the largest in the country, is yet of sufficient proportions to place its possessor in the list of two hundred persons who control $15,000,000,000 in this country. In France the same amount is controlled by 450 times that number of people or 86,000.

Horace Dodge, who died December 10 last, and his brother, John F., whose death occurred the preceding January, amassed their greater part of their fortunes in the Ford Motor Company. Purchasing a $5,000 interest in the company Henry Ford formed in 1901, this interest was sold back to the Fords several years ago for $12,000,000.

In 1912 the brothers began to build their own car, and lived to see their firm rank among the first five manufacturers in production. A recent Detroit estimate placed Horace Dodge's income at a million a month.

TURNED OUT WAR MATERIAL.

During the war Mr. Dodge's plant was turned over entirely to the service of the government, turning out among other things the mechanism for the French 155 millimeter guns.

Horace Dodge was the more reserved of the two brothers, his interests being concentrated wholly in his business, home, family and music. Miss Delphine Dodge, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dodge, was married last June to James H. R. Cromwell of Philadelphia, a son of the late Oliver Cromwell of Washington and the present Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury. Under the will, on the death of Mrs. Dodge, the estate will go to Mrs. Cromwell and Horace Dodge, Jr., her brother.

BEECKMAN AND HARDING CONFER

Rhode Island Governor Believed to Have Discussed Cabinet Places With President-Elect

By International News Service.

Marion, O., Jan. 13.—President-elect Harding plans to complete the rough draft of his inaugural address the first week in February, it was announced today.

He has given close study recently to the pronouncements made by each of the former Presidents on taking office and has collected a mass of data bearing on the problems which will face his own administration.

It also became known today that he expects to announce the appointment and acceptance of at least two members of his Cabinet within the next ten days. Representation from New England in the Cabinet, it was said, was a subject of discussion today between the President-elect and Governor R. Livingston Beeckman of Rhode Island.

Governor Beeckman's visit took on added significance when it became known that Senator Weeks of Massachusetts is expected to confer with Senator Harding before the end of the week. Senator Weeks has been regarded as one of the men most prominently in mind for Secretary of War or the Navy.

Mrs. Ogden R. Reid of New York, who was closely connected with the work of the Republican National Committee during the campaign, and Governor Beeckman breakfasted with Senator and Mrs. Harding this morning.

Senator Harding discussed financial conditions and the affairs of the railroads of the country with S. Davis Warfield of Baltimore, president of the Association of Railway Securities Owners.

WALSH DEMANDS REIN ON LOANS

Senator Calls for End of Secrecy on War Debt of Allies to U. S.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Further deferment of the interest of the ten billion dollars in American war loans to Great Britain and the other Allied governments and refunding of the present short-term notes covering these loans into long-time obligations by the Secretary of the Treasury without first obtaining the consent of Congress are prohibited in a joint resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat, of Massachusetts.

A companion resolution also offered by Senator Walsh directs the Secretaries of State and the Treasury to transmit to the Senate copies of all correspondence and documents relating to the negotiations which have been carried on in connection with the proposals to defer the interest and refund the loans. If any oral negotiations have been conducted, the second resolution also directs the two secretaries to advise the Senate as to the substance of the proposals discussed.

"It is time to throw off the veil of secrecy and mystery that surrounds the subject of our foreign loans," Senator Walsh declared.

Pointing out that the unlimited power now enjoyed by the Secretary of the Treasury in handling the foreign loan negotiations was vested in him in war legislation, the Massachusetts Senator urged that the time now has come "to restore our fiscal policy to a peace basis."

"The country, as a whole, and Congress in particular, are in the dark as to the plans of the Secretary of the Treasury for the disposition of this enormous amount of indebtedness," said Senator Walsh.

"The report that a representative of one of the associated debtor governments of Europe, Lord Chalmers of Great Britain, is soon to reach Washington to enter into discussion with our Treasury as to the refunding operations of a portion of our foreign loans is the reason that prompts me to ask Congress to act before our country is committed to what may be a short-sighted and unsatisfactory policy in dealing with these gigantic loans, and to what may also be a serious interference with the plans of those about to shape our foreign policies relating to world peace, disarmament, foreign trade and credits in the future.

WANT REINS TIGHTENED.

"Surely little comment should be required to show the urgency of action on the part of Congress to prevent a commitment that may be made without any consultation with the newly-elected executives of our government or the representatives of our people in Congress.

"I am strongly of the opinion that the American people want Congress to tighten somewhat the too free rein it gave in time of war in dealing with this gigantic loan.

"In some quarters it would appear almost an act of disloyalty to inquire about what the government's policy is to be, to suggest that the principal or interest be collected or cancelled, or to inquire as to what plans the government had made to protect and safeguard this debt. There is altogether too much of the impression abroad that this financial item is not one for public discussion. There is a leave-it-alone attitude toward this subject that is most un-democratic.

"These foreign loans would pay four or five times over the bonuses asked by our soldiers."

MRS. ERD TO FIGHT TO KEEP CHARLESTOWN POST

The State executive committee of the American Legion will meet next Wednesday night at the State House to consider revoking the charter of New England Post 29 from membership in the American Legion, because of the refusal of officers of the former All New England Women's Post to move their quarters from Charlestown, in accordance with a recent vote of State Legion officials.

Mrs. Daisy M. Erd, commander of Post 29, contends that despite the vote of the executive committee, and objections of Bunker Hill Legion Post that more than one legion post cannot exist in Charlestown, she will refuse to accept any order of legion officials, and will fight the case with the national legion headquarters, and if necessary will take legal action to maintain the charter of her organization.

Score Facilities for Women Jurors

Are women jurors successful?

Representative opinion throughout the country is divided on the question, some declaring them to be an emphatic success, while others are alarmed with the fear of distressing complications.

In the meantime Boston is preparing to test the matter to its own satisfaction, the system going into effect here next Summer. Women jurors will be posted on August 1, one juror being chosen for every 100 women voters.

Certain officials see difficulties ahead when the women become jurors.

CONDEMN CONDITIONS.

City Councillor David J. Brickley and District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier declare conditions in the courthouse to be unspeakable. They both asserted vigorously that many improvements would have to be made before women jurors could be accommodated.

Councillor Brickley said:

"We have thousands of new women citizens. It is reasonable, it is legal, to expect them to fulfil the ordinary duties of citizens, among which is to serve on a jury. Moreover, women have been full citizens for months now. Yet can we get any provision for them as jurors? We cannot.

"I happen to be chairman of the committee to provide a place for these women. But everybody to whom I go replies that they will take the matter under advisement, and there it stands. I have spoken to the Mayor, urging provision. He promises, but nothing comes of it. Nobody seems to care. The condition is shocking.

"Now, here are a few suggestions. We are met, when we ask for quarters for the new woman jurors, with the plea of poverty. Let me give you a few figures. It has been proposed to house, for convenience, economy, and saving of time and effort, the municipal court, the criminal court of Suffolk County, the district attorney's offices, the first four police stations, and the accommodations for the jurors, both men and women in the same building.

URGES FEE FOR WILLS.

"Now the figures. The two, old, antiquated buildings which house the police headquarters at Pemberton square, are rented at an annual figure of $18,000. That $18,000 yearly could be saved if the city bought a building such as is proposed above.

"Now here is another way that money could be got toward the building. Every will which is probated in Suffolk County, is probated for nothing. If a man leaves a will, it stands to reason he has property. If he has property, his heirs could reasonably pay five or ten dollars for the probating. That would bring in $100,000 yearly, toward the building.

"Then again. At present Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop use our courts—because they are in Suffolk County. But they do not pay us a cent. Why couldn't they be made to pay their share for the use of the building and the court? That would be extra revenue, to be used to defray the expense of getting a decent, modern building, where women jurors would be taken care of as decent men would wish to take care of their women folks, engaged upon the juror's solemn duties.

PELLETIER AROUSED.

To which District Attorney Pelletier returned a hearty "amen."

"With the granting of full citizenship to women," he says, "we will soon be confronted with the problem of their right and duty to serve as jurors. This will mean an extensive and expensive alteration of the court house in order to furnish them with adequate waiting rooms and toilet accommodations.

"The present conditions in the court house are unspeakable, particularly on the first and second floors of the north wing. Inadequate toilet facilities, no means to wash, and poor means of securing drinking water. No improvement in a hundred years! Conditions are probably worse owing to the numbers daily attending.

"There should be waiting rooms, the ones for women and children with one or two matrons in attendance to care for the children—The department stores give some such accommodation to women and children. Will Boston deny common decencies to those compelled to attend the courts?"

WOULD TAKE SITE.

District Attorney Pelletier suggests that the Legislature be petitioned to give Boston the right to take, by eminent domain, and to finance a site adequate for the accommodation of police headquarters, police stations No. 2 and No. 3, and for the Municipal Court for criminal business. The new building might include other things, the district attorney's office and grand jury rooms. With the removal of these departments, there would be room provided for the needs he mentions first.

Election Commissioner M. W. Burlen is not worrying about women jurors. "First we've got to divide the city off again into precincts, made necessary by the new voters, before we get to the woman's jury list," he said. "We do not have to post the women jurors till next August first," says he. "In choosing women we shall be governed by the same regulations as we are in the case of men. We shall choose one woman juror for every 100 women voters."

PARIS CAFE RAIDED AFTER $100 MEAL CHARGES

Paris, Jan. 13. — Following complaints that a party of Chicagoans had been terrorized into paying one hundred dollars for a plain meal in Pere Tranquille, a famous night restaurant, the Paris police raided the place.

Sixty persons were arrested, including eighteen Americans, all of whom were permitted to go after producing papers to identify themselves. They were warned, however, to keep away from Paris clandestine resorts in the future.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Advertisement.

RICH SOCIALIST WEDS BEAUTY

Prince Hopkins of San Francisco to 'Reform' His Young English Bride

London, Jan. 13.—"We do not agree in our social ideas, but we love each other and it won't take long to convert my wife," said Prince Hopkins of San Francisco at a reception in a London hotel after his wedding to a beautiful English girl, Miss Eileen Thomas.

The ceremony was featured here as one of the biggest Anglo-American alliances, and many columns were devoted to Hopkins' record as a Socialist millionaire. Hopkins gave out the details of his wooing of the handsome English girl, saying:

"I was pursuing sociological studies in London when I met Eileen. She at first violently opposed my views, but in my case it was love at first sight. Five weeks later I proposed to her. She refused me and I went home feeling that all the joy was gone out of my life.

"But the next morning she telephoned me to say that she had changed her mind. That was five weeks ago. Now we are married and I believe she will soon join me in the uplift movement, although I admit that a wife is not bound to agree with all her husband's social theories. We can live in harmony even differing on essentials which do not affect home life."

"What will American girls say when you return to California with an English bride?" Hopkins was asked by reporters.

"What can they say? My mother has tried to lure me into an American alliance before now. There are always a lot of pretty American girls around our home, but they must give me the liberty of saying that at least one British girl is more charming."

They will spend a honeymoon on the continent and in Morocco before returning to America.

NAVY COURT-MARTIAL FINDINGS FORWARDED

Findings in twelve court-martial cases heard at the Charlestown Navy Yard were forwarded to Washington today for approval. All the men tried were charged with being absent without leave. Eleven of the twenty-two bandsmen sent to Newport last week returned to the yard today. The others have been sent to different yards throughout the country. The men who returned have but a short time left of their enlistment.

MAKES RECORD TAXI RIDE TO GIVE BLOOD TO SON

CHESTERTON IS TRUTHFUL

By FRED J. McISAAC.

Gilbert K. Chesterton, English essayist, satirist and humorist, made his debut in a new role last night, that of a lecturer. It was at Jordan Hall and the audience was large, eager and seething with culture.

The title of the lecture was "The Ignorance of the Educated," a title which was quite "intriguing" as an earnest young thing in bow spectacles in a seat near me was heard to ejaculate.

Mr. Chesterton proved to be plump and benign. His identity was proved by Dr. Van Allen, the chairman, who said complimentary things which made the lecturer wiggle uneasily in his chair.

DOFFS HIS MASK.

When he took the floor he explained in a pronounced British voice that he came into this country distinguished as a lecturer, but as a matter of fact he was not one at all; that he purposed to throw off the mask. This the audience set down to modesty and tittered encouragingly.

Mr. Chesterton, however, meant what he said. He was obviously green on the lecture platform and he didn't have any more idea of what to do with his hands than John McCormack in grand opera. The right one bothered him particularly and he tried to park it in his trousers pocket but it kept slipping out.

He got a laugh by an indirect reference to prohibition when he said that if Patrick Henry could come back to America and look around he would revise his famous remark and condense it to "Give me death."

NOT ANGLO-SAXONS.

Then he explained that one example of the ignorance of the educated was the delusion that England and America were Anglo-Saxon nations. He gave a few facts to prove it wasn't so. Then he sat down.

As he had only been talking half an hour and talked so slowly he didn't say much, the audience sat in astonishment.

Dr. Van Allen tried to save the day by asking him what word he would substitute for Anglo-Saxon.

Mr. Chesterton arose, coughed, said he didn't know, and sat down again.

There was a painful silence as lecturer, chairman and audience gazed at one another. Then somebody started out and all followed. That was all.

GUESTS TO SIT ON FLOOR AND SIP TEA AT JAP FETE

A Japanese tea will be held at the home of Professor H. Augustine Smith, head of the Department of Fine Arts in Religion at the Boston University School of Religious Education, next Saturday afternoon. Fifty students have been invited to the tea, at which Professor Smith will speak briefly on the relationship between the United States and Japan, and will show a number of Japanese curios which he and Mrs. Smith received while on their recent visit to Japan. The guests will sit on the floor and Japanese tea will be served.

AUSTRIAN LEADER COMING TO U. S. WITH AID APPEAL

London, Jan. 13.—A Central News dispatch from Vienna says that a prominent politician, probably former Minister Joseph Dedlach, will leave for the United States to present to the government and the people the urgent need of help for Austria.

SAVES LIVES OF TWO SKATERS AT TILTON, N. H.

Tilton, N. H., Jan. 13.—Miss Viola Clark and Rudolph Robida, her escort, were rescued from drowning in the Winnepesaukee River here, by Eugene Benner, after they had broken through thin ice while skating. Benner pulled both ashore by the use of a long plank.

$20 COAL IN BROCKTON MAY PRECIPITATE PROBE

Brockton, Jan. 13.—Local coal dealers are said to be slated for an investigation in the matter of prices, this city being one of those where coal is sold in excess of the fair price, $16, fixed by State Fuel Administrator Eugene C. Hultman. Prices for household and furnace coal here range from $12.25 to $20 per ton. Fuel Administrator George W. Alden was summoned to Boston today to confer on the subject.

Brockton is poorly prepared to stand a spell of continued cold weather and at the end of the week the dealers reported but 3,147 tons of hard coal on hand, more than 1,000 tons less than the previous week.

11 VETS' BODIES REACH BOSTON

"Gold Starred" Mothers and Fathers Gather at Station to Receive Dead

"Gold Starred" mothers and fathers in silent grief, gathered at the South Station to receive the bodies of eleven veterans who sacrificed their lives on French soil in the World War. The bodies arrived in this country on the Transport De Kalb and were shipped from Hoboken to this city. It was the largest shipment of overseas dead to reach Boston.

Following are the names of the veterans:

Miss Mary C. Burke, assigned to Evacuation Hospital No. 7; Richard F. Winn of No. 39 Saratoga street, East Boston, G Company, 26th Infantry, Third Division; Private Arthur R. Duffie of West Roxbury, B Battery, 101st Infantry; Harry Gliskman, North End, 129th Infantry; Frank Ross, North End, died in action while a member of the Fifth Marines; Corporal Jack Kass of South Boston, 32d Division; Corporal Arthur E. Perkins of Salem, E Company, 319th Infantry; Private John Blockbridge of Swampscott, D Company, 127th Infantry; Sergeant Elmer Bolindias, Swampscott, Medical Detachment Base Hospital No. 24; Private John Kearns, Everett, 77th Field Artillery, and Private Abraham Lipsky of Everett, killed in the Argonne drive while attached to D Company, 34th Infantry, Third Division.

State Legion officials have arranged with posts in the various districts where they provide military funerals.

The body of Lieutenant Whipple H. Parker of Concord Junction, C Company, 318th Infantry, Seventy-ninth Division, who died of wounds received in the Argonne, has reached his home from overseas and will be buried from the State Armory in Concord next Sunday.

FULLER GUEST AT ST. MARY'S DANCE

With Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller heading the list of distinguished guests, St. Mary's Catholic Association of Cambridge will hold its annual New Year's assembly and dance tomorrow night in the Association building on Prospect street. Postmaster Baker, Department Commander James T. Duane of the American Legion, Mayor Quinn of Cambridge and Attorney Daniel F. Coakley, a pioneer member of the old Cambridgeport Gym, will be among the other guests of honor. Former President Martin W. Ryan will be in charge of the grand march, President James E. Curry of the general arrangements and Mrs. John E. Madden, president of St. Mary's Women's Association, is chairman of the ladies' reception committee.

HUSBAND, LEFT $100, MAY FIGHT WILL

Worcester, Jan. 13.—Police Officer William P. Barrett of this city has retained attorneys to represent him when the will of his wife comes up in Probate Court, though he has not decided whether he will contest it or waive his rights regarding disposition of the property. She left her husband $100 and her good wishes, and her sister, Catherine E. O'Brien, whom she named as administrator, the bulk of the estate, valued at about $5,500.

SEEK LYNN NIECE OF DEAD WEYMOUTH MAN

The Weymouth police have asked the Lynn authorities to help in the search for a girl believed to be the niece of James Spillane, who died at the Dedham County Jail last Monday. Letters addressed to the man at the jail bore a Lynn postmark and were signed Mary. Spillane was sixty-three years old and worked at the Bradley Fertilizer Company at North Weymouth.

USE GUNS IN CAPTURE OF ALLEGED AUTO THIEVES

Fall River, Jan. 13.—Following a struggle in a summer cottage near this city, during which police inspectors were obliged to use their guns, Eugene Mahoney of Boston, Edward Arsenault and Romeo Suprenant of this city, were arrested for the alleged larceny of four automobiles and breaking and entering the building of the Fall River Golf Club. They appeared in District Court today.

FALL RIVER SHOWS DECREASE IN ARRESTS

Fall River, Jan. 13.—The annual report of the Board of Police will be sent to Governor Cox in a few days. Arrests for the year ending November 30, 1920, total 2,361, a decrease of 3.4 per cent. The arrests for drunkenness were 767, against 827 the preceding year. The board granted twelve licenses to druggists and one license of the seventh class. Thirteen dollars was paid for them.

$1,100,000 ADDED TO PROHIBITION BILL

Washington, Jan. 13.—Prohibition forces won a victory in the House when an amendment to the legislative and executive appropriation bill providing $7,100,000 for prohibition enforcement was adopted. An appropriation of $7,500,000 had been asked, but the appropriation committee had recommended that this be cut to $6,000,000.

CAR CARRIED 75 FEET BY TRAIN; OPERATOR UNHURT

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 13.—The auto which he was operating, carried seventy-five feet, by a train at the railroad crossing in Candia, Charles Lang, aged sixty-five, escaped with a slight cut over one of his eyes, while his auto was but slightly damaged.

Post to Form Drum Corps

George Dilboy Post, No. 529, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is organizing a fife, drum and bugle corps under the leadership of Major Walter Thomas the veteran armorer. A meeting for organization purposes will be held at the Somerville Armory.

Cost $40,000 to Move 10 Ft.

A famous old landmark of Boston, the Charles Street M. E. Church, built in 1807, now being moved ten feet, in accordance with the widening of Charles street. Built in 1807, dedicated August 5, 1807, "as a separate church of Christ, by the name of the Third Baptist Church of Boston," the structure is noted for its architecture of the Bulfinch period. It also had the first bell used by any Baptist church in Boston. The church was incorporated in 1839. Since 1877 the building has been owned by the First African Methodist Church. The church was built at a cost of $27,000. Cost of moving is $40,000, of which the city will pay $30,000 and the parish $10,000.

Accused and Court All of Fair Sex

Cleveland, Jan. 13.—When Mrs. Australia Crape was arraigned in local court charged with second degree murder it was a "fair sex only" affair. The government attorney was County Prosecutor Eva Jaffa, and the judge was Florence Allen of the Court of Common Pleas.

Women spectators filled the courtroom and the sole male attendant looked distinctly unhappy and out of place, and vanished as soon as possible. Mrs. Crape pleaded not guilty.

Picture Talks on Telephone

A motion-picture talk on the telephone, to be followed by comedy reels, will be given at the Roxbury School Centre tomorrow evening. Admission is free, and children will be admitted if accompanied by adults.

Baby Carriage Sales Show a Decline

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Falling off in the sales of baby carriages has caused considerable concern among manufacturers assembled in national convention here. The market is dead in face of slack demand, they say.

A glance over the models convinces anyone that life in the future is going to be a veritable paradise for infants. Babies of the next few years are going to ride in electrically-equipped cabs. The very latest is a cab equipped with a little knob which the occupant can touch when he or she wants the hood lowered or raised.

One white elephant among the cabs exhibited was made in Flint, Mich. It has room for four babies, and, owing to lack of demand, the manufacturer intimated that it could be obtained at a bargain.

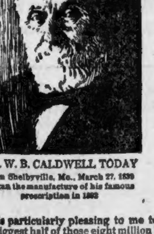
Lives to See the Prescription He Wrote in 1892 the Worlds Most Popular Laxative Remedy



DR. W. B. CALDWELL TODAY

Born Shelbyville, Mo., March 27, 1839. Began the manufacture of his famous prescription in 1892

Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, long past Biblical old age, but hale and hearty—Still sees patients daily—Wonderful achievement of a "country doctor."

WHEN I started to practice medicine, back in 1875, there were no pills or tablets or salt waters for the relief of constipation, and no artificial remedies made from coal tar.

The prescription for constipation that I used early in my practice, and which I put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid remedy, and I have never had reason to change it. I intended it for women, children and elderly people, and these need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

I am gratified to say that under successful management my prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that over eight million bottles were sold by druggists last year proves that it has won the confidence of mothers whose chief interest is the health of their children.

It is particularly pleasing to me to know that the biggest half of those eight million bottles were bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for grownups. The price of a bottle holding 50 average treatments is sixty cents; such a bottle will last a family several months.

I have never made a secret of what is in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. These ingredients are endorsed in the U. S. Pharmacopoeia. I consider Syrup Pepsin today in the serious 82nd year of my age, as I did in 1892, the best remedy a family can have in the house for the safe relief of constipation and its accompanying ills, such as headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and I believe if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

TRY IT FREE Send me your name and address and I will send you a free trial bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. Address me Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 513 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois. Everybody now and then needs a laxative, and it is well to know the best. Write me today.

Shows Fine Record on Lowell Charter

The special commission of fifteen Lowell citizens appointed to draft a new charter for the mill city reported to the Legislature a record of attention to duty that rarely has been approached.

They held thirty-nine public meetings and three conferences. The average attendance was more than thirteen. Never less than twelve members were present and no meeting was adjourned for lack of a quorum.

The new charter recommended by them provides for a Lowell of nine wards, a Mayor to serve two terms at $5,000 a year and a city council of fifteen members, each at $300 a year, less $5 for every session not attended.

COLDS EPIDEMIC AT TECH, BAN ON SNEEZES

If a Tech student sneezes, he must leave the class room to report to Dr. George W. Morse, head of the new medical department of the institute. Sneezers and coughers are sent directly to the clinic. An epidemic of colds has brought about this order.

URGE POINCARE FOR PREMIER

By International News Service.

Paris, Jan. 13.—President Alexander Millerand today took up the important task of selecting a new Premier for France to succeed M. Leygues, who, with the rest of his Cabinet, resigned last evening.

Raoul Peret, president of the Chamber of Deputies, called upon the President and urged the appointment of Raymond Poincare, former President. A number of newspapers also advocated the appointment.

Belief was expressed in semi-official circles that, if Mr. Poincare accepted that post, he would hold the portfolio of Finance Minister also and that former Premier Viviani would be Foreign Minister.

The press took the view that the inside knowledge gained by M. Poincare while he was on the reparations commission would stand him in good stead at the forthcoming conference of the allies when German indemnity will be discussed.

DEFIES GARMENT EMPLOYERS

Union President Dares Them to Cut Wages or Change Working Conditions

Boston manufacturers of ladies' suits and cloaks were dared to cut wages or to change the present conditions of the workers in any form, by B. Schlesinger, president of the Ladies' Garment Workers Union of the A. F. L.

Schlesinger's defi was issued at a meeting of about 2,000 members of the union in Ford Hall, held for the purpose of discussing what action should be taken by the workers on the announcement of the abrogation by the employers of all agreements with the union. ... facturers was a part of the open-...

It was decided that a meeting of the local joint board of the union meet the international general executive board next Thursday and prepare an answer to the manufacturers and arrange for a mass meeting

SULLIVAN IN MAYNARD RACE FOR SELECTMAN

Maynard, Jan. 13.—Friends of P. J. Sullivan have precipitated a fight in town politics by their announcement that they will run him for selectman. The present selectmen are F. S. Binks, Albert Smith and Edward Carlton. Sullivan was a member of the Board of Selectmen for nine years. He is president of the Maynard Business Men's Association.

Strong Men Have Acid Stomach

And They Relieve It With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Instead of Senseless Diet.

Consider the bulk of a big man. He needs a lot of good food. And yet a simple dish may so distress him that he will throw his entire machinery out of order by denying himself the very means of sustaining strength. A better plan, far better, is to follow a meal with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

It aids digestion, supplies the stomach with an alkaline effect and thus prevents or relieves the distresses of gassiness, sour stomach, lumpy feeling in throat, biliousness, intestinal indigestion and other such misery due to dyspepsia. Get a 60 cent box at any drug store and be fortified, no matter what you eat or drink.

STOMACH DISEASE

Mr. Frank Powell, Central House, Framingham Centre, says: "I enlisted in the Canadian army in 1916, and was overseas four years, was wounded slightly at Armentiere, was mustered out when the armistice was declared and returned to my vocation as motorman on the Boston & Worcester trolley line without any physical disability. Then I was attacked by stomach trouble that made me cranky, lost my appetite, became constipated and generally miserable. I was visiting friends in So. Natick who told me that they had been cured of trouble such as I was suffering from by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians. Acting upon their advice, I was treated by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians and they cured me, too."

The wonderful power of the X-RAY TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful results in disease of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASE, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASE, BIRTHMARKS, MOLES, FACIAL BLEMISHES, ETC.

No matter what your disease may be, remember that the Osmo-Chemic doctor gives

INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" makes Disordered Stomachs feel fine at once!

Lumps of undigested food causing pain. When your stomach is acid, and is gassy, sour or you have heartburn, flatulence, headache or dyspepsia, here is speedy relief—no waiting.

Eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin and instantly your stomach feels fine. All the indigestion pain, gases, acidity and misery in the stomach caused by acidity ends.

Pape's Diapepsin tablets cost little at any drug store but there is no surer or quicker stomach antacid known.

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

LAST CHANCE TUESDAY TO ENTER $5,000 MOVIE TEST

The $5,000 Movie Player Indentification Test is almost ready to settle down to a day-by-day proposition, a test of perseverance.

If by next Tuesday you have not taken advantage of this opportunity, to turn your knowledge of the movies into cash by winning one of the 219 Awards—the First Award, remember, is $1,000—your chance will have passed forever.

Why will next Tuesday mark the passing of Opportunity?

Because on Sunday and Monday the co-operating newspapers, Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, will UNITE in the presentation of all Back Pictures for the LAST TIME.

NEVER PRINTED AGAIN.

Never again, after Sunday and Monday, will Back Pictures be printed.

HALF of all the Back Pictures will be printed in next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The OTHER HALF will be printed in next Monday's Boston American.

To enter the Test now, on even terms with those who began at the beginning, you will need BOTH NEXT SUNDAY'S BOSTON ADVERTISER AND NEXT MONDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN.

If you are serious about it, if you mean to step in at this stage of this interesting Test and walk away with $1,000, $750, $500, $400, $300, $2000, $150, $100 or one of the lesser awards, our advice is that you speak to your newsdealer without delay, telling him to save for you one copy of the Boston Sunday Advertiser AND one copy of Next Monday's Boston American.

Do not forget the importance of having BOTH newspapers.

WHEN TO LOOK FOR THEM.

The Back Pictures which will be printed in the Boston Sunday Advertiser will be those of the First Day, Third Day, Fifth Day, Seventh Day, Ninth Day, Eleventh Day, Thirteenth Day, Fifteenth Day, Seventeenth Day, Nineteenth Day, Twenty-first Day, Twenty-third Day and Twenty-fifth Day.

Sunday will be the Twenty-seventh Day of the Test. The Boston Sunday Advertiser as a matter of course will print in full size the two Test Pictures of the Twenty-seventh Day IN ADDITION TO THE BACK PICTURES INDICATED ABOVE.

You will observe that the Boston Sunday Advertiser will re-print the Back Pictures of the "odd" days.

Then, to obtain the Back Pictures of the "even" days, you will need next Monday's Boston American.

The Boston American of Monday will reprint the Test pictures of the Second, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-second, Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth Days.

NEW PICURES REGULARLY.

The two NEW pictures scheduled for Monday, Twenty-eighth Day of the Test, will also appear on Monday in regular order and in full size.

There is, of course, a reason for this division of the Back Pictures into two lots, and you will want to know what it is. You are entitled to know. The fact is that on last Sunday the Boston Sunday Advertiser reached the very limit of space that can be given to a matter of this kind.

At the same time, the demand for at least one more reprint of ALL Back Pictures is general. It comes not so much from those who would like to enter the Test NOW as from you who have been in from the beginning, and who have received certain information because of which you would like to make CORRECTIONS.

While the co-operating newspapers desire to be of every possible service, it was obviously impossible for the Boston Sunday Advertiser to surrender enough space to meet the requirements of 52 Back Pictures.

REASON FOR SPLITTING.

"But," you say, "it isn't quite clear about giving the 'odd' days to the Boston Sunday Advertiser and the 'even' days to next Monday's Boston American. Sunday being the Twenty-seventh Day of the Test, there then will be Twenty-six "Back" Days. Why cannot the Boston Sunday Advertiser re-print the pictures of the first thirteen days and let the Boston American print the pictures of the second thirteen days?"

One reason, friends, is that such an arrangement as that would give the Sunday paper Pictures Nos. 1 to 26, AND THOSE PICTURES APPEARED IN LAST SUNDAY BOSTON ADVERTISER. The arrangement Nos. 1 to 26, therefore, would give Boston Sunday Advertiser readers nothing that they have not had before.

Hence the arrangement outlined here, in a spirit of fairness to the readers of both newspapers.

It appears certain that every participant, in this most interesting of all newspaper enterprises of the sort, desires one more spread of ALL the Back Pictures.

We outline a method by which these Back Pictures may be obtained for the LAST TIME.

MAKE SURE OF PAPERS.

Make sure of your copy of next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser, and equally sure of a copy of next Monday's Boston American, and you will have before you ALL the Test Pictures up to next Tuesday, which will be the Twenty-ninth Day of the Test.

Next Wednesday the Test will have reached "Half Way House." The Sunday Advertiser and Monday's Boston American, offer your FINAL opportunity to earn one of the 219 CASH awards.

We hope we have made the situation as clear as day.

In the Boston Sunday Advertiser will be Test Pictures Nos. 1, 2, 5, 6, 9, 10, 13, 14, 17, 18, 21, 22, 25, 26, 29, 30, 33, 34, 37, 38, 41, 42, 45, 46, 49, 50, 53 and 54.

And in MONDAY'S Boston American Test Pictures Nos. 3, 4, 7, 8, 11, 12, 15, 16, 19, 20, 23, 24, 27, 28, 31, 32, 35, 36, 39, 40, 43, 44, 47, 48, 51, 52, 55 and 56.

Take a friend's advice. Sunday after Sunday, the Boston Sunday Advertiser is "all sold out" everywhere in New England. Next Monday there will be a simply tremendous demand for the Boston American. Speak to your newspaper today about BOTH newspapers. Tell him to be SURE to save you a copy of EACH.

Theatres Co-operating in Test

The Test Pictures shown every day in the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser are flashed upon the screen at every performance in nearly four hundred of the leading motion picture theatres in New England.

Participants in the Test are urgently advised to keep in touch with it through one of these theatres. Here you are not unlikely to see the image of the very player whose Test Picture has been puzzling you.

These are the co-operating theatres:

Rules of Movie Players Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Moving Picture Players' Identification Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by these two newspapers to their readers who submit the largest percentage of correct identifications to the 120 pictures to be published in these two newspapers.

All employes of the Boston American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser, and their families, and all moving picture players and persons connected with the moving picture industry are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The Test will consist of 120 pictures of favorite moving picture players, to be printed two each day, in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture Sunday, December 19, 1920.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which shall be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar anyone from entering this Test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each set must contain only ONE identification to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award, and not more than one award shall be given in any one family.

Each and every identification must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser or on a page of some book form by itself, accompanied either by the picture furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser, or a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each identification blank.

Do not send your identification in "list" form, i. e., do not write identifications under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are no complete sets of correct identifications, awards will be given to the persons submitting the largest percentage of correct identifications.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and exact accuracy in spelling, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way, the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their identifications before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your identifications from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first identifications sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All identifications must be delivered to the Boston American Movie Test Headquarters, at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., either by mail or in person within specified time limit, which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing identifications must be legibly addressed as follows: "Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., P. O. Box 239," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all identifications will contain written or printed matter, if mailed, it is absolutely necessary that the package be fully prepaid at postal letter rates, as mail of this character goes to the postoffice as first class matter. The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to refuse to consider any sets of identifications on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass. Questions will be answered, as far as possible, through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such reply, or they may phone Main 5180, or call in person.

The Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserves the right to make any change in, or addition to, these conditions that may be deemed necessary for fairly and properly conducting the test, and the decision of the Boston American Movie Test Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entry of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions now made or to be made.

Sells Sow for $11,300.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 13.—Model Giantess, third, a type of Poland-China sow, said to be the biggest brood in the world, was sold here for $11,300. The spring litter of the sow brought $15,000.

OREGON BANK CLOSED TO FORESTALL A RUN

Klamath Falls, Ore., Jan. 13.—The doors of the First State Bank of Klamath Falls, a savings bank, were ordered closed by its directors and the bank placed in the hands of Assistant State Bank Commissioner Hooper.

The closing of the bank's doors, bank officials said, is a precaution against a possible run due to persistent rumors and also for the purpose of liquidation.

The bank is credited with a capital of $100,000 and the same amount of undivided profits and surplus, with deposits of $1,000,000.

How to Tint Your Gray Hair at Home

Thousands of Married Folks Are Nervous Wrecks—Leading A Regular "Cat and Dog" Life

As a result of the devitalizing weakness caused by PALE, THIN, WATERY BLOOD—without ever suspecting the real cause of their trouble—IRON STARVATION.

Thousands of married people are CROSS, CRABBED AND GRUMPY, with each other all the while—READY TO FLY OFF at the slightest thing when it isn't their fault at all. IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD has sapped their nerve force and left them nervous wrecks so that they have no control of themselves and they therefore "GO ALL TO PIECES" on the slightest provocation.

A New York Physician says that MORE THAN ONE-HALF THE POPULATION OF AMERICA PERISHES BEFORE MIDDLE AGE and that one of the chief contributory causes of this terrible waste of human life is the devitalizing weakness brought on by lack of iron in the blood.

THERE ARE 30,000,000,000,000 RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES IN YOUR BLOOD AND EACH ONE MUST HAVE IRON.

An enormous number of people who ought to be strong, vigorous and in the prime of life are constantly complaining of weak nervous headaches, pains across the back, disturbed digestion, shortness of breath, heart palpitation, a general "run-down" condition, melancholy, bad memory, etc., when the real cause of all their suffering is in many cases nothing more or less than IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD.

THE PICTURE BELOW OF HUSBAND AND WIFE IS MORE OR LESS TYPICAL OF THOUSANDS OF CASES: WHILE ACTUAL PHYSICAL FORCE MAY SELDOM BE USED THERE ARE SQUABBLES, FUSSES AND QUARRELS. Both husband and wife loved each other when they were married and they both really love each other today, but iron starvation of the blood has made them peevish, nervous, irritable and easily upset—both are ready to "fly into a rage" over nothing—yet these same people often quickly become most charming, pleasing and agreeable and get along splendidly when their starving blood is supplied with iron. IRON STARVATION OF THE BLOOD HAS WRECKED THE HAPPINESS OF THOUSANDS OF HOMES.

The proof of this is shown by the fact that when organic iron is supplied to their blood, that all their multitude of symptoms often quickly disappear and the very men and women who were formerly so complaining now become strong, healthy and vigorous with even dispositions and a sunny cheerful nature. When your blood is starving for iron, no mere tonics or stimulants can put you right—starving blood must have iron the same as a starving person must have food. Without iron your blood loses its power to change food into living tissue and nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it. Nature put plenty of iron in the husks of grains and the skin and peels of vegetables and fruits to enrich your blood, but modern methods of cookery throw all these things away—hence the alarming increase, in recent years, in anaemia—iron-starvation of the blood with all its attendant ills.

If you are not willing to go back to nature then you should eat more such iron-containing vegetables as spinach and carrots and reinforce them by taking a little organic iron from time to time. But be sure the iron you take is organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take. Metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron and is therefore an entirely different thing from organic iron. Organic iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. It may be had from your druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron. Nuxated Iron represents organic iron in such a highly condensed form that one dose of it is estimated to be approximately equivalent (in organic iron content) to eating one-half quart of spinach, one quart of green vegetables or half a dozen apples. It's like taking extract of beef instead of eating pounds of meat.

To prove to yourself what Nuxated Iron will do, get your doctor to take a specimen of your blood and make a blood count of your red blood corpuscles, then take Nuxated Iron for a month and have a new "blood count" made and see how your red blood corpuscles have increased, how much purer and richer your blood has become, how much more robust and vigorous you feel; see how the color has come back to your cheeks, how much steadier and stronger your nerves now are. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain satisfactory results. Beware of substitutes. Always insist on having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N.I. on every tablet. At all druggists.

INDICTED FOR DIAMOND THEFT

Pittsfield Jeweler Accused of $137,600 Larceny, Had Luxurious "Throne Room"

Pittsfield, Jan. 13.—A Berkshire Grand Jury returned an indictment against Philip E. Schwarz, jeweler, in two counts, charging larceny of 688 diamonds valued at $137,600, the property of Charles Marx, Inc., of New York. Schwarz pleaded not guilty before Judge Christopher T. Callahan and a courtroom filled chiefly with women.

The gems were left in Schwarz's store safe, October 26 last, by Joseph C. Newman, salesman for Marx, while Schwarz and Newman took a joy ride to Springfield, where they met some chorus girls, and returned to Pittsfield late that evening.

The police claim Schwarz admits he was in his store afterward that night. Newman discovered the jewels were missing the next morning.

Inspector Daniel J. McColgan, of the Detective Bureau, found them November 2 in a niche behind a sewer pipe in the wall of the cellar in Schwarz's store.

In the course of their investigation of the store the police discovered a labyrinth of apartments, secret handles and doors leading to a luxuriously furnished throne room on the third floor. Schwarz explained to the police this was his "rest room." Schwarz was released in $15,000 bail for trial next week.

GERMAN SPECIALISTS ON WAY TO MOSCOW

Berlin, Jan. 13.—Reports that Nicolai Lenine, premier of Soviet Russia, is seriously ill, are still unconfirmed. Two noted German specialists are on the way to Moscow, but it is not definitely known whether they are to attend Lenine or Professor Kartoff, head of the Russian supreme economic Soviet, who is in a critical condition suffering from heart trouble.

Fat Policemen Slow? Ask Hub Bluecoats

Matthew J. Cavanaugh, friend of Boston firemen and policemen and one of the heaviest men physically in New England, declares that the Rev. Joseph W. Chasey of New York is indebted to his memory for his jests and to his imagination for his facts when he declares that fat men do not make good policemen.

"Matty," as he is known to friends, neighbors and the members of the Roxbury Veteran Firemen's Association, carries more avoirdupois than the Rev. Mr. Chasey would care to lift and performs his daily task as a special policeman at one of the Boston piers, where he is the terror of lawbreakers.

INSIST FAT POLICEMEN BEST.

Cavanaugh is not the only heavyweight who disagrees with the Rev. Mr. Chasey, who, as pastor of the Metropolitan Temple, Seventh avenue and Fourteenth street, New York, declared that the New York police department has too many fat men.

Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, Captain John Driscoll of the East Dedham street station, Sergeant Owen Farley of Police Headquarters and Sergeant William J. Flynn of the City Hall Avenue Station take exception to that statement and insist that fat men on the Boston force are the greatest crook chasers in the country.

The Rev. Mr. Chasey, in his sermon, speaking of the New York policemen, said, in part:

"They may be all right for traffic work, but for ferreting out crime we need more lean, lanky Frenchmen and New England Yankees to be assigned to the task of scouring the alleys and byways for criminals. The department will never be successful until it regards the duty of a policeman as a profession rather than a job."

TIPS SCALES AT 300.

Cavanaugh, who tips the scales close to the 300 mark, is a prominent member of the Roxbury Veteran Firemen's Association, and can do a 100-yard dash in quick time. There never was a pair of ready-made trousers drafted or designed that would fit "Matty."

"Matty," while a special policeman, is also an ardent "sparks," a term given to those who show up at every fire with the first alarm.

"This sky pilot in New York may be all right preaching in the pulpit, but he's doping it all wrong when he says that only the lean and lanky cops captures the crooks," says "Matty."

"He punches the fat coppers pretty hard in a verbal way. The fat policemen have generally met the emergency in times gone by as they will in the future.

"They may require more cloth and brass buttons for a uniform, but they look far more imposing on parade than the lean fellows. Give me a

FAT MAN CROOK CHASER.

Policeman Harry T. Kershaw of the City Hall Avenue station, is the heavyweight of the Boston police department, according to Superintendent Crowley, and lives at No. 106 Stoughton street, Dorchester. Kershaw weighs 370 pounds, and is 6 feet, 3 inches tall. There isn't another man in the department who can compete with him when it comes to capturing crooks, it is claimed. He was born in Enfield, Nova Scotia, July 20, 1889, is married, and was a chauffeur before joining the force on November 5, 1919.

"Kershaw is as good-nautred a man as one might wish to meet," said Sergeant Billy Flynn, as he sat behind the desk in the City Hall Avenue station. "He is a darn good policeman. A burglar terrorized people down Broad street one night and Kershaw went after him. The burglar pushed a revolver in Kershaw's face. Did Kershaw Wince? No. He took the revolver away from the fellow, slapped his face and then turned him twice in the air and locked him up. The case is now pending in court."

Kershaw just laughed when asked if he had anything to say about fat men not being fit for police service.

CROWLEY PRAISES KERSHAW.

"Kershaw is one of our best men," said Police Superintendent Crowley. "There are very few fat men on the Boston force now. Weight doesn't make any difference. The present force is composed of slight fellows, who keep in good condition. All men who join the force put on weight after awhile. When I joined the department I was 5 feet, 8 inches and weighed 140 pounds. I do not agree with the Rev. Mr. Chasey of New York when he says the fat men do not make good policemen.

"Our men in the traffic squad are put through a course of calisthenics daily by a Mr. Fogarty, who is six feet tall and a fine specimen of humanity. From fifteen to twenty minutes are devoted to this sort of work each day. This keeps the man in good condition physically."

It's easy enough to be pleasant
When life flows along like a song,
But the man worth while is the man with the smile
When everything goes dead wrong.

ACHIEVEMENTS ON RECORD.

Sergeant Owen Farley has a record of the achievements of the fat men of the Boston department who acquitted themselves nobly in ferreting out criminals.

"The late Police Inspector Tom Lynch was a fat man, but that did not stop him from trailing the burglar who broke into Ullan's jewelry store and fled to Russia with the loot," said Farley. "Lynch went after him and brought him back to this country. The fellow is now serving time in prison. I have no hesitancy in saying that the Rev. Mr. Chasey has the hammer out for the policemen of Irish birth or extraction. I look upon his remarks as English propaganda."

Former Patrolman Michael Lynch of the Joy Street station said that a fat policeman cannot help taking on weight and that the Rev. Mr. Chasey ought to realize the fact.

DEATH AUTOIST IS BAILED

Somerville Man Pleads Not Guilty to Recklessness and Endangering Life

Charged with recklessly operating an automobile and also with operating the car so as to endanger the lives or safety of pedestrians, Courtis Saunders, twenty-five years old, son of Dr. Ambrose M. Saunders of No. 15 Simpson avenue, West Somerville, was arrested by Captain Herbert Goodwin and Special Officer Charles McMahon of the Cambridge police on two indictments returned by the Middlesex County Grand Jury.

The arrest of Saunders took place at a Boston bank where he is employed. On Monday evening, December 20, Saunders knocked down Stuart O. Browne, aged thirteen, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Browne of No. 25 Fairfield street, North Cambridge. The boy was about to board a street car when struck. He died at the Massachusetts General Hospital the following day from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Saunders was taken to the Middlesex Superior Criminal Court and arraigned before Judge Cox. He pleaded not guilty to each of the indictments and was later bailed from the East Cambridge Jail in $1,500.

$1,000,000 FACTORY MAY LOCATE IN NORTH ADAMS

North Adams, Jan. 13.—Negotiations are now under way between the local Chamber of Commerce and the inventor of an adjustable automobile radiator which has been perfected and patented, for the location here of a factory to manufacture the radiator, which is considered a remarkable invention. The new concern is to be capitalized at $1,000,000, and would furnish employment to a number of persons.

MELODY AGAIN SEEKING HOTEL WORKERS' DAY OFF

Representative Patrick J. Melody of Boston, supported by the Massachusetts State branch, American Federation of Labor, today filed in the House a bill to provide one-day-off-in-seven for hotel and restaurant employes. Mr. Melody's action represents a continuation of his long effort to grant one-day's respite to this class of employes. His bill passed the House in 1919 and 1920 and was killed off both years by the Senate.

STEPS U. S. SHOULD TAKE TO RECOGNIZE ERIN

In the third of his series on the misgovernment of Ireland by the British tyranny, printed today by the Boston American, John F. Harrigan of Worcester, State president of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, shows what legal steps the United States should and could take to make such recognition effective. He declares that the world is waiting for the United States to make good on the proclamation of President Wilson before we entered the World War that "every nation, great or small, shall have the right to determine for itself its own mode of government."

By JOHN F. HARRIGAN.

Ireland wants independence. America recognizes what Ireland wants. America's recognition ought to be effective.

Lloyd George, we showed in a former paper, is employing a vocabulary, which was the "stock-in-trade" against Americans in their struggle for independence; and again, out of his own mouth, he has pronounced the indictment of England during her centuries of tyranny in Ireland. For some time he pretended, with no more wisdom than an ostrich hiding its head in the sand, not to know precisely what Ireland wanted; but, in these later days, he says with as magnificent a gesture as his stature will allow him, "Ireland wants complete independence; she will take no less; we cannot tolerate that." He does not gainsay Ireland's right; he proclaims England's might.

JOHN F. HARRIGAN.

Now, there are two things known very clearly by the world at large: First, Ireland wants her independence; secondly, the English government will not grant this just right of a people. From the Irish side, there will be peace when England withdraws, or is compelled to withdraw, her troops from Ireland. From the British program, peace will only come when there is a solitude in Ireland—when England and her armed force can do what pagan imperial Rome used to do, namely, make a solitude and call it peace. The world, and especially these United States, cannot look on much longer without advancing effectively to the support of right over might.

Country Has More Than Philanthropic Spirit

Our country, let us state it fearlessly, has something more than a mere philanthropic spirit to guide her in recognizing, and in effectively recoganizing, the Irish Republic. We know the traditions of our country with regard to situations in the past similar to that which now obtains in Ireland because of the reign of British terror. And without harking back to precedents when our country recognized the rights of other little republics and peoples against the tyranny of alien masters, we need but re-read the proclamations which the President of these United States put in the very forefront of his war announcements. A thrill went through the country at the President's statement of the reasons for which we were going to war.

Every nation, great or small, shall have the right to determine for itself its own mode of government. Why repeat the insistent passages out of the President's declarations. All the world accepted those words at their face value. Lloyd George, in a subsequent speech, accepted America's high declaration. And therefore it is not a mere privilege, it is a duty for the government of our United States to abide by the tenets which we professed before the war; in a word, it is the duty of our government to recognize the mode of government determined upon by the will of the Irish people—the Republic of Ireland.

Appeal to the American People

In September, 1919, the executive of the Irish Republic spoke these words to the liberty-loving people of America: "In this fateful hour, her people (Ireland) appeal through me to the people of America. The United States is a great and powerful republic—long confirmed in its own hard won liberties. The sister republic, newborn in Ireland under America's inspirations, is threatened in its infant life as was the United Colonies by a cruel and over-masterful force. . . . Our prime appeal is the official recognition of our republic by the government of the United States. That attained, everything is attained."

A question may be raised as to the method our government can take in giving such recognition to the Irisr Republic. The question is answered by consulting the responses that our government made in previous cases similar to the Irish situation. Already the resolution of Senator Mason (H. R. 3404) indicates a line which the United States can take.

Cleared the Ground For Action

The discussion of that Mason resolution in hearings given before the Committee on Foreign Affairs (December 12, 13, 1919) have cleared the ground for action along the lines of that resolution. Here is a passage, from a point that was considered: "Now take a situation such as that suggested by Mr. Flood. Suppose the President were tomorrow to receive Dr. McCartan as the minister from the Irish Republic. I would hold that we could not have gone the full length that we would have to go in recognizing the Irish Republic until also a minister had been appointed by the Senate of the United States and his salary also provided for by Congress of the United States in order that the recognition might be complete, and in order that the position accorded to the Republic of Ireland should be as complete as that accorded any other country with which we have diplomatic relations. . . I say that if we pass this bill, if we put the President of the United States in the position of knowing that the people are behind him in the recognition of the Irish Republic, you will not only have done the just thing and the right thing and the thing that is in accord with the best American ideals, but we will have made a great contribution to the continued general liberty of the world.

Would Compel Governing Class

"Now I say that if the United States government would take the position of intervening here, and say, from her position as the moral leader of mankind that there has been too much of this (English misrule), and in the interest of peace it ought to stop, we believe, if we were to recognize the Republic of Ireland . . . that the public opinion of the people of England would compel the governing class—which is after all a very small minority—not to do anything that would jeopardize the status that exists between England and America in such a way as to hazard the chance of broken relations, or anything of that kind."

The discussion of the Mason resolution, we say, has already proposed means to recognize the righteous claims of the Republic of Ireland. In the forefront of every discussion must remain the ideals and the principles upon which our government is based; our traditions which have already served peoples struggling as the Irish people now are; our war purposes, clearly and solemnly and unequivocally given and accepted. Our own people are waiting the step that they feel our government must take. The people who flocked to the President's call claim the right to have their loyal response answered now to the full. All the world knows that the United States will answer true and firm the call of the people for the recognition of the Irish Republic.

LAWRENCE STUDENTS MAKE LECTURE DEBUT

Lawrence, Jan. 13.—A plan of allowing students of the Lawrence High School an opportunity of securing experience on the lecture platform has been started here. The first lecture was given at the school by Ernest J. Simmons, a senior, on the subject "Ambition." It is the first time the plan has been tried in the East. Educators in various parts of New England are watching the plan with interest.

MOONSHINE MAKERS FINED $100 EACH

Following their plea of guilty to Federal indictments charging them with manufacturing fifty gallons of whiskey unlawfully, Jake Goodman and Isadore Brown, both of Lawrence, were fined $100 each by Judge Aldrich of the U. S. District Court. Bench warrants had been issued for the arrest of both defendants who had failed to appear in court when their names were called.

FIVE GENERATIONS OF GIBBS FAMILY TO MEET

Westfield, Jan. 13.—The descendants of Israel Gibbs of Blandford, including five generations of the Gibbs family, the oldest in his ninety-sixth year and the youngest a year old, will meet Saturday at the home of William E. Gibbs, No. 3 Mill street. Dr. Howard A. Gibbs, prominent Boston physician, who has been working on genealogy for several months, is sponsor for the reunion.

BRANT ROCK SUMMER COLONY HAS REUNION

Several hundred residents of the Summer colony at Ocean Bluff and Brant Rock on the South Shore attended the fourth annual reunion of vacationists at these places at Catholic Union Hall. The program included a whist party and dancing. The proceeds were added to the fund being raised to build a Catholic church at the resort.

HITS BASEBALL 'CORRUPTION'

Judge Bonniwell at B. C. Football Banquet Scores Frazee and Connie Mack

Tracing the downfall of Greece and Rome to the corruption of the athletics of those ancient nations, Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell of Philadelphia, addressing the Boston College football banqueters at the City Club, declared Harry H. Frazee and Cornelius McGillicuddy, owners respectively of the Boston Red Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics, were shaking the foundations of our athletic and consequent national greatness in exchanging able and logically popular baseball players for gold.

"The recent gambling scandal was but an outgrowth of corruption that the club owners are responsible for," declared the Philadelphia jurist. "Greece was the leading nation of the world just so long as she fostered athletics and kept them free from taint. Rome likewise led the world until her athletics became corrupt, and so it has been with all great nations, and it is the object of the organization I represent—the Veteran Athletics Association of Philadelphia—to foster and encourage true sportsmanship.

"To us, Boston College, with its willingness to meet all comers and its ability to vanquish through clean play all who confronted it, was unquestionably the college football champion of the East. We deny the right of any holier-than-thou trinity of universities to pander through a lot of small opponents, then meet in one or two games between themselves and declare the winner to be the champion of the section."

More than 600 persons attended the banquet to the victorious B. C. eleven and listened to the complimentary addresses of Governor Cox, Mayor Peters, Mayor Edwin O. Childs of Newton, Rev. Fr. Devlin, president of B. C.; Rev. Ambrose A. Doyle, John B. Doyle of New York and Major Frank W. Cavanaugh, coach of the Boston College team.

Cavanaugh poked considerable fun at Walter Camp's All-America eleven and declared philosophically the action of the Veteran Athletes Association, in naming Boston College as the champion team of the East, indicated that the time was soon coming when all would judge teams on the merit of their play and not be swayed by the size or ancient importance of institutions that now are refusing to meet Boston College on the football gridiron.

President Devlin formally launched the drive for a $2,000,000 fund for Boston College, declaring four new buildings were sorely needed before the next college year got under way, and requesting that all graduates and undergraduates render service in the cause.

Philomatheia Club Ball Tomorrow Will Aid B. C.

Boston College's drive for a $2,000,000 endowment fund will receive added impetus tomorrow night when the Philomatheia Club, an auxiliary of the college, will hold its annual ball at the Hotel Somerset. A distinguished list of patrons and matrons has been named for the ball.

Included among the latter are Mrs. Vincent P. Roberts, president, Miss Martha Moore Avery, vice president, Mrs. John F. Fitzgerald, Mrs. James H. Carney, Mrs. Denis F. Sheehan and Mrs. William F. Fitzgerald. Mrs. John P. Feeney is chairman of the general committee arranging the dance. Among the patrons are John F. Fitzgerald, Dr. John T. Bottomley, Daniel H. Coakley, U. S. Attorney Daniel J. Gallagher, Dr. John R. Slattery, Thomas D. Lavelle, Edwin A. Shuman, James J. Phelan, Frank E. Wing, Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge, Stephen Hallahan, Allan R. Frederick, William F. Fitzgerald, Dr. Frederick Good, Vincent P. Roberts and John J. Moran.

COX DEPLORES WAVE OF PESSIMISM IN U. S.

Governor Cox, in an address before the alumni of Tufts College at the Copley-Plaza, deplored the wave of pessimism spreading over the country. "Let us have faith in ourselves, in our institutions and in God," he exhorted, "not complaining, but looking forward, as privileged men, by a college education, and doing our part for the coming of a brighter day than has ever gone before." President John E. Cousens announced that the Tufts Foundation now amounted to $625,000. Charles R. Gow, '93, was elected president of the alumni association.

Stored Foods

At certain seasons of the year, nature mothers us in generous lavishness; at other seasons she treats us as outcasts.

One great service rendered by Swift & Company to the consumer is in taking some of the surplus of nature's plenty and storing it against the season of non-production. This is a service based upon sound common sense and meets a definite economic need.

This enables you to obtain all the year round some foods which otherwise would be so abundant in certain months that the entire supply could not be used, and so scarce at other times that prices would be prohibitive.

Swift & Company has equipped its plants and branch houses with refrigerating plants, and has a sufficient number of refrigerator cars to carry a supply of meat foods to its customers. Space in public cold storage warehouses also is used by us to carry perishables until they are needed.

We store only enough meat, butter, poultry, eggs, and cheese to supply our customers during the period of scarcity and not to speculate on rising prices. Our storage profits during the last eight years have averaged about one cent a dozen on eggs, and less than a cent a pound on butter and poultry.

Storage of food is a world necessity and we regard our part in this as an important factor in our service in supplying the nation with wholesome food.

GHOSE SAYS INDIA'S REVOLT SHAKES BRITISH EMPIRE

By SAILENDRA NATH GHOSE,
National Organizer Friends of Freedom for India.

Cable dispatches from India are bringing news of a revolution there. This is no surprise to persons familiar with the situation in that country. The outbursts of Indian people against British misrule are simply a logical step in the movement to free India from this bondage.

Sailendra Nath Ghose

India has been struggling for her independence for the last fifty years or so. Sentiment for complete independence became so pronounced in India in 1905 that an independent political party was formed to secure absolute freedom from Great Britain.

The propaganda machine of England is now working overtime, giving much less attention to the question of Mesopotamia, Egypt, Palestine and Ireland, which are now dwarfed as compared to the stupendous struggle of over 300,000,000 Indians.

England's imperial system is based absolutely on her hold over India. This movement in India is shaking the very system to its foundation, and that is the reason why England recently sent about 50,000 Australian soldiers to India. And that is why many Indian soldiers have been withdrawn from Ireland, Egypt, Mesopotamia and Persia.

There were about 15,000 Indian soldiers in Ireland alone. They were put there by England to quell the Sinn Fein movement. Now they are not trusted by the British government in that work.

The weapon used by England in combatting the uprising in India is to brand it as a Soviet movement and a Bolshevist movement. This movement in India has no connection with any alien movement. It is not a Bolshevist movement, simply India for India. During the war English propaganda's characteristic the movement as a pro-German movement, which was also not true.

REFLUX OF MOVEMENT.

Let us review the revolutionary movement in India. Famine rarely existed in India until the English gained control. Today England is trying to export wheat and other necessities of life from India, while famine is raging there. The British rule began about 1751. Since then there have been fifty-six famines. From 1578 to 1900 records of the English government shows that there were eighteen famines with 34,000,000 deaths. In 1918 32,000,000 people died from want of food.

GOVERNED FOR ENGLAND.

The Indian people are beginning to realize that they are being governed for England and not India; that the British clamp is growing tighter and tighter with each passing year. Indians realize that they must do something to prevent their being laid completely prostrate.

The natural step was to begin organizing to throw off this burden, and thus came into being this Swaraj or self-rule movement. The first efforts were concentrated on securing home rule, but still under Great Britain. As the Indian people began to realize that they are a distinct nation and in no way could benefit by connection with England, they decided that their course was to gain complete independence.

In September, 1920, 20,000 delegates from all parts of India met in Calcutta under the leadership of Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, and decided upon a non-co-operation with England movement.

TERMS OF NON-CO-OPERATION.

1—Renunciation of all titles and honorary offices under the British government. Non-participation in government loans.

4—Boycott of the new legislative council.

5—Refusal to accept any civil or military post in Mesopotamia and other countries for imperial purposes.

6—Vigorous prosecution of the Swadeshi movement, inducing people to be satisfied with India's own productions and manufactures.

7—Absolute refusal to pay taxes to the British government in any shape or form.

HOME RULE REFUSED.

Just as in Ireland the British government wanted to force its home rule bill and a general election was held last November 30. The result was 84 per cent. of the voters not only refused to go to the government polls, but signed a pledge expressing their determination to secure independence for India.

Another meeting of the National Congress, which adopted the non-co-operation platform, was held on New Year's Day and there were 30,000 delegates present.

At this session leaders, like the Ali Brothers, advocated insurrection, rebellion and physical violence, if necessary, to secure independence of their country.

The revolution in India is thoroughly organized. The non-cooperation movement has brought forth military reprisals from England and the torch has been lit. How successful the revolution will be depends upon the amount of support England gets from other countries. She has virtually declared martial law in India, and that has incited the people.

Above all, the significance of the Indian movement lies in the fact that the independence of India will mean an end to British imperialism the world over. Then we can look for world peace, based upon justice and liberty.

The Indian people believe that the American people should not aid Britain in any way to strengthen her stronghold in India, Persia, Egypt, Ireland and other countries. They also believe that all the countries wronged by British should make a common cause against world domination by Britain.

HOSEMAN HURT AT $10,000 FIRE

Waste Paper Spreads Blaze in Building at Nos. 208-210 Milk Street

One fireman was injured and damage estimated at $10,000 resulted when fire swept through the four-story brick building occupied by M. F. Driscoll at Nos. 208 and 210 Milk street, burning tons of baled waste paper and necessitating the sounding of two alarms before the flames were brought under control.

Hoseman Edward J. Coveney of Engine No. 33 suffered a cut on the knee and minor bruises when he was caught under a shower of slate from the roof. He was removed to the Haymarket Relief Station.

The fire, which started on the first floor had gained rapid headway when the first apparatus arrived. Streams of water were poured into the building from two water towers, one on the Water street side and the other on Central street. District Chief Cornelius J. O'Brien directed the work of extinguishing the shower of sparks which fell on the roofs of nearby buildings and threatening to ignite them.

Ladderman Buckley and Callahan were enveloped by sheets of flame while fastening a ladder to the eaves of the building. They pencil-unhanged through the fire, which burst out of the windows following an explosion.

Property on the first floor of the adjourning building, at No. 206 Milk street, occupied by Gibb's General Express Company, was damaged by water. The origin of the fire is unknown.

TAX TITLE "SHARKS" HIT BY HIGH MONEY

Tax title "sharks," hit by the high money market failed to throng the city auction of tax titles for non payment of taxes held by Collector Deland. As a result of the failure of the first sale another is to be held. The "sharks" have been in the habit of buying the titles, paying the taxes, and then requiring the owners to pay a fee and interest at 8 per cent. in order to retain their equity.

PORTSMOUTH COUPLE DRIVE 1,600 MILES

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Hawey of this city have just completed an automobile trip to Daytona Beach, Fla. Mr. Hawey himself drove the entire distance, over 1,600 miles. Held up by repeated storms, it took him four weeks and three days to reach the Southern resort.

Sweeper Heads Bank After 37 Years

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Thirty-seven years ago Frank R. Watson grabbed a broom and started his career as a banker by sweeping out. He swept with accuracy and afterward was a diligent errand boy. Today Mr. Watson is the new president of the First National Bank of Aurora, one of the largest banking institutions of northern Illinois.

"In the days when I got my first job in the bank the errand boy was a man of all jobs," Watson said. "My first job in the morning was to sweep out the bank. I waived to be a banker, so I worked hard and took advantage of every opportunity."

GAY WAR LIFE STARTS DIVORCE

Burlesque Army Orders Bring Girls to Dispel Major's Gloom in French Chateau

New York, Jan. 13.—Up in the front line trenches German shells were clopping, but back at the Chateau Voyvray, in the ville De La Bourgne, everything was peaceful and oh, so pleasant.

At least that is what Mrs. Grace C. Miller contends in her suit for legal separation against Harry C. ("Cyclone") Miller, former major in the field artillery. What went on at the chateau where her husband and brother officers were billeted was thoroughly thrashed out in court here.

Letters from Miss Maude Bigge, a British "Wac," who is alleged to have taken part in the affairs at the chateau, were introduced into evidence as well as letters from Miller to Miss Bigge. The girl's letters to the major were addressed "My Dear Cyclone" and Miller's letters addressed her as "Biggs Bear."

Major Miller, now back in civil life as an agent for an insurance company, and Lieutenant Colonel Karl Booth, a theatrical manager, who served with him in France, took the stand in an attempt to offset the effect of the Bigge-Miller letters. They both testified that Miss Bigge always scrupulously observed the proprieties. A photograph was introduced showing Miss Bigge stroking Major Miller's head.

LADIES GOT "ARMY" ORDERS.

The parties at the Chateau were all carried out strictly in accordance with military procedure, evidence introduced indicated. Burlesque army orders like the following were issued in lieu of invitations:

April 50, 1919.

"Special order No. 1,000.
"Paragraph 100:
"Miss Marcia Warren, A. A. C.
"Miss Rose Hathaway, A. R. C. proceed on May 4, 1919, from their respective post commands, to Voyvray Chateau, Ville De La Bourgne, to arrive on or about date, reporting on arrival to the commanding officer of the chateau for the purpose of presenting a salute, after which, combined with the sunshine of their presence will thus dispel the gloom clouds now pervading the system of the inmates of this station, which cause inefficiency and this inefficiency find this military service time to credit in the military service upon completion of this duty they will return to their proper stations.
"The quartermaster will furnish the necessary transportation and will furnish rations in kind for the period necessary to complete this duty.
"Travel by automobile is authorized.
"The order of Majors Miller and Jackson.
"Miss Miles,
"First lieutenant and adjutant.
"The adjutant."
Several of these orders were found by Mrs. Miller among the papers of her major.

JAIL BREAKER GETS 20 YEARS

Bradley Sentenced for Connecticut Burglaries: Wife Given 4 Years

Willimantic, Ct., Jan. 13.—Alvin L. Bradley, of Worcester, Mass., who escaped from jail in Brooklyn, Ct., more than a year ago, was sentenced to from twenty to twenty-two years in State prison after he had pleaded guilty in Superior Court here to two charges of burglary.

Three others arraigned on the same charge also pleaded guilty.

Bradley's wife, Mrs. Bernice Bradley, was sentenced to four to six years in State prison; Edward Shackett, also of Worcester, was given eight to ten years in prison, and his brother, Leon, was given an indefinite sentence in Cheshire reformatory.

SIX LOWELL MEN HELD IN LIQUOR ROBBERY

Lowell, Jan. 13.—James Andromedas, who took part in the last Olympic games, was arraigned with five others in District Court today charged with breaking and entering and larceny of liquor valued at $2,000 from the home of Joseph Koszczyuszka, on Victoria street, January 7. The other prisoners are James Manoasen of Lowell, Andrew Wilson, Wilfred Harold, Morris Goldstein and Gabriel Gottesio of Bedford. They were each held in $5,000.

HOMES FOR VETS AIM OF BILL

Legion Regent Files Measure With Legislature Which Was Rejected Last Year

A bill to provide direct State aid for war-veterans anxious to establish their own homes in the Commonwealth was filed with the House of Representatives today by Legislative Agent John P. Holland of the Massachusetts Department American Legion.

The bill is almost identical with the measure filed last year by the then President of the Senate Edwin U. McKnight and which was rejected by the Legislature despite the aggressive advocacy of it by the Legion.

Under its terms a war veteran, who was a citizen at the time of his enlistment or who has since formally indicated his desire for citizenship, would be provided with a dwelling at cost not more than $6,000. He would make an initial payment of 5 per cent. of the value of the property and would continue with monthly payments sufficient to pay off the cost in twenty-five years.

Provision is made for the State, in its discretion, to grant the property outright to the veteran who has become permanently disabled during his occupancy of the premises.

The fund would be administered by a Soldiers and Sailors Homestead Commission, to be appointed by the Governor.

F. H. PURINGTON HEADS REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

NAVAL OFFICERS' WIVES FORM "NO LIMIT" CLUB

Newport, R. I., Jan. 13.—The Limit Club originally formed by Mrs. Livingston Hunt, wife of Pay Director Hunt of Boston and Mrs. Morse, wife of Paymaster John W. Morse, U. S. N., and other naval society women, and which had to be abandoned after the war started, has been replaced by the No Limit Club. The idea at first was that the club luncheon should not cost more than 75 cents per person. But that sum cuts no figure now, Mrs. Morse was formerly Miss Nella Frye, whose father is a wealthy shoe manufacturer of Marlboro Mass.

Every Young Girl's Ambition—to Make a Perfect Pie

Those Interested Should Read This Carefully and Understand the Art of Pie Making

SOME people say that the making of flaky, delicate and easily digested pie crust "is an art."

Perhaps it used to be. Today even the inexperienced girl can make the finest pie crust. Only two things are necessary. A good recipe—which is given here. And Mazola—which is sold by all grocers.

Mazola is so readily adapted to pie crust making that even those who first try it are assured of flaky, tender crusts.

The liquid form of Mazola, the fact that it is 100% pure, highest grade vegetable oil, is in a large way responsible for the satisfactory results. Crusts are too tough or too short in many cases. This is due to the inaccurate measuring bound to occur when hard fats are used.

Equal to Butter at Half the Price—Better Than Lard

You use ¼ to ⅓ less Mazola than of lard or other fat. Because Mazola contains no moisture, whereas lard and other animal fats contain 10% to 13% water.

Mazola has actually taken the guesswork out of pie crust making. It is indeed satisfying to know your pie crust will turn out tender, delightful-looking and flaky.

Make this demonstration yourself tonight—easily accomplished

CRISP, FLAKY PIE CRUST

2 cups flour
½ cup Mazola
Pinch of Salt
Ice water

Work Mazola well into the flour and salt, add enough ice water to hold together (about ¼ cup) and roll out at once. ½ teaspoon of Baking Powder may be added if desired.

Once you try Mazola for Salads you will prefer it to the finest imported olive oils. The price of Mazola is about half that of olive oil. No customs duty—no ocean freight charges on Mazola.

ABIE IS EXCITED BY 'HELIOTROPE'

Famous Agent Tells Minsk It's Some "Thrillish" Picture at Park Theatre

By "ABIE THE AGENT," Per Hersfield.

Listen, Minsk, there's an olden say-ing what says, "the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world"—he party what wrote that had the maid service in mind. But I'll come back to that, later. I said "the hand that ROCKS the cradle," ha?—the mother in "Heliotrope," at the Park Theatre this week, "rocked" the cradle all-right—it's lucky the child wasn't in a boat, that's all.

But did the child grow up O. K., you're probably thinking, ha, Minsk?—who was the parents, is probable also rushing through your mind, ha? I would ask that myself, if I hadn't seen this wonderful picture!

GLAD HE WAS IN JAIL.

When the film commences, the father is in jail and the mother should be—it don't say exactly why he's in and what's keeping her out. But anyhoo, she's glad that he got a long term behind the bars and that she can live the kind of life more suitable to her nature—whatever he came of her child, never bothered her much—but by him, it was different!

The growing up girl of his was in a convent, but she never knew that her papa was in penitentiary. Being in jail was happiness to him because he felt that she would never know about it, if he didn't come out!

But he knew of her every move, through a good pal of his—and when he found out that his girl was to marry into a very rich and respect-able family, he was willing to sign up for life, in jail, so that there was no chance to get out and cast a shadow over her future!

But the mother read the same arti-cle in the paper about h-r daughter's coming marriage, and she com-menced to use her power over her daughter to get "hush" gelt—and here's where I don't go any further Minsk.

One of the main points in this film, called "Heliotrope," is the heliotrope itself—and some of the most fragrant thrills you ever seen on the screen is enacted from that second on! I don't like to see a woman suffer, picturally odder otherwise, but for this mother I don't show no easiness in my jus-tice!

Any time after a mother ain't got "mother love" for her own daughter—any time such a mother is allowed to go on and hinder the future of her own flesh and blood—if she don't want her—excuse me, Minsk, if I'm com-mencing to sound like Dave Warfield, but when I get to think of what she tried to do— Eh? An excitable na-ture like mine shouldn't go to see thrillish movies! I refuse to encour-age anarchy, not matter how wonder-ful the film is!

CIVIL WAR VETERAN'S WIDOW A PREACHER

The Rev. Elizabeth S. Barker of Peterboro, N. H., who, at the age of seventy-nine has been licensed a local preacher in the Manchester district of the Methodist Episcopal Confer-ence, began her struggles in life when left a widow, working in a shoe shop. Her husband was a veteran of the Civil War.

After the education of her children she has more or less given some time after her housekeeping to evangeli-tic work in her immediate locality. She is known in many towns as "Mother Barker," and effective speaker and a winning leader in church circles.

AWARD SHOE WORKER $333 FOR LOSS OF FINGER

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 13.—Zepherin Gosselin of this city was awarded damages of $333.50 by a jury in the Hillsborough County Su-perior Court against William H Griffin, a shoe manufacturer. Gos-selin, employed by Griffin, lost a fin-ger while working on a machine. He sued for $2,000 damages.

Hub Must Be Roused, Says Fitzgerald

Conservatism is a mental luxury which Bostonians can ill afford while the great world clamors for remedial change, according to William F. Fitzgerald, Boston banker.

Mr. Fitzgerald made this statement in reply to the charge of Dr. Paul Revere Frothingham, that Boston is the "most conservative city in the most conservative section of the country." The reply follows:

By WILLIAM F. FITZGERALD

Dr. Paul Revere Frothingham never spoke truer words than when he characterized Boston's conservatism as "mental luxury." This is a luxury, moreover, which anyone living in Boston just now can ill afford. In fact, we have so indulged ourselves in this pernicious luxury that our national anthem might almost be, "What the h— do I care, I've got mine."

This is sung every day in Boston by choruses of fat men and selfish women, lolling back in their cars and their comfort, while the great world clamors for remedial change, and Boston falls back to a fifth or sixth place among the cities, because we are too conservative, in Boston, to build up our city abreast with the times.

It is one of the most healthful signs I have observed in Boston for a long time—this sermon of Dr. Frothingham's, a sermon with constructive criticism. If that eminent preacher went a step farther, if others of our clergy went a step farther, we would be applauded by those of us who hate to see selfishness rampant, and the cult of conservatism blocking the wheels of our progress.

APPEAL FOR ACTION.

"Mr. Boston, Madame Boston, look at our railroads, ruined because what was good enough in the old days won't keep up five railroads today. Look at our lack of railroad termi-nals; look at our lack of adequate trolleys; look at our lack of fitting office buildings; look at the wretched way we attempt to house our people. Look, and then say if the present spirit of conservatism should not give place to a new and forging spirit of all things done."

This conservatism in Boston is tragic; it is also easily explained. In the older days of our city the real progressives of Boston had imagina-tion and went out West, away from Boston. It was their imagination, their brains, their blessed energy, which built up the West, and devel-oped the silver and the gold mines. The sons of this older Boston, not conservative in their day, forged into the farthest parts of the world, and traded with Asia and the Indies; they, in their day, were not content to let well enough alone.

LIVING ON THE PAST.

But their sons are living on the imagination of the fathers. Woe to the young man who lies back upon what his father has done! Therefore we who are bringing up the younger gen-eration in this conservative Boston of today must teach them that wealth is the essence of living—not money. We must show our young people, crippled by this smug spirit of con-tent with what is and has been, that money is simply a convenience; and that the greatest thing is to develop your resources, as the fathers did in the beginning.

We must, for our children's sake, rouse our city from this fool's para-dise into which it has comfortably drifted, because, if we do not, the manhood of our sons is devitalized.

Let our clergy, following the help-ful criticism, demand that we get back to the old spirit, the old thinking, which did not lie down content to rest and not to struggle. Let us tell our children that we must make Boston a community of doers once again, if we wish our beloved city to maintain its place. Let us spread the doctrine that it is only the coward who is con-tent, who is conservative, who is standpat, when he himself has done nothing to be content about.

CALLS FOR FAIR WORK.

Senator Penrose, in speaking of the situation, not only in regard to Boston, but also to the whole country, remark-ed: "It is appalling." So it is. It cannot be exaggerated. But plain talk and no skulking, will help us out of our selfish comfort, out into real life, out into the open, out where the sun is shining, and men are not afraid to do a day's work for a day's pay, whether the man be a laborer or he who hires the laborer.

To face the condition which our flabby content has brought us to; to face it and to overcome it, we have the brains in Boston, the men and the courage.

And when Boston men and women start to build the newer Boston on the ashes of the self complacency of the old, when they finally get down to work, they will be inspired again with the old spirit of the old fathers who built Boston in the beginning. And their accomplishment will be be-yond their dreams.

101ST VETERANS MEET TONIGHT TO ORGANIZE

Tonight is the night for the men of the 101st Infantry. The meeting to organize the 101st Infantry Regi-ment Veterans' Association will be held at the Y. D. Club at 8 p. m. An entertaining program has been ar-ranged. Every member and former member of the regiment is invited to do his bit in perpetuating the tradi-tions of the regiment. Colonel Ed-ward L. The gallant old outfit needs you.

DOUSED WITH WATER, WIFE GIVEN DIVORCE

Pittsfield, Jan. 13.—Mary E. Rice of Adams was granted a divorce from Gen. E. Rice of that town by Judge Callahan in Superior Court here on a charge of cruel and abus-ive treatment.

She testified her husband had struck her with the barrel of a shot-gun and later with a hairbrush, had pinched and kicked her and one day he threw a pail of cold water over her as she lay in bed. They were married in 1904.

The court granted 18 divorces, six of which were for cruelty and abusive treatment.

COL. HARDING FAVORS CANAL IN NICARAGUA

Washington, Jan. 13.—Colonel Chester Harding, Governor of the Canal Zone, was in Washington and conferred with Secretary of War Baker. No official discussion of a new canal took place, but Colonel Harding opposed the proposition to make a sea level canal out of the present waterway. If there were to be a second canal, he advocates one in Nicaragua route.

Colonel Harding holds office as Governor of the Canal Zone until the new administration comes in. He will submit his resignation to Presi-dent Harding on that time.

LUMBERMEN TO AID FORESTER IN N. H.

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 12.—The New Hampshire Lumbermen's Asso-ciation met here and was addressed by State Forester Foster in regard to his plans for reforestration of waste lands.

The association promised Forester Foster its co-operation. Miss Mar-garet Fox, formerly a secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the Lumbermen's Association.

SPY LINCOLN "EXECUTED"

News of Secret "Death" of Notorious Fugitive Is Wired From Hungary

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Boston American Staff Correspondent

Berlin, Jan. 13.—Ignatius Trebitch Lincoln, famed as an "international spy," according to information from Budapest today has "died."

Lincoln has played his role in England, the United States, Germany, Hungary, Austria, and lately in Czecho-Slovakia.

Lincoln was charged with being one of the chief conspirators and the press censor in the Kapp revolution in Berlin last March, and was after-ward associated with Colonel Bauer in certain Russian and Hungarian circles working up an anti-Bolshevik movement.

ACCUSED AS TRAITOR.

He is alleged to have turned traitor last Summer when he deserted that movement and was accused of selling documents and information to the French of alleged monarchistic plans in Germany, Russia and Hungary.

These documents and reports re-cently published in France and Lon-don were credited to him.

As told in one of my recent dis-patches, for this alleged betrayal a secret court of death was said to have been passed upon Lincoln by three different anti-Red groups. A letter purporting to be from a member of one of these groups has been re-ceived here containing the informa-tion "Trebitch has died."

Lincoln was last heard from in Prague from where he called the American newspaper men in Berlin on the telephone and said he was work-ing with Czecho-Slovak Foreign Minister Benesch

HIS DEATH UNCERTAIN.

Whether secret agents have found Lincoln and carried out the sentence or whether it is a scheme of Lincoln's to throw pursuers off the track is not known.

Lincoln is alleged to have confided to a woman friend some time ago that, in view of his many enemies, he proposed to be "found dead" some day by getting possession of some corpse, disfiguring it beyond recog-nition, placing his papers in the pock-ets and disappear.

Lincoln was a Hungarian Jew. He emigrated and became a minister of the High Church of England and suc-ceeded in entering Parliament. He has a brother who is a noted author, living in the United States under another name.

BIGAMIST INDICTED FOR ESCAPING JAIL

Adams, Jan. 13.—Three indictments were returned by the grand jury at Pittsfield against Elmer Whitten, who, after being sentenced for bigamy, escaped from the House of Correction and was captured after he shot Patrolman Charles A. Daniels. The indictments are for escaping jail, shooting with intent to murder Daniels, and for beating the officer.

An indictment for perjury was re-turned against Stanislaus Mendel of this town, who is alleged to have committed perjury at the trial of John Cucwa.

FRANCE'S FINANCIAL STATUS CREATES TENSION

Paris, Jan. 13.—There was consid-erable tension on the Bourse follow-ing the publication of the latest Bank of France statement showing that the government only reduced its debt to the banks three hundred fifty mil-lions instead of twelve hundred mil-lions promised by the Minister of Finance.

The statement shows that the treasury has a margin of only seven hundred fifty millions before it reach-es the total debt of twenty-four bil-lions authorized by law.

GRIEVING

DOROTHY H. TELFER.

If "Cutie" doesn't come home soon little six-year-old Dorothy Helen Telfer of No. 7 Centre street, Cam-bridge, is going to be sorely dis-tressed. "Cutie" and Dorothy have been chums several months.

"Cutie" is a Boston terrier, with white breast, white forepaws and an almost perfectly formed white star on his forehead. Dorothy believes that her canine companion may be suffering from "amnesia dogeritis," and is wandering somewhere in Greater Boston unable to find his way home.

If you see "Cutie" and help him to get home you will be Dorothy's friend for life.

EXPECT CUT IN MILK PRICE

Commission, Believing 17¼ Cents Too High, Will Probe February Figures

Believing that the present price of milk to consumers is still too high, the Commission on the Necessaries of Life will take up the discussion of the February figures at a meeting with the producers and distributors next week.

It is believed that a further reduc-tion in the price from 17¼ cents per quart may result from the meeting.

The commission is known to hold that the distributors should have low-ered their figure two cents at least when the farmers cut their price to the wholesalers from 10½ to 9½ cents for January.

It is held that the distributors, who now receive as much as the producer, who also pay the freight to Boston, should have been willing to accept a lower price instead of merely passing along to the consumer the cut made by the farmer.

Both producer and distributor now receive approximately 8½ cents per quart for milk.

The New England Milk Producers' Association will meet next Tuesday in Boston at Ford Hall. A new sales committee will then be chosen, which will report on the price of milk for February to the wholesalers.

STATE MAY RUN BOWDOIN MEDICAL SCHOOL

Bowdoin College will close its med-ical school at the end of the current year unless methods to maintain it adequately are found, according to President K. C. Mills, speaking at the annual dinner of the alumni. He expressed hope that if the college is unable to continue the school the State of Maine would take it over. He said $55,000 for equipment and an income of $50,000 for faculty were conservative estimates of the funds needed to keep the school at Bowdoin.

'Dry' Favors Protecting Cocktail Cherries

Washington, Jan. 13.—What is in a maraschino cherry without a cocktail? A pleasant reminder of the pre-Volstead days, Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, Democrat, of North Carolina, evidently thinks. Senator McNary, Republi-can, of Oregon, waxed en-thusiastic in an appeal to the Senate Finance Committee to in-sert in the Fordney, emergency tariff bill a section to protect maraschino cherries from foreign importations. He rode the cherry industry on the Pacific coast is in serious danger of destruction by the influx of cherries from abroad.

"Are those the sort of cherries they put in cocktails?" asked Sen-ator Simmons as ardent anti-prohibitionist. "They are," Senator McNary replied, hastily with visions of the entire Anti-Saloon League swooping down upon him.

"Then I'm for protection," said the tacheel solon, a merry twinkle in his eyes. And this despite the fact that Senator Simmons always has voted "dry."

BILL CALLS FOR NORMAL SCHOOL AT MANCHESTER

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 12.—Rep-resentative Frank H. Challis of Man-chester has introduced a bill in the Legislature calling for an appropria-tion of $300,000 for the purpose of erecting a normal school here. The bill provides that one-half of the sum shall be contributed by the State and the other share by the city of Man-chester.

SHERIFF SCORES STATE CONTROL

Richardson Replies to Bates in Clash Over Rule for Coun-ty Institutions

Worcester, Jan. 13.—Sanford Bates, head of the State Department of Cor-rection, is making his attack on Sheriff Albert F. Richardson regarding the fight over State control of county penal institutions, advanced most con-vincing arguments why the State should not have control, according to an opinion expressed today by Sheriff Richardson.

The sheriff said that if he had the same opportunities for careful man-agement of the department that Mr. Bates has he would be ashamed not to make it self-supporting.

"Two years ago I had an offer from a large manufacturer to install machinery and tools and furnish material for a certain industry, but the Department of Correction would not permit this to be done," said the sheriff.

"Then again we are obliged by law to purchase our supplies from the stock of the Department of Correction and there are a great many things which have cost us at least 25 per cent more than I would have had to pay for them in the open markets.

"Here is some more efficiency. Since 1912 the expense of running the executive end of the Department of Correction of the State has increased from $36,000 to more than $90,000."

CONGRESSMEN'S HOTEL PLANNED

Bill Provides for Structure to House the Families of Vice-President and Legislators

Washington, Jan. 13.—The Vice-President and his household and members of Congress and their families will all be quartered under one roof if a joint resolution introduced in the House by Representative Langley, Republican, of Kentucky, chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, becomes effective.

The resolution would have the government erect a great apartment hotel for their use in the environs of Washington. It was offered by Representative Langley as a solution of the problem with which Congressmen have been contending in the last few years to find suitable living quarters at reasonable rates here.

The proposed apartment hotel, Representative Langley said, would not only eliminate this problem, but it would provide the lawmakers with the facilities that are essential for entertaining their positions require and which "has been impossible for those not immensely wealthy at the prevailing rents."

"Most Congressmen have comfortable homes in their own States," Representative Langley said, "and it would bankrupt 95 per cent of them if they attempted to duplicate them in Washington."

Representative Langley would run the hotel at cost, with a slight profit to be turned back into the treasury to apply against the cost of construction.

WIFE IS PROSTRATED BY HUSBAND'S DISAPPEARANCE

Brockton, Jan. 13.—An all-day search by the police of Brockton and Bridgewater failed to reveal any trace of Asmer T. Jefferson of Wareham, who has been missing since Saturday.

Mrs. Jefferson, who is the daughter of Adrian Z. Pratt of Bridgewater, is prostrated by the continued absence of her husband. Physicians are in constant attendance and fears are expressed that the disappearance of Jefferson may retard her recovery.

NEW MACHINE PRINTS MESSAGES BY WIRELESS

London, Jan. 13.—Wireless transmission at the rate of 100 words per minute is now being achieved by the use of a machine which automatically prints the messages and a special tranmission apparatus.

The printing machine is the invention of the creator of the Creed system of printing telegraphic messages. It passed tests successfully during the transmission of press dispatches from Geneva to London during the opening days of the League of Nations meeting.

FOUR STILLS SEIZED IN ATTLEBORO RAIDS

Attleboro, Jan. 13. — Four stills in operation, a half barrel of whiskey and thirty-nine barrels of mash, were seized in two liquor raids conducted here by Deputy Sheriff John H. Nerney and seven officers. Four men were arrested, while a fifth escaped in the woods at Briggs Corner. A shot gun and revolver were taken from one of the prisoners. The men arrested were Ferdinand Mendonica, Joseph Santos, Antony Paiva and John Costa.

DRY AGENTS CONNIVE AT HIGH PER CENT. BEER

Washington, Jan. 13.—Revenue and "dry" law agents have connived with operators of breweries in some districts, making it easy for beer of high alcoholic percentage to find a way to consumers, it was declared in a special report of brewery operations, laid before Revenue Commissioner Williams today by investigators.

O'LEARY READY TO QUIT AS STATE CHAIRMAN

Michael A. O'Leary, it is said, has about decided not to be a candidate for re-election as chairman of the Democratic State Committee. "Certain circumstances" may change his mind. If certain Boston Democrats try to unseat him, he may fight. The committee will organize probably on January 29. Arthur H. Lyman of Waltham has been mentioned for the chairmanship.

TWO KILLED AS AUTO DIVES FROM BRIDGE

Philadelphia, Jan. 13. — Two persons were killed and three others were injured when an automobile in which they were riding smashed through a bridge rail on the Penrose Ferry road south of the Schuylkill river, and turned turtle, landing in a small stream. The dead are: Thomas Myers, Philadelphia; Mrs. Blanche Emmons, Philadelphia.

COOLIDGE APPROVES SIMPLE INAUGURAL

Northampton, Jan. 13.—Vice-President-elect Calvin Coolidge said he was in complete harmony with President-elect Harding on the latter's wishes for a simple and unextravagant inaugural ceremony, in a statement issued at his home here. "I can see no other position that he could take when the Government is attempting to reduce extravagance," declared Mr. Coolidge.

HARDING ACCEPTS OFFER TO JOIN ROTARIANS

Washington, Jan. 13.—It's going to be plain "Warren" when the new President attends the meeting of the Washington Rotary Club, directors of the organization stated in announcing receipt of a leter from the President-elect accepting an invitation to join the club. "Mr. President," "Your Excellency" and even "Mr." will be strictly taboo.

Freshmen to Dance

The freshman class at the School of Engineering, Northeastern College, will hold its first dance tomorrow evening in Cambridge. In charge are R. W. Squier, R. M. MacDonald and William Ray of Gloucester.

Low Neck Gowns Lead Pastor to Ban Night Weddings

The Rev. E. J. Van Etten, formerly of Trinity Church, Boston, now of Pittsburgh, who has stopped performing weddings at night because of his objection to the display of bare shoulders and abbreviated skirts.

If the ladies will insist on wearing low-necked gowns to evening weddings, should evening weddings be taboo, or should the gowns be made higher?

The Rev. E. J. Van Etten, formerly of Boston, now of Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church of Pittsburgh, has raised the question. He will perform no more evening weddings, because, he says, the women will come in dresses disclosing too much of their person and wrecking the decorum of the event.

The Rev. Mr. Van Etten was formerly assistant pastor of Trinity Church, being invited to that post by the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann when he was graduated from the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge.

FAVORED ATHLETIC SPORTS.

Boston acquaintances find his latest action "strictly in character." He was, while stationed here, strongly in favor of athletic sports and muscular Christianity, and as strongly against the brazen display of bare shoulders and birthmarks. He took the vow to put evening weddings under the ban while stationed here because of his disgust at the circus character of some society weddings, friends say.

The Rev. Mr. Van Etten, however, has not everything his own way. Greater Boston ministers are in the main inclined to think he has overestimated the importance of the bare arms and shoulders and underestimated the importance of the wedding, which is, after all, the main thing.

The Rev. Samuel Whipple of Lynn, known as one of the many marrying parsons, is not in favor of discarding evening marriages. He is not in favor of abolishing any kind of marriage. He feels that if abuses creep in the abuses should be done away with, not the wedding.

MUST KEEP WEDDINGS.

"Evening weddings are popular because people find it convenient to attend," said the Rev. Mr. Whipple.

"Decollete gowns may be a nuisance. They should not be allowed to get the upper hand of us.

"Women look better in the evening I am told. Also, relatives find it easier to make the wedding a social function.

REJECT HOTEL WAGE CUT

Cooks and Waiters Vote to Strike If Pay Is Reduced

Members of the Cooks' and Waiters' Union, comprising more than 300 employes of five large Boston hotels, have voted unanimously to reject the proposed cut in wages of $3 a week, notices of which have been posted in the hotels in question. They will refuse to work if the cut is put in effect.

The Waitresses' Union, Local No. 112, the wages of whose members are to be cut from $8 to $7 a week, has taken similar action.

The union will deal with the hotel men as individuals rather than through the Boston Hotel Men's Association, it is stated.

B. U. GIRLS TO BE GIVEN LECTURES ON WOODCRAFT

Talks on practical woodcraft by a well-known guide from the Maine woods will be a feature of the course on Organized Camp Life for Girls which is to be given under the auspices of the Boston University School of Education on successive Saturdays at 10 a. m., beginning next Saturday.

A number of noted educators and instructors in physical education are to give conferences in connection with this course, including Edward F. Brown, director of community service in Boston, and formerly director of the camp department of the Palisade Interstate Park Commission of New York; Miss Sarah Louise Arnold of the Girl Scouts; Alice Sandiford, Massachusetts State Director of the Girl Scouts; Mary M. Stratton and Marguerite Sanderson of the faculty of the Boston School of Physical Education, and Edith M. Kempthorne, National Field Secretary of the Camp Fire Girls in America, will also lecture.

START WORK NEXT WEEK ON NEW MAYFLOWER

Preliminary work on the schooner Mayflower, to be built by Bostonians as defender of the Esperanto cup, will be started in East Boston next week. W. Starling Burgess, designer, expects to have complete plans in the hands of the builder by Tuesday. Roebling & Sons, of Trenton, N. J., and Glidden & Co., of Boston, have volunteered to donate their products in connection with the enterprise.

WOMAN ASKS $5,000 FOR AUTO ACCIDENT

Worcester, Jan. 13.—Mary Farnon of Worcester is plaintiff in two unusual suits for $5,000 brought in Superior Court. She claims she was caught by a rope on an auto which was towing another machine at Main and Myrtle streets, July 1, 1914.

KILLS HIS WIFE, SHOOTS SELF

Hotel Proprietor Enraged When She Upheld 'Mystery' Woman He Planned to Evict

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13.—One woman's loyalty to another, whose identity remained a mystery, caused murder and suicide when A[illegible] Evans, forty-seven years old, formerly a contractor of Fresno, shot and killed Mrs. Irene Evans, twenty-six years old, said by the authorities to be his wife, in the Casa Loma Hotel. Evans, who was the lessee of the hotel, then ended his own life.

The tragedy was enacted in Mrs. Evans' room, which was on the opposite side of the hallway from the quarters occupied by Evans. A bitter quarrel which culminated in the tragedy began in Evans' room and was resumed and carried to its tragic climax after Mrs. Evans had entered her own apartments.

Several persons told the police that the quarrel was about "another woman," and that Evans was insisting that she must leave the place. Mrs. Evans had just declared that if the other woman left she would go also, when Evans drew the revolver and shot her down.

BILL AIMS TO END MANCHESTER DEADLOCK

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 13.—A bill was introduced in the State Legislature by Representative G. Allen Putnam which would abolish the Department of Public Works and establish a Department of Highways for the city of Manchester.

The bill is intended to end a deadlock which has existed in the present department between Mayor Verrette and Director of Public Works M. F. Shea since the appointment of Shea, whom the Mayor has refused to recognize on the ground that his election by the public works commissioners was illegal.

The new bill provides for the appointment of three commissioners by the Governor, who may remove them at any time for cause. The commissioners are to appoint a surveyor of highways.

Leo Rus[illegible], chief deporting agent of the immigration service at Ellis Island, said that a special force would be assigned to the work. E. M. Kline, of the Bureau of Immigration of the Department of Labor, will have command of the round-up.

FIRE IN COAL BIN AT 114 BEDFORD STREET

Fire in the coal bin of the office and factory building, numbered Nos. 114-116 Bedford street, today gave firemen a stiff tussle for several hours, though the damage was not great. Patrolman Sylvester Murphy of the Lagrange street station discovered smoke coming from a manhole in front of the six-story building and turned in the alarm.

ANTI-CRIME WAVE LAW IS PROPOSED IN MAINE

Augusta, Me., Jan. 13.—Representative Blaine S. Viles of Augusta, introduced in the House an act relating to the punishment of certain offences, providing stiffer penalties for crimes because of the wave of crime that is sweeping through the country. The bill was referred to the judiciary committee.

STEELS RALLY, OILS HIGHER

Rails Show Improvement by Noon; Market Is Active on Morning Movement

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were up as a rule in New York by noon, the market having rallied in the second hour. The tone at the end of the morning could be called strong. Steels had recovered and were showing gains, oils were up and rails were much improved.

Among strongest issues were Mexican Petroleum, the morning feature, Republic Steel, Bethlehem B, Baldwin, Allied Chemical, Caddo Oil, Houston, International Paper, Lackawanna Steel, Reading and Vanadium. At their highest they were up from one to more than two points. Crucible remained weak.

The market was active, first hour transactions approximating 340,000 shares. Call money opened at 6 per cent. Foreign exchange rates were lower, demand sterling yielding half a cent to $3.70⅝.

RECEDED AT OUTSET.

A recessional marked the opening, there being two declines for one gain and although there was quick improvement it was not sufficient to make the [illegible]. At the best during the first hour it was irregular. Neither gains nor losses were large on the average, but Crucible sagged more than three points on its initial transaction. It soon recovered in part. Oils were the strongest group around the outset and were led by Doheny stocks. Steels were down as a class. Small changes were recorded for rails and their trend was uncertain. Coppers eased off. The few sugars dealt in sold lower. Little change was done in tires. Both shipping and motor shares were on a lower level. Several specialties were strong, including International Chemical and Allied Chemical. Caddo Oil was unusually active and up more than two points. There was nothing distinctive about the market during the first half of the morning. But the general movement was upward until near the end of that period.

SHORT INTEREST REDUCED.

The short interest has been reduced to such an extent this week that bears are in a better technical position. They maintain that any improvement in the business situation is more sentimental than actual. However, confidence is being restored and a lower call rate is concrete evidence of relaxation of the long-continued money strain. The [illegible] demand for stocks has decreased to such an extent that traders who are working for a decline were confident [illegible] at the start [illegible]. But they were somewhat disturbed by easy absorption of offerings. This exercised [illegible] restraint upon the element which is ready to start a raid upon the least [illegible] movement. The several points rally from its early low by Mexican Petroleum was an episode that inspired caution. The public is not buying stocks to any extent as yet and the recent advance has not proved as much of a lure as usual. Odd lot [illegible] demand continues but has decreased in volume.

Sugar Surplus Is Large

It is not many months since there was talk of great sugar scarcity and prices were boosted on the assumption of a shortage. But at the beginning of this year the surplus was [illegible]. Stocks in this country aggregated [illegible] at [illegible] pounds, as compared with 691,084,800 pounds a year before. Present export requirements are figured at [illegible] pounds as against [illegible] twelve months ago.

More Demand for Hosiery

Increased demand for hosiery is reported by manufacturers and jobbers. An official of one company reports that January business to date is double that for December, and he believes there may be a shortage in the Spring because of delay by retailers in placing orders.

Welfare Work by U. S. Steel

Between January 1, 1912, and September 30 last year, expenditures in welfare work and allied activities by the U. S. Steel Corporation totaled $81,162,943. Men injured and the families of men killed received $23,662,627.

Making More Tractors

Manufacturing of tractors is increasing fast. Production in this country last year totaled 235,000, and an output of 400,000 is expected in 1921 and a total of 10,000,000 in ten years.

New Bank Directors

T. T. Allen has been added to the board of directors of the [illegible] National Bank.

[illegible] and [illegible] have been [illegible] the directorate of the [illegible] National Bank.

[illegible] new directors were John F. [illegible], J. M. [illegible], W. M. [illegible] and F. M. [illegible]. [illegible] was elected president in place of F. L. Daly and Parker D. Morris was elected a vice-president in place of F. J. Crosby.

COPPERS DOWN IN BOSTON

Local Market Is Irregular and Trading Quiet; Curb List Is Stronger

Irregularity characterized the Boston list at the beginning and subsequently during the morning. Trading was of moderate volume and the price range narrow as a whole. Coppers declined, although metal market news is more encouraging, especially as regards export sales. Rails were dull, but Boston & Maine C advanced five points on its first transaction in some time. United Drug continued to rise, gaining more than a point during the morning. Edison advanced a point on a one-share transaction. American Sugar preferred began with a point gain. Other early advances were fractional. Calumet & Hecla dropped five on its second sale and Ahmeek a point on its first.

Small gains were made by Wickwire, Greenfield Tap, North Butte and Superior & Boston. Fractional losses were sustained by International Products, Bigheart, Ventura, Carson Hill, United Shoe, Old Dominion [illegible] and Copper Range. Many issues were unchanged up to noon.

CURB PRICES HIGHER.

A better tone marked the Curb market at the opening and later in the morning. Gains were the rule in early trading. Among leaders at the start were Boston & Montana, Merrimac Development and Verde Mines. Issues to advance at once included Albany Divide, First National, Mutual, Palisade, Randolph, Texana and United Verde Extension. Among weak ones were Boston & Montana, Hecla Divide and Iron Cap.

At the end of an hour Boston & Montana was up 2 cents at 48 cents, Verde Mines 2 cents at 36 cents, Eureka 3 cents at 50 cents, Randolph 3 cents at 53 cents and First National 2 cents at a dollar. Losses were Merrimac Development 1½ cents at 6½ cents and Hecla Divide 1 cent at 7 cents. Mutual had lost its gain.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

F. W. Allen [illegible] Lee, Higginson & Co., John [illegible] & Redmond Co. and M. S. Bird of Maynard S. Bird & Co., Portland, Me., have been added to the [illegible] Barnsdall Corporation.

[illegible] Springfield has been granted a Massachusetts charter. It is capitalized at $500,000.

EXPORT COPPER SALES OF LARGE TONNAGE

So far this month the foreign demand for American copper has been on an expanding scale. It is stated that several million pounds were sold for export on Tuesday. Domestic buying is also increasing. The price has hardened to 14 cents for [illegible] and to 14¼ cents for first quarter delivery. Several orders have been obtained from American consumers at the latter price.

W. F. Bartholomew, of Tucker, Bartholomew & Co., says there has been a change for the better in the copper situation. Figures received by him, which are as near official as can be obtained, show for 1920 that refined copper production totaled 1,[illegible],000 pounds, sales on foreign and domestic account aggregated 1,406,000 and mine production amounted to 1,235,000,000. He figures the present surplus at about 600,000,000 pounds.

Why Mr. Mellon Resigned

It is said that A. W. Mellon resigned from the directorate of the Pennsylvania road because of possible embarrassment through Federal laws, effective since January 1, in regard to interlocking directors. He is a director of many corporations, including the American Locomotive Co., Crucible Steel Co. of America, Forged Wheel [illegible], Middletown Car Co., Pittsburgh Coal Co., Standard Steel Car Co. and Forged Steel Car Co.

Charlton Cotton Mills declared quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. payable February 1 to holders of record January 10.

American Brake Shoe & Foundry Co. declared quarterly dividend of $1 a share on new common and 1¾ per cent. on new preferred, both payable March 31 to stock of record March 18.

Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway declared semi-annual dividend of 3½ per cent., payable February 1 to holders of record January 22.

American Radiator Co. declared quarterly dividends of $1 on common and 1¾ per cent. on preferred. Common is payable March 31 to stock of record March 1 and preferred February 15 to stock of record February 1.

F. W. Woolworth Co. declared quarterly $2 common dividend payable March 1 to stock of record February 10.

Pacific Coast Co. declared quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent. on first preferred and 1 per cent. on second preferred, payable February 1 to stock of record January 22.

Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation declared quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. on preferred, payable February 28 to stock of record February 15.

Submarine Boat Corporation declared semi-annual 50 cent dividend, payable February 7 to stock of record January [illegible].

Rail Earnings

Atchison's November gross increased $2,401,822 but its net decreased $1,204,207. For eleven months gross increased $[illegible],308, but net operating income decreased $13,224,252.

Hocking Valley reports for November increases of $1,0[illegible],283 in operating revenue and of $319,[illegible] in operating income.

Gross earnings of the Canadian Pacific for 1920 approximated $206,000,000. It was the first year in which they exceeded $200,000,000. The increase over 1919 was about $34,000,000.

Erie's November gross increased $4,063,012 and its net deficit decrease was $58,529, a decrease of $171,471.

For November Kansas City Southern reports $551,170 increase in gross and $48,670 decrease in net.

STEEL PROFITS ESTIMATED

Wall Street Figures Last Quarter Earnings Were Forty to Forty-Three Millions

By BROADAN WALL.
(Registered, U. S. Patent Office.)

New York, Jan. 13.—Substantial reduction in the short interest, which has been the propelling force of advancing prices the last few days, was followed yesterday by irregularity in the stock market. Another factor which helped slacken the rapidity of the rise was the delivery of much stock which had been borrowed supposedly for short account.

The financial district began guessing as to the probable earnings of the Steel corporation for the last quarter of 1920. Estimates ran all the way from $40,000,000 to $43,000,000.

There is much anxiety in the financial district as to what will ultimately be done with regard to the financing of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company which has been the subject of many conferences between bankers and creditors of the company the last few weeks. It is learned on good authority that an attempt will shortly be made to form a "rescue party."

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Jan. 13.—The cotton market was active and firm at the opening, with [illegible] prices up 20 to 4[illegible] points, January touching 1[illegible] cents. In the face of heavy profit taking by Wall street the list was well sustained after the start by trade buying and further covering of shorts, partly due to strong cables and better advices from Manchester. Private [illegible] from Liverpool reported a good export demand for low grades. At the end of twenty minutes dealings were still active, with late deliveries about 35 points above the previous close. Opening prices were: January, 18.00; March, 16.45; May, 16.40; July, 1[illegible]; [illegible] tember, 16.47 to 16.50; October, 16.40; December, 16.37 bid.

BASEBALL MAGNATES IN MAD SCRAMBLE TO CONFIRM LANDIS

JUDGE IS MADE BIG BOSS

His Decision Is Final on All Matters Even if Others Vote Contrarily

Chicago, Jan. 13.—All is serene in baseball circles. Most of the magnates have departed this municipality, after first having clothed Judge Landis with greater power than any man ever wielded during the history of the national pastime.

The authority vested in Ban Johnson in the early days of the American League pale into insignificance compared with those that Mr. Landis possesses. Johnson always had to bow to a board of directors while nobody has any authority over the Judge.

The amended major league agreement did not meet with his approval when it came up for discussion. He informed the club owners they must subscribe to the document as drafted originally or get someone else for the job. They subscribed pronto.

Landis' Vote Settles All Questions

He also interpreted the paragraph referring to the advisory committee to mean that when Johnson and Heydler voted one way and he voted another way, he won the argument. That was agreeable. Then the minors and majors met in joint session and the Judge's power was completed through [illegible] organizations.

Judge Landis can summon any official of any league or club and take such action as he deems fit if he suspects double dealing or any conduct in any way detrimental to the welfare of the game. He can stop Johnson or Heydler as easily as he can flag a Class D rookie. His power is absolute and all parties have agreed that they waive rights to go into courts of law if they do not agree with his decisions.

Step Taken to Clean Up Baseball

It was felt necessary to do this in order that the evils which have crept into the game of late years might be eradicated. There was no dissenting voice. Harry Frazee did not sign at once because he was not in the meeting and [illegible] made the motion which ratified the original agreement.

Some idea of what is in store for ball players charged with crookedness was indicated by the minors when they barred Rumler, Borton and Maggert, who were indicted in California, and also erased Gene Dale, a pitcher, charged with unbecoming conduct. They can have no employment in any minor league, although a California judge quashed the three indictments on the grounds that the men were guilty only of a breach of civil contract and could not be tried for a crime.

Majors Will Have to Fall Into Line

Undoubtedly the majors will follow suit, as they cannot afford to let the little leagues outdo them in purging the game.

The minors also voted to cite players who took part in games with Fred McMullin out in California to show cause why they should not be disciplined. The minors also voted that the board of arbitration shall mete swift punishment to any player who consorts with men under suspension. No doubt the majors will do likewise.

The advisory counsel of majors and minors will meet today to draft rules to cover their relations. This was a formal session only. The big thing was clothing Judge Landis with arbitrary powers.

HARVARD VICTORY JUBILEE TONIGHT

A victory jubilee will be held at the Harvard Club tonight for the Crimson athletic teams that defeated Yale in 1920. The crew, baseball, hockey and football teams will dine at Boston clubs and hotels at 6 o'clock and will go then to the Harvard Club for the grand entertainment that has been prepared secretly by a committee under Joseph S. Seabury.

MARTIN MEETS ANDY CHANEY

Bout With Kilbane for Feather Title Goal of Ambitious Fenway Boxer

By JACK CONWAY.

Vincent (Pepper) Martin and Andy Chaney will battle for the right of meeting Johnny Kilbane when they clash in a ten-round tussle at the Fenway A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building tonight. It is no secret that Kilbane is slipping and that he is now in a position where he would [illegible] a tussle [illegible] ring warrior like Martin or Chaney.

Martin's [illegible] fighting during the past year has carried him to the front ranks of the featherweight class. [illegible] is a ring freak. [illegible] he can deliver a [illegible] punch when out of position. He even surpasses [illegible] as a freak boxer [illegible] he can rest his gloves on the canvas of the ring and then let go a punch which breezes through the well known ozone until it collides with his rival's jaw.

Chaney says he will force the issue [illegible] as he believes that by keeping in close and hammering away at Martin's body he will be able to overcome the Cambridge youth's freakish style of milling.

Armory A. A. Back on Job Tuesday Night

The Armory A. A. will be back on the job with a bang-up attraction next Tuesday night. The feature bout of ten rounds will find Jimmy Frasetti, New England lightweight champion, battling Joe Tiplitz of Philadelphia. Fruzetti is back in the home sector after having fought fifteen hard rounds with Benny Valgar in New York. Among other things Frazetti scored two knockdowns. Billy Carrey of New Bedford will toss punches in the general direction of Mickey Donovan of Brockton in another ten-round match.

Bill Cahill of Everett has been signed to swap broadsides with Johnny Shugrue in a ten-round tussle at the Worcester A. A. of Worcester next Monday night. Cahill has been traveling at a mighty lively clip of late and is of the opinion he will be able to put the skids under Shugrue.

Green vs. Sacco at Marlboro

Marlboro will be out front on the fistic map Friday night with "Irish Billy" Green of Chicago battling Jimmy (Young) Sacco of East Boston. Despite the fact he will be giving away at least eight pounds to his opponent Green is of the opinion he will win. The Middle West featherweight champion will then be prepared to relieve Bobby Josephs of his duties as New England featherweight champion. Eddie Stanton, Green's manager, considers Josephs the type of fighter who would be easy picking for Green.

MARTIN OFFERED BOUT IN BRITAIN

New York, Jan. 13.—Bob Martin, the A. E. F. champion, received an offer to visit England and battle the winner of the Battling Levinsky-Bombardier Wells fight. That the Britishers desire the presence of Martin was evidenced by the fact that they offered him $25,000 and five round trip tickets to sign articles. The Battler and Wells fight on the 14th of this month, and the tentative date for Martin is March 17.

Stories of Famous Fights

The Finish of Gus Ruhlin

This is the eighth of a series of "Finishes of Old-Time Fights," written by authorities on pugilism who were famous in their day. Others will follow.

Today we tell you of the Bob Fitzsimmons-Gus Ruhlin fight, held at Madison Square Garden, August 10, 1900. Fitz won in the sixth round, hitting Ruhlin so hard that for hours it was feared the giant would die. In the early stages of the battle Ruhlin gave Fitz a merry whipping, and ringsiders thought the Cornishman's fighting days were over. But he fooled them.

By Right Cross

And Fitz had the punch.

After all is said and done, what doth it profit a fighter if he can have size and strength and youth and cannot flourish forth the knockout?

Ruhlin had everything on Fitz—size, build, height, reach, youth, and Corbett to advise him.

But Fitz had the punch.

Fitz was now falling into his usual form with the rapidity of an avalanche. Quick and strong as at Carson City, he feinted Ruhlin to him. He swung his wide bulging shoulders, and backed by that terrific force his elbow crashed into Ruhlin's face, sending that already running blood flying to the ropes.

Ruhlin Takes Awful Blows

They wobbled about the ring like a pair of haphazard longshoremen. Ruhlin landed blows so easily that Bob looked silly. And then—

Around and over came Fitz's right. Ruhlin threw up his guard. Fitz shifted his feet, and as his left leg came forward again the left glove came with it, and for the first time Ruhlin knew what a Fitzsimmons shift and solar plexus blow meant. It landed fair and solidly, sending Ruhlin to the floor as if he had been struck amidship by a trolley car.

Fitz smiled as he walked away from his writhing prey. He probably didn't expect Ruhlin to get up. Corbett peered anxiously and pityingly through the ropes at Gus. He knew what that punch means and read the answer in the stars Ruhlin saw in the sixth round. Bob used his shift again, slowly and deliberately. He was certain this time. A left hook dug its breath killing way into Ruhlin's already sick and upset stomach.

Corbett and Fitz "Make Up"

Ruhlin pitched forward. To make sure, Bob brought the same hand up hard and solid to the jaw, and it was all over.

Ruhlin, limp and lifeless, had to be carried to his corner, where it took Billy Madden and Corbett ten minutes to bring him back to earth.

Fitz went over to shake hands with him. Ruhlin was too far out to know where he was.

"Will you shake hands with me?" said the ever-good-natured Fitz, turning to Corbett.

Corbett willingly grasped the victor's hand, the first time since they refused this courtesy to each other at Carson City.

Heaphy to Captain B. C. Grid Squad

Jack Heaphy of [illegible] for the past two years centre [illegible] Boston College football eleven and prior to that [illegible] for the Georgetown team, was unanimously elected captain of the B. C. varsity of 1921 at the banquet tendered the team at the City Club.

Heaphy is the greatest centre ever to play for Boston College and one of the leading snapper backs in the country. He was named by many for the All-American team of last year and [illegible] who make a practice of selecting honor teams [illegible] him honorable mention for his season's work.

Walter Camp failed to place him on his team but Heaphy had the satisfaction of completely outplaying Tim Callahan of Yale, whom Camp did honor with a first string position.

AT the end of the affair Mrs. Shipman whispered in the half humorous yet serious tone which was characteristic of that lady when she was with those whom she knew.

"My dear, I envy you. Of all the younger generation of women you are the one born to do things. I hope I shall be alive a few years from now, a nice, retired old lady to watch you managing affairs."

"But I do, my dear," and there was undeniable conviction in Mrs. Shipman's voice. "You are going to do great things. Good-bye—until we meet in the country."

A Note from Shipman

As Jennie went away dazed by this approval a footman handed her a box. This she opened in her car. It contained a few deep-red roses—in money value they meant almost nothing—and an unsealed envelope. From the last she drew a sheet of paper on which was written these few lines:

Let me say good-bye, too. You have done all I thought you might possibly do. You have proved that you are the sort of wife I talked about that night—the wife who can make her husband a great man. You the doing that to your husband. I congratulate you, and I am glad that it is my privilege to be Your friend

DANIEL SHIPMAN.

Mrs. Shipman's parting words, this note from Mr. Shipman, so thrilled Jennie that for the time she forgot other matters. Never did this world seem so desirable, never did her pathway seem to be leading forward to such a glorious and widening future. There would have to be manoeuvrings, jugglings, struggles—but she would hold on to it.

Afterwards, when she was at home with Mrs. Harrison and Sue, it seemed that their whole-hearted affection for her would not permit them to leave. Jennie furtively glanced at her watch. The hands crept around toward five, her uneasiness grew, but she could hardly send them away, and they were still there when the butler announced the cabinet-maker.

She hesitated; then said with forced calm: "Send him in, Martin. I'll show him what the work is."

A moment later Black Jerry was ushered in by the English butler. Black Jerry's dress was the usual one of artisans—he wore the common celluloid collar with a buttoned-on bow tie; and he held the usual scuffed leather bag in which skilled workmen carry their tools. His dark face was impassive.

"This way, please," Jennie ordered. Black Jerry, sidling along the great Italianesque fireplace, crossed the big living room to the door which Jennie opened. "It's the lower left drawer to that desk which you are to fix," she continued in her even voice; and closing the door she returned to her guests.

Fifteen minutes later her visitors finally did depart, and Jennie slipped into the sitting-room. Her father rose from the chair in which he had been waiting.

"It's not about Harry Edwards?"

"No, Dad."

"That's right. What you decided was O. K.—it made me glad. If Harry Edwards wanted to make a fool out of himself and throw away his chance, that's his business. It ain't your business to throw away your chance."

"Dad—this isn't what I asked you here for—but is there anything new in Harry's case?"

"It still stands just like Uncle George said. It's all his own fault, though. But if it ain't because of Harry Edwards that you sent for me, then what is it?"

"I'm just plain nervous dad. I—I seem to have gone to pieces. I simply had to talk to some one." It had always been difficult for these two to be outspoken in their feeling, but the strain of her situation compelled an unhesitating directness. "From what you've done for me, dad, I know I mean more to you than any one else—and you're the closest person to me in the world. Since I had to talk with some one, I simply had to talk with you. It's—it's about Kenneth, dad."

"Kenneth!" It was a voice though a whisper was a menacing growl. "What's he been doing?"

"In what way?"

"All I know is the way he has looked at me when he thought I wasn't looking. His face was strained, his eyes were penetrating, questioning. I've thought that he half suspected—perhaps actually knew."

"I'm serious in the way I feel—though I can't tell what he suspects or knows. But that has always been the danger, that he might sometime find out."

"And if he did find out," demanded Jerry, "what would he do?"

"He's very proud, dad, and very ambitious. I'm sure it would be the end of things between us. He'd throw me out. I can't tell you how sick I am thinking of that. And if he does, what am I ever to do?"

"If he does,"—Jerry's big chest heaved and he ventured to take her hand—"if he does, I'll still be backing you! But the chances are you're all wrong. You're going to stick right to the job, and keep on playing the game to the finish!"

"Of course I am, dad!"

He spoke reassuringly, his dark, hungry eyes on her face, still holding the hand he had dared take. His gruff, definite words were deeply comforting to her, for a few moments her spirit rested against the rugged strength of his; such support and comfort were what she had hungered for in the mood which had possessed her these many days. In those moments there was a strong influence of her courage and confidence, once more she began to feel her accustomed strength to meet and handle any situation.

Kenneth in the Doorway

And then she heard a noise at the door, which was behind her, but which her father faced. She turned quickly; and as she turned she felt something wrenched from her wrist. Halted in the doorway was Kenneth.

The hush was sickeningly long to Jennie as she gazed at the staring Kenneth, but in reality it lasted for only the briefest instant. Black Jerry broke the silence.

"Well, you think you've got me, don't you?" he snarled defiantly at Kenneth. He reached for his hip pocket but his hand came back empty. "Hell! I forgot my gat! I suppose you [illegible] have got me, then. This is all I've [illegible] so far." He tossed [illegible] the jeweled watch he had just torn from Jennie's wrist. "Well," he demanded, "what're you going to do with me?"

While he spoke, fast though she was, Jennie grasped her father's conceived purpose. To save her he was trying to explain his presence here by passing himself off as a burglar. His reach [illegible] a pistol she recognized as merely a bit of stage play to add [illegible] and plausibility to his impersonation; she knew her father always went unarmed.

"How did he get in here, Jennie?" asked Kenneth.

"But that watch is really all he got this [illegible]. I wish you would not send him to jail, Kenneth, if you can feel that you don't have to."

"Why not?" asked Kenneth.

She had been in tight situations before, but none quite so tight as this. She was taut with suspense, but she managed to speak with no more than the quick breathing and the nervousness natural to one who has just been the victim of a burglarious assault.

"If he were arrested," she replied, "there'd be a police court trial—and I'd have to be in it—and Kenneth, I'd rather not be mixed up in a messy police court affair. I'm sure if you gave him a sharp talking to and then let him go it would be better for us."

"What's the use of my saying anything?" Jerry responded gruffly. "What you say is all that counts."

"I yield to my wife's request," said Kenneth. "I'll let you off."

Jennie's relief was as vast and sudden as had been her suspense. They were safe! They had saved the situation!

And then—

And then Kenneth closed the door, and stepped into the room. He faced Black Jerry.

DURING that friendship he, Hodder, had never lost the sense of being the stronger of the two, of being leaned upon; leaned upon by a man whom the world feared and hated, and whom he had been unable to regard with anything but compassion and the unquestionable [illegible] which sprang from it. Apparently [illegible] a transition, he slight[illegible] and stood for a [illegible] the darkness gaz[illegible] great white houses that [illegible] the [illegible] sky outline of [illegible] and trees.

At any rate, he wouldn't find that [illegible] tonight. And it steeled him somewhat to think, as he resumed his steps, that he would meet now the other side, the hard side hitherto always turned away. Had he needed no other warning of this, the answer to his note asking for an appointment would have been enough—a brief and formal communication signed by the banker's secretary. . . .

"Mr. Parr is engaged just at present, sir," said the servant who opened the door. "Would you be good enough to step into the library?"

Hardly had he entered the room when he heard a sound behind him, and turned to confront Alison. The thought of her, too, had complicated infinitely his emotions concerning the interview before him, and the sight of her now, of her mature beauty displayed in evening dress, of her white throat gleaming whiter against the severe black of her gown, made him literally speechless. Never had he accused her of boldness, and now least of all. It was the quality of her splendid courage that was borne in upon him once more above the host of other feelings and impressions, for he read in her eyes a knowledge of the meaning of his visit.

"Mr. Langmaid is with him now," she said, in a low voice.

Her eyes still rested on his face, questioningly, appraisingly, as though she were seeking to estimate his preparedness for the ordeal before him, his ability to go through with it successfully, triumphantly. And in her mention of Langmaid he recognized that she had meant to sound a note of warning. She had intimated a consultation of the captains, a council of war. And yet he had never spoken to her of this visit. The proof of her partisanship, that she had come to him at the crucial instant, overwhelmed him.

"You know why I am here?" he managed to say. It had to do with the extent of her knowledge.

"Oh, why shouldn't I?" she cried, "after what you have told me. And could you think I didn't understand, from the beginning, that it meant this?"

"It was inevitable," he said.

"Yes, it was inevitable," she assented, and walked slowly to the mantel, resting her hand on it and bending her head. "I felt that you would not shirk it, and yet I realise how painful it must be to you."

"And to you," he replied quickly.

"Yes, and to me. I do not know what you know, specifically,—I have never sought to find out things, in detail. That would be horrid. But I understand—in general—I have understood for many years." She raised her head, and flashed him a glance that was between a quivering smile and tears. "And I know that you have certain specific information."

He could only wonder at her intuition.

"So far as I am concerned, it is not for the world," he answered.

"Oh, I appreciate that in you!" she exclaimed. "I wished you to know," she added, a little unsteadily, "how much I admire you for what you are doing. They are afraid of you—they will crush you if they can."

He did not reply.

"But you are going to speak the truth," she continued, her voice low and vibrating, "that is splendid! It must have its effect, no matter what happens."

"Do you feel that?" he asked, taking a step toward her.

"Yes. When I see you, I feel it, I think." . . .

Whatever answer he might have made to this was frustrated by the appearance of the figure of Nelson Langmaid in the doorway. He seemed to survey them benevolently through his spectacles.

"How are you, Hodder? Well, Alison, I have to leave without seeing anything of you—you must induce your father not to bring his business home with him. Just a word," he added to the rector, "before you go up."

Hodder turned to Alison. "Good night," he said.

Is Pity Akin to Love?

A QUESTION THAT INTERESTS EVERY GIRL

By Beatrice Fairfax

Who Occupies a Unique Position as a Writer on Romance and Its Problems

"WHAT am I to do?" pleaded Mildred. I don't love Charlie Blayne and yet I've let myself drift into an engagement with him. I want to get out of it, but I don't know what to do."

"Tell him the truth," I advised as if it were the simplest thing in the world.

"That's just what I can't possibly do," wailed Mildred. "It would break his heart."

"Hearts don't break," I suggested."

"And were you planning to spend the rest of your life with a man who is too weak to stand up under the truth? Did you fancy for one minute that you could love a man who isn't sturdy enough to make something of his life in spite of all the adverse winds of chance?"

"That's how I got into it," acknowledged Mildred. "I was so sorry for him. He semed to care so tremendously."

"Maybe his caring so much flatered you at first and you encouraged it a wee bit," I suggested.

Mildred stared at me for an angry minute that threatened to break off the entente cordiale between us. Then she set her lips grimly and spoke out with the basic honesty that makes her a fine, lovable girl.

"I did. And I'd like to know why I should—make all that mischief and get off scot free? I guess I ought to pay a bit for—playing with a man's emotions. Charlie's good looking and attractive. Most girls like him and I don't suppose I was above liking the idea of—capturing the prize. Now, if that isn't contemptible, I'd like to know what is."

"Maybe it is," I acknowledged. "But I don't believe it's as bad to drift weakly into a wrong situation as it is to remain stubbornly inside it when once you discover how wrong it is."

"You're just helping me out!" accused Mildred.

"I might be tempted to," I acknowledge. "But this time there's an actual right and wrong about the matter. Have you thought how happy you are likely to make a man you—despise?"

"Do I despise him?" gasped Mildred. "Why, yes, I suppose I must if I think he's too weak to stand on his own two feet without me. I suppose I couldn't offer him a worse insult than to take that attitude."

"And you couldn't offer him a poorer substitute for love than pity," I gave back. "All the talk in the world about their being akin doesn't make pity a safe foundation for a woman's house of love. The man you pity, my dear, is hardly the man in whom you believe. Tenderness, sympathy and understanding are not pity.

"The man you pity sems to you a weakling who's had a bad deal from fate or who isn't possessed of enough character to fight his way out of difficulties. If you marry him, you're likely to be the man of the family. If he lets you without a murmur you'll respect him less than ever. If he struggles for the supremacy he isn't able to fake, you'll live through bickerings and misery."

"He's less to be pitied if I trust him to be man enough to weather the storm of truth—than if I treat him like a baby to be petted and—looked down on?" asked Mildred.

"What do you think?" I asked.

And again I ask: "What do YOU think?"

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

THE students proclaim it a pity that people are thronging the towns and hastening into the city to tackle its ups and downs. But Reuben insists they speak folly, and he cries, with a wave of his arm: "Here's ho! for the town life, so jolly! I will never go back to the farm! Here's ho! for the city's loud clamor, and ho! for the noise and the lights, and likewise the gladness and glamour of living up seventeen flights!" It is fine that Reuben is cheery as he yodles adieu to the cow; but say—won't our planet be dreary when everyone quits raising chow? Then, when everyone takes for his dinner some patent food put up in pills, we will soon see the farmers, grown thinner, hotfooting it back to the hills. For, whatever we say about farming and the fellows that follow the plow, our cares will be truly alarming when everyone stops raising chow! The city of course, its quite splendid; city life is so joyous and gay; but when all the farm labors are ended, what's the use of a foodless cafe?

Bachelor Girl's Reflections

By HELEN ROWLAND

[illegible] 1920 by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

A FASCINATING woman is one who is clever enough to start a man's imagination working—and wise enough to stop there, and let it do its own work.

Somehow, even to a self-sufficient, modern girl, home has a sort of "unfinished" look without a husband in it.

Tell a man that you are vain, silly and frivolous, and he will laugh and ask you to marry him; tell him you are wise, frugal, religious and worthy, and he will shudder and beg you to excuse him.

Somehow, it costs a fearful lot of money for a girl to be simply and fashionably unclothed in these days.

When a man starts bringing flowers to your mother, it may be an encouraging sign; but when he begins referring to her as "that old troublemaker," you can safely decide on your trousseau.

After a man has spent an hour describing the discreet, modest, natural, intelligent kind of girl he admires, it is something of a shock to meet him later with the kind he takes out motoring and to supper.

A man falls in love through his eyes, a woman through her imagination—and then they call it "an affair of the heart."

When you fall in love with a man who is tied to a wife, there MAY be a chance that you will some day marry him; but when you set your heart on one who is wedded to a bachelor flat, a golf club and a collection of habits, your case is hopeless.

Many a man fancies himself a mechanical genius, who hasn't the faintest notion of the fifty-seven varieties of things that can be done with a hairpin.

Unless love is all-silk and solid-color, it is very apt to shrink, fade or frazzle out in the wash of matrimony.

Whose Present Serial Has Scored a Big Popular Success

THE morning after Aunt Mollie's flying visit to Dreamwold Jim and Pat went up to town and the day's work on the "Bankers and Brokers," as the nine-two train is called. I suggested motoring them in, but that brought a snarl from Jim such that I hadn't heard in a kindly while.

"Bad enough to miss a decent train like the eight-twenty-seven, but now you want me to come laddie-dashing into the office in time for lunch if the car doesn't develop engine trouble or bust a tire. In which case I'd be there for tea. I've a day's work to do, Anne, though you don't seem to understand that. And the market opens at ten."

"Quit your grousing," admonished Pat. "And I'll lay you five to one that, like the nice kiddie she is, Anne will drive over to the station with us in her own car and come back with all Virginia's marketing purveyed to the front door."

"Everybody works but Jeanie," laughed Jeanie herself. "But my Patrick knows that after a week-end the chest and the larder are likely to be empty. On Mondays, moreover, the lady of the house likes to do the dusting and the flower cutting for Bertha."

This settled the division of labor and accounted for the fact that Virginia and I didn't meet again until lunch time. I was dreading the humiliating moment when I'd have to acknowledge to Jeanie that Val had forbidden me her room. That was postponed a while longer, for after lunch Jeanie asked me to help her cut the flowers as she hadn't been able to get to them in the forenoon.

A Bit of Promise

It was mid-afternoon before we finished. Then, after separating a fine basket of asters from her booty, Jeanie suggested I take them to Val.

"Your delicate way of suggesting that maybe I've forgotten our invalid?" I challenged her. "It isn't that. She thinks I'm a meddling busybody and yesterday she asked me to get out—and keep out. I'm forbidden her room."

"Some day Val will come to her senses about you," she said without embarrassing discussion. "And then she'll appreciate what it is to know a girl who actually cares enough about other folks' happiness to try to get it back for them when they've thrown it away. In the meantime I'll go up and sit with our appreciative and charming guest while her nurse has her two hours off in the car you furnish, because you're such a spoil-sport and meddler!"

"That's the pleasantest sarcasm I've ever heard," I laughed.

Then, like the thoroughbred she'd shown herself again, Jeanie said no more, and left me to establish myself comfortably in the living room with a pile of new magazines and another pile of new apples.

So it was I who received Lane and Uncle Ned when Bertha ushered them in as quietly as if they'd come from a neighboring estate, instead of across the border from another country.

"How is she?" blurted out Lane, almost in the same breath that both of them greeted me. Then he added, in a tone entirely free from alarm: "Doesn't look much like a hospital annex. Guess you think I'm a big baby to come tearing back because the kiddie has a sprained ankle and a couple of black and blue spots. Don't you?"

"I think you're a devoted husband," I countered, avoiding Uncle Ned's eyes because I suspected he realized there was more amiss than he'd seen fit to tell Lane.

"Well, you weren't a devoted friend, letting her tumble down the river bank!" rumbled Lane in his big brown bear fashion. "Couldn't you have stopped her from going on a cross-country jaunt in those silly high-heeled pumps she will wear? Is that the way you look out for your guests?"

But even as he rumbled out his scoldings he beamed at me unsuspectingly and concluded by ordering me to convey him to his little girl at once. I escorted him to the turn of the hall, pointed to Val's door and then fled back to Uncle Ned. I was convinced that he and I had a few things to say to each other.

"Where's my bride?" he demanded, rising with courtly dignity as I came back to the room. "Surely, Mollie didn't stay up there to chaperone the reunion."

Lane Appears

"She not in Val's room. She isn't here at all. She was down yesterterday but she felt she had to be back to Lacy Willoughby."

"That isn't like any Mollie," replied Uncle Ned, shaking his head in perplexity. "I telegraphed her to fling a few odds and ends into a bag and go to our Val at once. Mollie never fails me. I don't understand."

"Seeing Val upset her," I replied.

"But Jim said our little girl wasn't badly hurt. Is poor little Lacy in dangerous shape?" demanded Uncle Ned.

"No. Aunt Mollie was just upset!" I floundered, torn between what I wasn't supposed to know and what I surmised about Aunt Mollie's probable desire to protect Val, even from dear old Uncle Ned. "And she wasn't exactly—prepared to stay."

"That's funny. I told Mollie to bring a bag. Doesn't your sister-in-law hanker after so much company?"

"Virginia adored Aunt Mollie. She wanted her—she begged her—to stay!" I replied defensively and then backed down, regretting the heat that had committed me too far. "But Aunt Mollie said she had to carry Val's bag. And I suppose, not being sure she's got taxis all the time when she needed them, she didn't want two bags in case she had to carry them."

"That's a great speech, Anne. And I can see you mean to reassure me," replied Uncle Ned, fixing his shrewd eyes on me with a craving for the truth, which made them shine fiercely under his beetling brows. "But what I want to know is why my bride didn't stand by the girl we both love—seeing as how the girl was hurt bad enough, as Jim shouts across a national boundary to get us back to her? What are you trying to hide?"

"I'm not trying to hide anything," I stammered. "I must go find Jeanie and tell her you're here. And order some tea."

There on the threshold stood Lane.

CAN INOCULATION CURE PLANT DISEASE?—Experiments under way at the Agricultural Experimental Station at Harpenden, England, are convincing experts that inoculation of the soil will prevent plant disease and thus increase the nature food supply. It has already been proven that even bacteria can be killed by other types of bacteria. Photo shows interior of experimental station. (Int.)

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

A well known resident of Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been a barber for more than forty years, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the most delicate scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—Advertisement.

Suffered with Piles for Years

Now 88 Years Old But Works At Trade of Blacksmith and Feels Younger Since Piles Are Gone

The oldest active blacksmith in Michigan is still pounding his anvil in the town of Homer—thanks to my internal method of treating piles.

Mr. Jacob Lyon, Homer, Mich.

I wish that you could hear him tell of his many experiences with ointments, salves, dilators, etc., before he tried my method. Here is a letter just received from him:

Mr. E. R. Page, Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir: I want you to know what your treatment has done for me. I had suffered with piles for many years and used suppositories and all kinds of treatments, but never got relief until I tried yours. Am now completely cured. Although I am 88 years old, and the oldest active blacksmith in Michigan, I feel years younger since the piles have left me. I will surely recommend it to all I know who suffer this way. You can use my letter any way you wish and I hope it will lead others to try this wonderful remedy.
Yours truly,
J. L. LYON.

There are thousands of afflicted people suffering with piles who have never yet tried the one sensible way of treating them.

SIMPLE APPLICATION THAT DISSOLVES BLACKHEADS

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those unsightly blemishes, blackheads. There is one simple, safe and sure way to get them out and that is to dissolve them. To do this just get about two ounces of calonite powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub briskly over the blackheads for a few seconds—wash the parts and every blackhead will be gone.

Pinching and squeezing out blackheads make large pores and you cannot get all of the blackheads out this way—while this simple application of calonite powder and water dissolves every particle of them and leaves the skin and pores in their natural condition. Any druggist will sell you the calonite powder and about two ounces will be all you will ever need.—Advertisement.

How You Can Make Hairs Quickly Disappear

(Helps to Beauty)

Even a stubborn growth of hair will quickly vanish from the face, neck or arms after a single treatment with delatone. To remove hair from arms, neck or face make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after about two minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left free from hair or blemish. To avoid disappointment, be quite certain you get real delatone and mix fresh.—Advertisement.

GROSS INCOME TAX DEFINED

Every Dollar Received by Taxpayer in 1920 Must Show in Return

Numerous inquiries have been received by the Bureau of Internal Revenue concerning the items to be included under "gross income" in the 1920 income tax returns.

Correct understanding of the term is of paramount importance to the taxpayer, as it is the basis upon which the return is made.

Income is defined by the revenue act to include "gains, profits and incomes derived from salaries, wages or personal compensation, or from professions, vocations, trades, business, commerce or sales or dealings in property; also from interest, rents, dividends, securities or in the transaction of any business carried on for gain or profit, and income derived from any source whatsoever.

In arriving at net income, upon which the tax is assessed, the taxpayer is allowed certain specified deductions, such as business expenses, losses and depreciation, which will be fully explained later.

WAGE EARNER'S RETURN.

Taxpayers may be divided into four general classes—the wage earner or salaried class, business, professional, and agricultural. Any form of compensation for personal services rendered by the wage earner is income, including salaries, wages, commissions, fees and bonuses, pensions paid retired employes and tips.

Payment for personal services may be paid for partly in cash and partly in board and lodging. In this event a fair value must be placed on the room and meals and the amount reported as income.

Promissory notes received in payment for services, and not merely as security for such payments, constitute income to the amount of their fair market value. When services are paid for in something other than money, the fair market value of the thing taken in payment is the amount to be included as income.

GROSS BUSINESS INCOME.

If the services were rendered at a stipulated price, in the absence of evidence to the contrary such price will be presumed to be the fair value of the compensation received. Compensation credited to a taxpayer's account and subject to withdrawal must be reported as income whether actually received or not.

The gross income of the usual business consists of the gross profit on sales, together with income from other sources. The return must show the gross sales, purchases, and cost of goods sold. To reflect net income correctly and to ascertain gross income inventories are necessary at the beginning and end of each taxable year.

The lawyer, doctor, architect, actor, author, dentist, clergyman, and other professional man must include in his return of gross income all fees, salaries, and other compensation for professional services.

RETURN BY FARMERS.

The farmer is required to report as gross income all profits derived from the sale or exchange of farm products, including crops and live stock, whether produced on the farm or purchased and resold.

Where farm produce is exchanged for groceries, merchandise or other articles the fair market value of the article must be reported as income.

A farmer who rents his farm on the crop-share basis must report such income for the year in which the crops are sold. Profit derived from the sale or rental of farm lands must be reported.

Within the meaning of the revenue act the term "farm" includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit and truck farms; also ranches, plantations and all land used for farming operations. Individuals, partnerships or corporations that operate or manage farms for profit, either as owners or tenants, are designated farmers.

STOCK DIVIDENDS EXEMPT.

Cash dividend on stock. The Supreme Court decided in March, 1920, that stock dividends are not taxable. Profits from the sale of such stock, however, are taxable income for the year in which received. Only dividends paid out of earnings or profits accrued since March 1, 1913, are taxed.

Profits received from the sale of property, real or personal. If the property was purchased prior to March 1, 1913, the profit is based on the difference between the selling price and the fair market price or value as of March 1, 1913.

Partnership profits; partnerships as such are not subject to the income tax, but each individual partner must pay a tax on the income from such partnership. Partnerships are required to render a return on form 1065.

Royalties from mines, oil and gas wells, copyrights and franchises. Income received from fiduciaries; that is, amounts received from incomes of estates, trusts, etc., through trustees, administrators, and executors.

600 TAKE EXAMINATION FOR MOTOR EXAMINERS

More than 600 men today took the civil service examinations for appointment to the position of examiner and investigator in the State Department of Motor Vehicle Registration. The examiners will have charge of the branch offices to be established throughout the State by Registrar Frank A. Goodwin to facilitate the examination of applicants for motor-vehicle licenses. It is estimated that about twenty successful applicants will be appointed.

IN NEW ROLE

LEO DITRICHSTEIN.

DITRICHSTEIN ON 'VACATION'

Talented Actor Says 'The Purple Mask' Affords Relief From Serious Roles

By FRED J. McISAAC.

In a chat with Grant Mitchell recently he told me that he would rather be an actor than an author; that an actor had the last say as to the way a line would be read, while the author had to suffer someone else to make or mar his work.

Leo Ditrichstein is in the enviable position of being both an actor and an author. He is also a producer, a manager and a business man. He is very good at counting tickets.

One of my earliest recollections as a theatre goer was looking at Leo Ditrichstein act in Leo Ditrichstein's play, "Are You a Mason?" If that was not a quarter of a century ago I will undertake to eat my weatherbeaten chapeau.

NEW PLAY A VACATION.

And yet every evening and two matinees per week Leo Ditrichstein may be seen cavorting in "The Purple Mask" at the Plymouth, still a gallant lover and a rather youthful looking one.

In his apartment at the Touraine I chatted yesterday with this artist of so many sides, and I began by congratulating him upon the success of his latest production, "The Purple Mask." You understand Ditrichstein did not write this play. He found it in the French, somebody else fitted it into English, and all he did was fix it up so that it became a popular hit.

"Oh, yes," said Ditrichstein, with something that looked like a wry grimace, "they like it. It seems to please them."

"Don't you like it?"

"For me," said the actor, "it is a vacation. I am playing, not working. It is a new role for me, and it is not so trying as a part like the Marquis of Priola, but—

HE FOOLED DETROIT.

"There's the artist," said Mrs. Ditrichstein, who sat placidly sewing by the window. "He'd rather stagger home exhausted from the emotion of Priola than have a good time in a good jolly play."

"It isn't that," said Ditrichstein, in that slow, musical voice of his. "The 'Purple Mask' is a very good play of its type, but it is a motion picture, really. It is so full of shifts, changes and slam bang scenes that there is little time for serious acting. And yet I enjoy the public, and I love to give it a good time.

"It's a good thing for you to play something except curious character parts," said his better half.

Ditrichstein grinned. "They think I am a highbrow in lots of places. Detroit is a town where my plays don't ordinarily go, but with 'The Purple Mask,' I agreed to play Detroit." Ha, ha, he chuckled. "I fooled them. Every show in Detroit sells out the opening night, but I didn't. They stayed away from me until the papers told them I had a melodrama. And then they came in droves."

LIKES TO CREATE NEW ROLES.

"Don't you get tired playing a role a long time, Mr. Ditrichstein?"

"Oh, yes. When I do I stop playing the role and play a new one. I have shelved several of my plays which were still profitable because I did not want my art to stand still. I wanted to study and create. I love to create a new and interesting personality. And one of the reasons I have translated so many plays is that I find European playwrights more interesting in creating new and unusual characters than American playwrights.

"The American people don't like talk, they like action. They don't care for philosophy so much as Europeans and they don't care so much what the characters in a play are as what they do. I find these interesting characters in European plays and then I make them do something to please the Americans, that's what we call adapting a play."

And as Leo Ditrichstein is the author of more than thirty plays, many of them translated and adapted from the Hungarian, German, French and Spanish, he knows what he is talking about.

PLAN $50,000 A MILE ROAD FOR NORTH ADAMS

North Adams, Jan. 13.—Between $45,000 and $50,000 per mile will be expended for a new model concrete highway to be constructed by the State from the Boston & Maine trestle on Ashland street, to Hodge's crossing, according to information from the Highway Commission, received by Mayor Harvey A. Gallup. There is also a possibility of rebuilding the highway from Hodge's crossing to a point where it joins the road from Adams.

Adams Council Elects

Adams, Jan. 13.—John Loftus has been elected president of the local branch of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, which has just been formed here.

WOMEN FIGHTING INFERIOR COAL

Home Makers' Bill Fixes Standard and Punishes the Offending Dealers

A drive against dealers who are making illegal profits by taking advantage of the needs of the community has been inaugurated. It is headed by Dr. Adelaide N. Abbott, chairman of the Coal Committee of the Home Makers' section of the League of Women Voters.

Dr. Abbott, who has made an intimate study of the coal situation, will present in behalf of her committee, a bill to the State Legislature this month, asking that a standard be fixed for all coal used for domestic purposes, and providing punishment for dealers who sell poor coal.

AROUSED BY POOR QUALITY.

"It is encouraging to note that Mr. Hultman realizes the 'mixtures' for which housewives are paying $16.50 a ton," said Dr. Abbott. "Three years ago, when there was such a coal shortage, I watched old people and children, with sleds, boxes on wheels and not on wheels, tugging away their few pounds of coal, which they had waited hours in line for, freezing as they waited. Then, first, the complaint of poor coal came to my attention.

"This year I had my own experience. My coal, which was ordered, did not come, and I was forced to buy two ordinary twenty-five-pound bags of coal to keep my kitchen range going. Out of that fifty pounds were slate, stone and 'bone,' so-called. I leave it to anybody—isn't 40 per cent. of a portion of coal too large a proportion to be perfectly useless as fuel?

"Now just another experience of my own. Two years ago the coal delivered was of such poor quality that the company which sold it to me took it back. They then delivered more, which they said was the best on the wharf, and which proved to contain 30 per cent. of refuse. The condition is the same everywhere, and the condition is shocking.

MUST LABEL INFERIOR COAL.

"This coal now being sold, one of my neighbors complains, burns so poorly in her kitchen that her cook has to build three fires a day—for breakfast, dinner and lunch. Think of the waste in woman's effort that means. Think of the large amount of fuel consumed in a day. This is wholesale robbery on the part of the coal magnates responsible, and it is a robbery which all free women should rebel against.

"Accordingly the coal committee of the Home Makers' Department of the League of Women Voters are going to push their coal bill at this sitting of the Legislature. The bill provides that the quality of coal shall be under the jurisdiction of the State Bureau of Standards. Unless inferior coal is sold as second quality, at second quality price, there will be a penalty. The bill reads: 'No anthracite coal shall be sold or offered for sale, for domestic purposes in this Commonwealth which contains more than 8 per cent. by weight of slate, bone or other impurities, in sizes known as domestic sizes, or more than 10 per cent. in chestnut coal, or more than 12 per cent in pea coal.'

"To enforce this, jurisdiction will be with the Bureau of Standards at the State House; all coal dealers, even street peddlers, will be licensed; any purchaser may have coal, previous to delivery, inspected by the State bureau for one dollar a ton; the price will be adjusted when the coal is not up to the standard; and the committee may suspend the dealer's license when his coal is found continually inferior.

"This is the gist of our bill. And it behooves all good women, interested in the decent running of their homes to make known the coal abuses under which, for three years now, they have labored. Just say this to the powers—'you complain that transportation in coal matters makes prices high and coal hard to get. Well, then, why pay for transporting a commodity 20 to 40 per cent. of which is not coal, but refuse?' Ask them that. Then listen to their reply. And make yourself felt at the State House. The abuses cry aloud for some alleviation."

WATERWORKS EXPERTS ELECT C. W. SHERMAN

Charles W. Sherman of Belmont was elected president at the annual meeting of the New England Waterworks Association in the Copley Square Hotel. Frank A. Barbour of Boston, Percy R. Sanders of New York, R. J. Newsom of Lynn, Patrick Gear of Holyoke and George A. Carpenter of Pawtucket were elected vice-presidents. F. J. Gifford of Dedham was chosen secretary and Lewis M. Bancroft of Reading, treasurer.

ONE-MAN TROLLEY CARS TO RUN ON CONCORD LINE

One-man cars, the first to be operated on the line, will during the coming week be placed in operation on the Concord line of the Lexington branch of the Middlesex and Boston Street Railway. A safety device has been installed in the cars so that a passenger may stop the trolley should anything happen to the operator.

PRISONER FLEES DEER ISLAND, WARNING GIVEN

On the behavior of prisoners at Deer Island for the next few days will depend whether or not the honor system suggested by Thomas Mott Osborne will be adopted, according to Institutions Commissioner Thomas C. O'Brien. The statement was made following the escape of a prisoner.

WIFE FINDS MILL INSPECTOR DEAD

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 13.—Abraham Asselin, fifty-eight years old, was found dead in a chair by his wife only a few minutes after he returned from work as cloth inspector at the Amoskeag Mills.

Bank Officers Dance

More than 1,300 attended the annual dance of the Bank Officers' Association at the Copley-Plaza Hotel. Frank W. Bryant, chairman of the committee on arrangements, was in charge, assisted by Howard Burge, president, and Edward Kittredge, secretary. The matrons were Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Kittredge, Mrs. George F. Bartlett and Mrs. W. Willett.

ROB 8 COTTAGES IN WEYMOUTH

$1,000 Worth of Property Taken; Doors and Windows Smashed by Thieves

Eight residences have been entered and goods valued at $1,000 taken in Weymouth during the past few days, according to a report made public by the Weymouth police today. Several other Summer cottages in the Lake View Park and Lakewood Grove section are believed to have been entered, but the police have been unable to communicate with the owners who spend the Winters in the South and other sections of the country.

Doors and windows have been broken down in order to gain entrance to the cottages. The buildings are in a woods nearly a half mile from the residential section of the town, bordering on Whitman's Pond and it was several days before the breaks were reported.

The U. S. Supreme Court and Social Justice

It is evident from recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court that the Federal judges intend to destroy the Clayton act so far as it gives any benefit to labor, just as they have destroyed the Sherman Anti-Trust law so far as it gives any benefits to the public.

The Duplex Press case just decided was, briefly this: A strike of organized labor, involving less than twoscore men in a press manufactory, had failed. The union, desiring to force a closed shop, then persuaded the International Union of Machinists, 60,000 strong, to forbid its members throughout the country to operate any Duplex presses. This was a secondary boycott.

When the right of injunction was claimed in court by the press builder, the union sought the protection of the Clayton act, which excludes labor organizations from the application of the Anti-Trust law, on the ground that human labor is not a commodity.

The Federal Court and the District Court of Appeals sustained the labor union. But the United States Supreme Court now finally reverses the lower courts, and finds that this product of labor was a commodity and that the union had unlawfully restrained trade. We do not state the language of the decision, to which three judges (Holmes, Clarke and Brandeis) dissented, but only its effect.

We believe the decision was morally right as to secondary boycotts. We believe that the boycott and the black-list—the first as used by labor, the second as used by capital—are both contrary to the public welfare, and therefore, in the long run, injurious to both labor and capital. We believe that both should be prohibited and be punishable by imprisonment.

But, is it fair for the Supreme Court to enforce the Anti-Trust law against labor when it has repeatedly refused to enforce it against capital in the Coal Trust and other cases? Is it right to make the law rigidly punitive in one case and, in another, to decline to enforce the plain language of the statute because the court does not happen to approve the policy?

The Federal courts have by several decisions, particularly during the war, struck harder blows at the principle of democracy in America than have befallen popular government in any other country in the same period.

If the war was really fought to make the world safe for democracy, it is certain that Germany's triumph would have speedily compelled some of our judges, many of our capitalists and our pro-English to become pro-German, because these classes always favor the side that seems most powerful, regardless of moral considerations.

By interpretation the highest court has deliberately so beclouded the Anti-Trust law that even the ablest lawyer can now only guess what any lower court will think it means. As for freedom of speech and the right of peaceable assembly, the highest court is divided as to a plain mandate of the Constitution, the majority holding that our forefathers did not mean what they said.

Ex-President Taft recently let slip the statement that the selections of Supreme Court justices by the President are political appointments, and have for years been made with a view to the known political and economic views of the men selected or to their personal bias.

Mr. Harding's responsibility will be heavier than any recent President has borne, for he will have four new justices to appoint.

There is no greater danger to the peaceful growth and evolution of this country, and the progress of liberty under the law, than political judges who usurp the right to govern the country without responsibility and against the popular will.

We do not want anybody who reads this to think that the judges themselves are corruptible, or unpatriotic.

They are not. But many of them—a majority, perhaps, of the present nine judges in the United States Supreme Court—live in the past. This has been a good world to them, its ways are agreeable to them, and they do not wish them changed.

Their patriotism misleads them into taking too much responsibility in resisting progress. Those with whom they most associate regard the rights of property as of greater importance than social justice. They are encouraged to believe themselves the Argus-eyed guardians of the existing social fabric.

The American courts, intended by the founders of the Republic only to interpret and enforce the laws, have thus come to MAKE laws, or to NULLIFY LAWS WHICH THEY DO NOT APPROVE. This power is as inconsistent with the principles of democracy and as dangerous to liberty as was the old slave power before the Civil War.

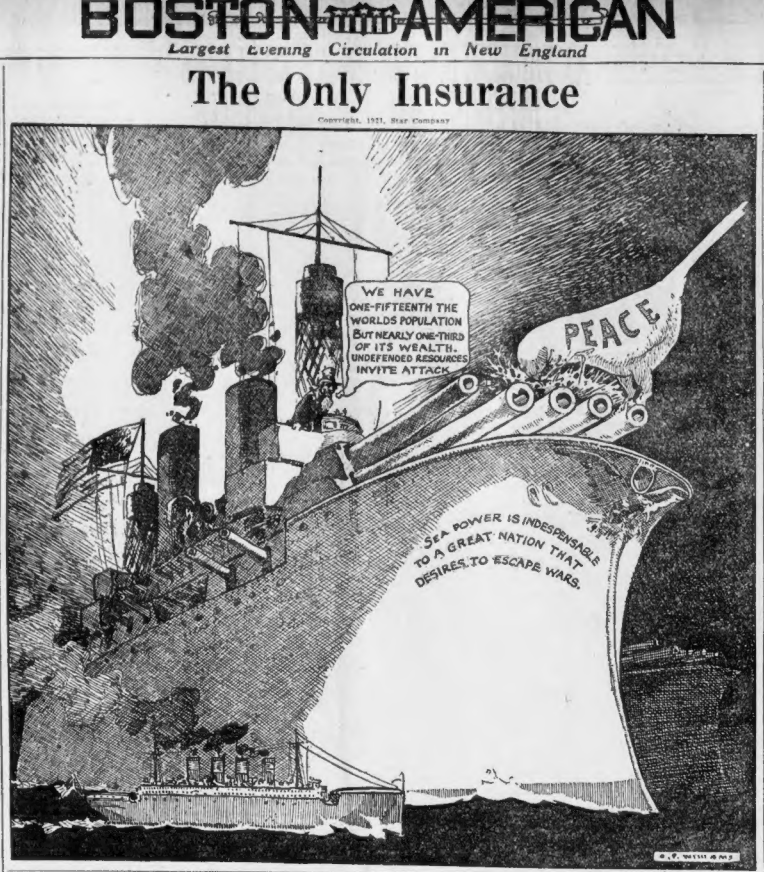
Perhaps the quickest way to cure it is to let it become more arrogant, in order that it may become intolerable.

Report Against Municipal Housing Lacks Evidence

We are not much impressed by the confession and avoidance character of the Mayor's committee report on the plan to meet our housing shortage by municipal building. One of the naive objections advanced by the committee to the proposal that the city relieve the congestion by building more houses as a municipal enterprise, is that in England, where as usual they have more courage and economic initiative, and where they actually did undertake to relieve the shortage in housing by public construction—that in England the houses supplied by the public were regarded as a kind of charitable institution and suffered from that taint.

No evidence was vouchsafed to support this statement. It is improbable on its face. There is no more reason why anybody should consider that the taking of a municipal house and paying rent for it is a matter of charity than that of riding on the Boston Elevated Railway and paying fare is a matter of charity. It is still less a matter of charity than sending the children to the public schools, or spending a Sunday afternoon in the public parks, or taking books out of the public library, or drawing from your faucets the water which the city brings to you from the public water supplies thirty miles away, or having the city take away your sewerage in pipes the city has built, or having it take away your garbage or your ashes.

The Only Insurance



Fifteen Million Starving Chinese Ask for Food

Contribute Today to the Famine Fund—One Dollar Will Save a Life. How Many Lives Will You Save?

A terrible famine has begun to destroy the Chinese people by the million. The American Minister at Pekin reports, after investigations conducted by American missionaries and business men, that at least 15,000,000 people are threatened with death. He reports also that Americans and other Occidental Nationals, uniting with Chinese citizens, have organized efficient volunteer relief committees, so that all relief will promptly reach the actual sufferers. He further reports that sufficient food supplies are available in Manchuria, and that the great need is money, and that at once.

The only people capable of furnishing this money in sufficient quantity is the American people. The nations of Europe have heavy burdens of their own to bear. The Chinese government is helpless, having no stable income of its own. The Governors of the several provinces are independent of the central government, and unaccustomed to cooperate either with the government at Pekin or with each other. Well-to-do Chinese citizens will undoubtedly contribute to the relief work, but their number is few and their ability small, however generous their disposition.

It follows that if the dying millions in China are to be saved, it is the American people who must save them.

We, the undersigned, having accepted service in this cause for Massachusetts, in accordance with President Wilson's request, have selected as treasurer Kidder, Peabody & Co., No. 115 Devonshire street, Boston, and as chairman of the executive committee Mr. MacGregor Jenkins, No. 8 Arlington street, Boston. Inquiries may be addressed to Mr. Jenkins. Checks should be drawn to the order of Kidder, Peabody & Co., for the Chinese Famine Fund.

We urge immediate contributions, large and small, in spite of the numerous contemporaneous claims on American charity and good will. The American Minister in Pekin says that one dollar a month will take care of one person, and that this care will be needed until the next harvest. Let every man in Massachusetts ask himself, "How many lives can I, out of my plenty, save in China?"

Dr. James L. Barton, Director American Commission for Relief in the Near East.

Robert Winsor, of Kidder, Peabody & Co.

Ellery Sedgwick, Editor of The Atlantic Monthly.

George R. Nutter, President Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Galen L. Stone, of Hayden, Stone & Co.

More Truth Than Poetry

A Cheerful Note from Pinkneyville

By S. E. KISER

Abner Page's second daughter has got married off at last;
Caught some feller from the city, and is gone, we hope, to stay;
Every young man's mother's happy since the day she went away;
I've no word to say agin her; she was not so much to blame,
But if my boy had fell for her, I'd of thrashed him, just the same.

ORVILLE HENDERSON is hopeful; he allows the outlook's bright;
Pickering Doolittle thinks improvement is in sight;

Everybody got to grumblin' at conditions here and there;
Taxes still are purty heavy, but they'll cut them down, I guess;
Folks are gettin' back to reason, and our clothes are costin' less;
Looks as though there's mighty little cause for any one to whine;
We have had an easy Winter, and the hens are layin' fine.

EVERYBODY'S talkin' cheerful, and there's reason that they should;
She was slandered by the women; wasn't none to take her part;
Might have been a little flighty, but, I guess, was good at heart;
Yes, she's went away and left us—married to some city gent—

Love of Dress Saved Her Life

WOMAN'S much-maligned interest in dress and finery has just played an important part in saving the life of a beautiful young society girl of Philadelphia. Miss Joan Lippincott has just awakened from a sleep of 120 days and nights—one of the longest naps on record. Physicians declare that her interest in beautiful dresses prevented her death by helping to bring her out of the deep lethargy in which she had lain for 3,120 hours.

Miss Lippincott suffered from one of the most mysterious and baffling diseases with which medicine has to contend—a disease of which the germ has not yet been isolated. From time to time a flush of consciousness would come to the sick girl. Then she would sink back into sleep again. Physicians said that nothing would save her unless her interest in life could be awakened.

So, whenever the girl's mind cleared for an instant, her nurse would wave before her eyes some bright dress or glittering jewel—anything to catch and hold the attention. Recovery began gradually at first and then more rapidly. Now she is out of danger.

From the observations which were made of her case much has been learned of the dread disease. The Boston Sunday Advertiser presents next Sunday a graphic story of Miss Lippincott's case, with the conclusions of medical men concerning it.

Few American girls have ever stood by while their father, brothers and mother were murdered in cold blood; nor wounded, have they feigned death in order to escape a like fate. Yet it has not been the uncommon experience of Jewish girls in Bolsheviki Russia.

Rebecca Meladman, aged sixteen, has just come to America, her right arm only a shattered stump, with a tale of blood-curdling cruelty and wanton murder to tell the civilized world. Her story is of a Russian pogrom—an orgy of Jew-killing—and of the wiping out of her entire family at the hands of bloodthirsty soldiers.

Audrey Munson, most famous of American artists' models, continues this week in the Magazine Section her fascinating account of life in the best-known art studios of New York. The coming instalment tells of two prominent debutantes who posed, undraped, for a painting which stirred the entire world of art. Read this feature in the Boston Sunday Advertiser weekly.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
SECRETARY OF the Navy,
WASHINGTON, D. C.
MY DEAR Josephus.
SO FAR as I'm concerned,
THIS HERE balloon trip
UP TO James Bay.
CAN BE the last.
FOR ALL of me.
FOR HERE I am,
STRUGGLING ALONG.
TO MAKE a living.
AND EVERY three months,
SENDING MONEY.
TO LARGE Will Edwards,
FOR INCOME taxes.
AND PAYING my share.
OF ALL the expense.
OF RUNNING the country.
AND FIRST thing I know,
I READ in the paper.
THAT THREE of the men,
WE'RE PAYING wages to,
HAVE BEEN sent away.
IN A good balloon.
THAT COST a lot of money
AND THAT don't allow.
AND NOBODY knows.
WHERE THEY'RE going to.
AND THEY'RE all fitted up.
WITH THERMOS bottles,
AT $3 each,
AND OTHER things.
AND THEY throw them out.
SO THEY can keep up.
AND GET in a storm.
AND CAN'T land.
AND KEEP on going.
AND FINALLY,
BECAUSE EVERY-THING that goes up.
HAS TO come down.
THEY COME down.
IN A God-forsaken country,
AND WANDER around.
FOR FOUR days.
AND NEARLY starve.
AND WALK 200 miles.
TO GET back.
AND LOST the balloon.
AND ALL the thermos bottles,
AND EVERYTHING.
AND I ask you, Josephus,
WHAT IT'S all about

I THANK you.

The government's proposition to abolish the tax on excess profits and increase the tax on incomes indicates that the government sticks to its theory that a man who works for a salary ought to be fined.

GARRETT P. SERVISS' ARTICLE

Boy's Indefinite Question About Characteristics of Air Shows He Is Victim of Mistaken System of Instruction in Schools

By Garrett P. Serviss

HERE is a letter from a schoolboy which throws considerable light on the causes of the disappointment which parents frequently feel over the failure of their children to make progress in their studies:

"Would I be imposing on your generosity by asking a question of you that is very important in my examination and which I can find no definition of? The question is the following: 'From what may we ascertain the chief characteristics of air?—M. E. P."

That question—"From what may we ascertain the chief characteristics of air?"—bears all the earmarks of the system of teaching and learning by rote which is the bane of the schools. Manifestly such a question cannot be answered in any other way than by a pat-repeated repetition of some phrase or statement which the examinee is supposed to have committed to memory (and neither the learning nor the repeating of which will do him any good).

It is a safe wager that the examiner was looking for just that kind of answer and no other. This is plain because the question as it stands has no essential relation to its subject matter.

No Way to Do It

There is no way to ascertain the chief characteristics of air. The question lacks definiteness and only loads the pupil into confusion of mind. If the intention was to have him reply: "By observation and analysis," or some such general statement, then the question is inept. It makes no suggestion of any value. The same reply would equally fit a hundred other similar questions. "From a book," would be a fair answer to all of them! An examination ought never to be a test of verbal memory—unless it relates to a language that is being learned, or something of that kind. The examinee ought never to be more the teacher than when he is questioning his pupils to test their progress. He ought never to be more limpid, more carefully and absolutely clear, direct, and definite in word, sentence and suggestion than then. An examination properly conducted should be the crown of the educational process.

To go back to the question in hand, in order to see how pointless it is let us inquire what are some of the characteristics of air. It is a characteristic of air that it is composed of a mixture of different gases. It is a characteristic of air that in ordinary circumstances it is a fluid and not a liquid, although it can be made liquid by special processes. It is a characteristic of air that it is a poor conductor of electricity. It is a characteristic of air that it has weight, and produces pressure and friction, and yet is invisible. It is a characteristic of air that although it has the property of illimitable expansibility, yet it yields to gravitation and is held in an atmospheric shell around the earth.

Common Properties

It is a characteristic of air that it exercises a buoyant force on all bodies immersed in it. It is a characteristic of air that it supports combustion and is essential to the maintenance of the life of the animal part of the organisms inhabiting the earth, and so on.

Yet many of these properties and qualities are shared by other gaseous substances and the ascertainment of them would involve methods similar to those that would be applied to air, so that they have no characteristic relation to the latter. It would have been pertinent to ask what are the chief characteristics of air; or, how is it proved that air is a mixture of various gases; or, what part does air play in the support of animal life, etc., for such questions have a definite point and recall definite facts.

It is sometimes affirmed that children in classes must be taught by rote, or by the method of learning statements by heart, because there is not time to instruct them in any other way. But I doubt the truth of that. It is the most wearing, uninteresting, unintellectual, of all methods of study or of learning. It may be easier for teachers—for some teachers—as to that I do not know, but it ought not to be easier for anybody, and never is for a teacher who is interested in his subject and earnest in his work.

Tell the pupils what air is made of, and what part it plays in everyday life; give them plenty of simple laboratory experiments of a spectacular nature, on a scale which all can see and appreciate. Show them motion pictures of balloon rooms, aeroplanes, mountain climbers, workers in caissons and mines; give them, in connection with these things, the most humanly interesting statements of facts that you can think of, and don't be afraid of sensation provided only that it is simple truth and fact that creates the sensation; and then you will never be tempted to ask them stupidly generalized questions, through whose fog only a memorized clew can lead them.
